Greek Monarch Flees, Junta Crushes Revolt

ATHENS (AP)—Greece's military regime crushed today the last remnants of a countercoup led by King Constantine and began a roundup of suspected royalist officers and rightist politicians.

The 27-year-old king, stripped of his power and his day-old dream of ousting the military government shattered, fled to Rome with his family. He had no comment.

Col. George Papadopoulos, strong man of the military regime and now premier, announced in a broadcast that Lt. Gen. George Zoitakis, undersecretary of national defense, had been installed as regent.

Papadopoulos later told reporters the constitutional monarchy would be preserved and the king had voluntarily surrendered his functions.

Greeks learned for the first time late in the day that their king had fled. Papadopoulos' news conference was broadcast by Athens radio reporting the royal family, Premier Constantine Kollias and some officers had flown secretly to Rome.

In an early morning broadcast, Papadopoulos declared that the "antinationalist conspiracy has been crushed. The conspirators have been ousted."

Less than 24 hours after Constantine called Wednesday on his people to revolt against the ruling colonels in Athens, troops and armored carriers that had ringed the junta headquarters in the Parliament building, were removed. However, armed guards continued to stand outside defense headquarters on the outskirts of the capital.

Military units in northern Greece had been reported siding with the king, but the only reported fighting on the mainland was at Elefsis air force base southwest of Athens. Two army captains attempting to board a plane there for northern Greece were reported shot by troops loyal to the government, and clashes between air force and army units followed. Two buildings caught fire in the fighting.

Fighting also was reported on the Greek island of Crete, scene of the only armed resistance to the junta's takeover eight months ago.

Reports said the king was with the 3rd Armored Army Corps, based in the north, when he appealed to the nation to rebel. Athens Radio said today the commander of the corps, Gen. George Peridis, was among three army generals arrested by the junta.

Widespread arrests of right-wing politicians also were reported in Athens.

The capital was calm today, and people hurried to work as usual. But the government ordered all banks and the stock exchange closed to avert financial panic.

Reports from northern Greece were sketchy because the area was cut off from Athens by road and by telephone. But Athens Radio announced today it had restored radio communications with stations in the north.

It was not immediately known what would happen to military units—reportedly including parts of the air force—that had sided with the king. The junta was reported offering the dissident units an amnesty in an attempt to avoid bloodshed and restore unity.

Premier Constantine Kollias, the civilian government head named by the colonels who seized power last April 21, accompanied the royal family to Rome after Papadopoulos supplanted him.

Papadopoulos, the new government chief in name as well as in fact, broadcast thanks to the Greek armed forces and Greek people for standing by his government.

One of Costliest

Viet Week: 595 Allies Dead

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) — The Allied commands in South Vietnam announced casualty figures today showing that last week was one of the costliest of the year for their forces. And civilian deaths attributed to the enemy were the highest ever recorded.

During only one other week this year was the allied military death toll higher.

The statistics underlined the war's present pattern: The guerrilla war of attrition continuing while isolated pitched battles in remote areas become less frequent but more intense.

The allied commands said 595 of their men were killed last week—380 South Vietnamese, 194 Americans and 21 Koreans and Australians.

1,818 Commies Killed

South Vietnamese headquarters said 1,818 Communist troops were killed last week, about the average for the past several months. But it was nearly double the total reported the week before.

The highest total of allied dead this year was in one week of May, when 628 men were killed. Statistics are not accurate for such previous years as 1964 and 1965, when the South Vietnamese were sometimes losing whole battalions in bloody battles. However, last week's losses were certainly among the highest since that period, when the government's strength was at low ebb.

The military losses were paralleled by the highest recorded civilian toll of the war, 232 dead. This included 114 Montagnard villagers slain in the Viet Cong massacre at the village at Dak Son, but U.S. officials have estimated the death toll there probably was around 200.

The war communiques today reported more isolated, deadly battles with little apparent pattern. There was fighting along the Cambodian frontier and in the northern provinces below the Demilitarized Zone, coupled with isolated Viet Cong assaults, shellings and the sabotage of a bridge on the Saigon-Dalat highway.

Battle reports listed continuing heavy Communist losses, 30 killed in one fight, 25 in another and 30 in another.

Associated Press Correspondent Robert Ohman reported troops of the Americal division were hotly engaged today on the coastal lowlands of Quang Tin Province, in the north. About 30 Communist soldiers had been killed in the developing action, Ohman said, and a battalion of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division was attempting an envelopment with the aid of heavy air and artillery support.

In Saigon, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said the South Vietnamese government would soon announce one-day ceasefires for Christmas and New Year's and a two-day truce during Tet, the Vietnamese lunar new year at the end of January.

The Viet Cong announced Nov. 18 that it would observe three-day cease-fires at Christmas and New Year's and a seven-day truce at Tet. Ky said the government announcement would come "in a few days."

Bombers Strike

Along the Cambodian border in the central highlands, high-altitude B52 bombers laid down a saturation raid about a mile from the frontier facing the American redoubt at Dak To, blasting at North Vietnamese infiltrators threatening American encampments in the vital region.

Only a few hours before the bombers unloaded upward of 150,000 pounds of bombs on suspected Red trails southwest of Dak To, Communist mortars fired 55 quick rounds, killed three Americans and wounded 12 at an artillery position guarding Dak To.

Throughout the night, Air Force twin-engine Dragonships circled the jungle area, dropping strings of flares to illuminate any enemy attempt at surprise attack.

The new B52 raid some 280 miles northeast of Saigon was the fourth in a renewed effort to hamper Red infiltration by saturation bombing along the frontier. The raids have been hitting closer than ever before.

RURAL POOR: Some Solutions Underway

By RAY TYSON
(Last of 3 Articles)

A tenant farmer receives an eviction notice from the land he has worked for over 20 years . . .

A high school drop-out, once intent upon being a farmer, is left unemployed and ignorant . . .

An old man, sick and hungry, has no transportation to reach his physician ...

Multiply these problems a thousand-fold and the needs of the rural poor can be visualized. Daily, the dispossessed confront problems that appear insoluble. Despite appearances something is being done.

Since 1964, when President Lyndon Johnson declared a War on Poverty, a host of federally sponsored programs and allied projects has sprung up. Often mismanaged and always under funded, these opportunities nonetheless have been instrumental in bringing the rural poor to modern times.

Education, particularly the lack of it, is the universal poor's stigma. Too many impoverished children quit school prior to obtaining a high school diploma. This is especially true with rural children.

Head Start

Instituted to combat this prevalence among rural children is Head Start, a project designed to give pre-school youngsters an affirmative attitude toward education.

Under the auspices of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Head Start has met considerable success in several Ulster County communities. Ellenville and Onteora are two such sections.

A child recently explained that during his summer with Head Start, classes traveled to local sites of interest and teachers made him aware that there was an awful lot to learn.

Although the program is new and results inconclusive, it is hoped that an early yearn to learn can be instilled in a child that will enable him to complete his secondary education.

OEO is also directing a pre-college project. This past summer selected youngsters from across America received a new lease on learning by participating in Upward Bound. In all, more than 20,000 youths took part in an eight week program conducted at 223 colleges, universities and secondary schools. Roughly $25 million was allocated for this most essential project.

But the rural's tradition of high school drop-outs has left untold teenagers unemployed and non-skilled. The Job Corps, instituted to provide necessary skills for successful employment, has been relatively popular in this area.

20 From Here

Mrs. Jenny Krevolin, assistant director of the county's Community Action, revealed that during 1967 about 20 youths were taken into the corps from Ulster County. She disclosed that the number of appplications far exceeded her office's ability to accomodate them all. Of the 20 youths taken only two or three quit before finishing their training, she noted.

If education hinders the young, poor housing and inadequate facilities are the parent's major burden. The county is literally filled with hovels and shacks.

However, near Ellenville, a new concept in self-help is being undertaken in the form of a cooperative self-housing project.

Initiated by the Farmer's Home Administration 14 families have homes in the planning stages. Mrs. Krevolin said, "The homes are constructed jointly, each family helping another and vice-versa. The equity is sweat and the government offers a 100 per cent mortgage. Workmen's tools are provided by OEO."

It has been said that the former small farmer will remain poor unless a program is devised to revitalize the farm, or conditions are set to bring the farmer to modern times. Asked whether cooperative farming might not be a solution, Mrs. Krevolin replied, "We never have really tried. Most small farmers have been completely wiped out. A co-op won't work unless there is something to farm and an available market."

Helping Hand

The elderly, hampered by age and fixed-incomes, are, however, getting a helping hand. Community Action has established a network of aid offices throughout the county. The majority of persons reached through these channels have been the aged to date. Highland, Ellenville, Saugerties, Phoenicia and Kingston all possess such headquarters.

Transportation, food, clothing and proper medical treatment remain the elderly's prime problems. A Rosendale man complained, "Me and my wife have been stuck here for two weeks. The last time we were out was to go to the shopping center with my oldest daughter."

Community Action workers though are providing these services to as many persons as can be reached. Surplus food and clothing are distributed weekly. And volunteers carry the aged to and from medical centers. In fact, several senior citizen clubs have been established as an outlet for entertainment and recreation. The infirmities of age are being cushioned to some extent by this group.

Legal Aid

An often overlooked problem facing rural poor is the need for proper legal aid. OEO has authorized a grant for such aid, but approval from Ulster County Bar Association has not been forthcoming.

The problem remains. Proper legal counsel is almost as important as medical attention.

Still, all things considered, the poor are slowly emerging. But the pace is too slow. As some get their necks above water, more sink.

Things are being done. But is it enough?

County Budget Hike Due

Ulster County taxpayers apparently will get a reprieve from the threat of a county sales tax until some time next year, but face what has been described as a substantial increase in the county budget.

Both items are expected to come to the floor of Ulster County Board of Supervisors at 8 o'clock tonight.

The largest item will be a $3.5 million appropriation for medical assistance for the aged (Medicaid), a $2 million increase over the last budget. The 1967 budget figure for welfare was $4.15 million with about $2.7 million estimated revenue leaving $1.4 million to be raised by taxation.

A resolution calling for a two per cent sales tax sponsored by Republican Supervisor John C. Sangaline of Kingston is expected to be referred to the Tax Base Study Committee and thus will be one of the first big items to come before the new County Legislature.

Consequently, the important business tonight will involve the county budget for next year. Some supervisors close to the budget situation indicate that the total appropriation figure will show an increase in excess of $2 million over last year and will reflect the high cost of processing Medicaid, increases in the County Highway Department budget and salary adjustments recommended by a salary study by Hanawalt Association, research and development firm of Westfield, N. J.

The budget hearing is expected to be scheduled for Wednesday night when it is expected the record 1968 budget will be adopted by the Board of Supervisors.

Social Security Bill Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate unexpectedly passed the Social Security bill at the start of today's Senate session, then after an angry flareup, reconsidered its action and set a vote on passage for 11 a.m. Friday.

The passage meant opponents of welfare provisions in the bill had lost a chance to engage in a filibuster that might have prevented passage of the bill at this session of Congress or at least delayed adjournment beyond this week.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the deputy Democratic leader, maneuvered the bill to passage shortly after the Senate met with less than a dozen senators present.

However, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield protested strongly that the rights of individual senators had been disregarded.

He asked unanimous consent to have approval of the bill reconsidered. Long objected, saying he had learned from experience that "if you have a filibuster on your hands, you better break it when you can."

In the face of Mansfield's continuing appeals, however, Long said he was willing to have a motion entered to reconsider the vote by which the bill had been passed.

In doing so, he noted he would be in position at any time to table the motion to reconsider. Thus he would be able to cut off any filibuster since the motion would not be debatable.

Only after agreement was reached to vote at 11 a.m. Friday did he consent to have the passage of the bill rescinded and set for a second vote.

The House okayed the compromise Wednesday on a 388-3 vote after a Senate-House conference committee restored welfare-tightening provisions. The Senate had previously voted to junk or liberalize these provisions as well as to raise Social Security cash benefits.

As passed by the House, the bill would raise benfits for all recipients by at least 13 per cent. The monthly minimum would go from $44 to $55 and the maximum would go from $142 to $160.50. And a recipient with a wife 65 or over would get a 50 per cent increase in the basic payment.

Once the full effect of the bill is accomplished over several years, a retired couple could get as much as $323 a month.

Social Security taxes also would go up, with a maximum increase of $52.80 a year for those earning more than $6,600. The taxes would be upped the same amounts for employers and there would be additional increases for both in future years.

The increased benefits for 24 million Americans on Social Security rolls would be effective with checks received next March 3.

Kennedy and Harris contended in debate Wednesday that the proposed welfare limitations would mean some needy children and their parents would be denied aid. They said many mothers would be forced to put their children into day care centers and go to work.

They referred to a provision which would set a limit on government-aided state programs for children in families with absent fathers. Each state would compute next January the proportion of aided children to all children in the state. This ratio

Bard President Clarifies College Stand on Dissenters

Bard College president, Dr. Reamer Kline, issued a statement this morning defending the right of Bard students to act according to their consciences as individuals.

He also took exception to a headline in yesterday's Kingston Freeman, which he said, implied that the college officially sanctioned the plan of two of its students to set up a draft counseling service in Kingston —"to teach teenagers and others how to avoid the draft."

Dr Kline told The Freeman "that the article itself is essentially fair in its presentation of the position of the college, but I think the headline implies an official relationship which is not fair."

Yesterday's exclusive Freeman story revealed that New Jersey freshman, Mark Rosenberg and sophomore, Francesca Freedman are negotiating for the rental of a now-vacant store, cater-corner to Kingston High School. Trained by the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers), they plan, after the first of the year, to "help kids, who don't have the money or ability to go to college, get out of going into service."

Both members of a Bard-based peace group known as "The Resistance," they and others have participated in civil disobedience demonstrations in Albany and New York recently.

Dr. Kline also referred to mention yesterday of the possibility that Rosenberg hopes to receive college field period credit for his counseling endeavor. He said such a project "is not an official program of the college and is carried on by individual students in their individual capacities." Whether or not they will receive credit, he explained, "depends upon a decision yet to be made by the individual student's academic advisors, and whether in their judgment this experience has academic value."

Social Security Bill Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate unexpectedly passed the Social Security bill at the start of today's Senate session, then after an angry flareup, reconsidered its action and set a vote on passage for 11 a.m. Friday.

The passage meant opponents of welfare provisions in the bill had lost a chance to engage in a filibuster that might have prevented passage of the bill at this session of Congress or at least delayed adjournment beyond this week.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the deputy Democratic leader, maneuvered the bill to passage shortly after the Senate met with less than a dozen senators present.

However, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield protested strongly that the rights of individual senators had been disregarded.

He asked unanimous consent to have approval of the bill reconsidered. Long objected, saying he had learned from experience that "if you have a filibuster on your hands, you better break it when you can."

In the face of Mansfield's continuing appeals, however, Long said he was willing to have a motion entered to reconsider the vote by which the bill had been passed.

In doing so, he noted he would be in position at any time to table the motion to reconsider. Thus he would be able to cut off any filibuster since the motion would not be debatable.

Only after agreement was reached to vote at 11 a.m. Friday did he consent to have the passage of the bill rescinded and set for a second vote.

The House okayed the compromise Wednesday on a 388-3 vote after a Senate-House conference committee restored welfare-tightening provisions. The Senate had previously voted to junk or liberalize these provisions as well as to raise Social Security cash benefits.

As passed by the House, the bill would raise benfits for all recipients by at least 13 per cent. The monthly minimum would go from $44 to $55 and the maximum would go from $142 to $160.50. And a recipient with a wife 65 or over would get a 50 per cent increase in the basic payment.

Once the full effect of the bill is accomplished over several years, a retired couple could get as much as $323 a month.

Social Security taxes also would go up, with a maximum increase of $52.80 a year for those earning more than $6,600. The taxes would be upped the same amounts for employers and there would be additional increases for both in future years.

The increased benefits for 24 million Americans on Social Security rolls would be effective with checks received next March 3.

Kennedy and Harris contended in debate Wednesday that the proposed welfare limitations would mean some needy children and their parents would be denied aid. They said many mothers would be forced to put their children into day care centers and go to work.

They referred to a provision which would set a limit on government-aided state programs for children in families with absent fathers. Each state would compute next January the proportion of aided children to all children in the state. This ratio

Bard President Clarifies College Stand on Dissenters

Bard College president, Dr. Reamer Kline, issued a statement this morning defending the right of Bard students to act according to their consciences as individuals.

He also took exception to a headline in yesterday's Kingston Freeman, which he said, implied that the college officially sanctioned the plan of two of its students to set up a draft counseling service in Kingston —"to teach teenagers and others how to avoid the draft."

Dr Kline told The Freeman "that the article itself is essentially fair in its presentation of the position of the college, but I think the headline implies an official relationship which is not fair."

Yesterday's exclusive Freeman story revealed that New Jersey freshman, Mark Rosenberg and sophomore, Francesca Freedman are negotiating for the rental of a now-vacant store, cater-corner to Kingston High School. Trained by the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers), they plan, after the first of the year, to "help kids, who don't have the money or ability to go to college, get out of going into service."

Both members of a Bard-based peace group known as "The Resistance," they and others have participated in civil disobedience demonstrations in Albany and New York recently.

Dr. Kline also referred to mention yesterday of the possibility that Rosenberg hopes to receive college field period credit for his counseling endeavor. He said such a project "is not an official program of the college and is carried on by individual students in their individual capacities." Whether or not they will receive credit, he explained, "depends upon a decision yet to be made by the individual student's academic advisors, and whether in their judgment this experience has academic value."

LBJ Has Commenced Campaign - Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says President Johnson, who hasn't announced he'll seek another term, already "has sort of hit the sawdust trail" in a re-election campaign.

Humphrey, talking Wednesday with newsmen in Miami Beach, Fla., was referring to the President's speech to the AFL-CIO convention there the night before. Johnson called congressional Republican leaders "wooden soldiers" whose "old Republican buggy can only go one way, and that's backwards — downhill."

On Capitol Hill, Republicans responded to the speech in predictably partisan fashion while — less predictably — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield rose to the GOP's defense.

Ford and other GOP leaders demanded equal air time from the three television networks which broadcast Johnson's speech. The CBS network offered a half hour at 7 p.m. Friday, but there was no immediate word from NBC or ABC.

Johnson sharply criticized Republicans in Congress for opposing his domestic program but Mansfield commented: "I must say in all candor many laws wouldn't have passed this year and in past years without Republican help. So if there is any blame, I think you can spread it impartially."

"There are nay-sayers and yea-sayers in both parties," Mansfield said.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said, "I don't see how you can throw a rock at a whole party. Bills got out of committee all right . . . They got many Republican votes."

In other political developments:

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, who backs Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the presidency, predicted in Salem, Ore., the New Yorker will eventually emerge as a candidat and win the GOP nomination.

McCall said he thinks Rockefeller might become a candidate in June—after the primary elections. Rockefeller has maintained he isn't and won't become a candidate.

—Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, charged Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., with harboring hostility toward the 26 GOP governors. Chafee was reacting to the assertion by Laird, chairman of the House Republican conference, that the governors sacrificed their influence by not backing a single candidate for the party nomination.

Winds Up Visit

—Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., winding up a visit to South Vietnam, told newsmen who asked if he thought the allies were winning the war: "I don't think in a few days anyone can come to that kind of a conclusion." He praised the fighting men and said "certainly the effort is working in some areas."

—Rep. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., meanwhile criticized Percy for making an unscheduled helicopter landing at Dakson Tuesday. Percy and his party ducked for cover when the Viet Cong launched a mortar attack.

Set for Human Use

Artificial Heart Machine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says an artificial heart machine has been developed which may soon be implanted in the chest of a patient threatened with heart failure.

The heart-assisting device is almost ready for human use, researchers said Wednesday, but they didn't specify how soon.

Dr. Lester Goodman of the Public Health service told a news conference the implantation factor marks a big advance. He said the device has been implanted so far only in calves and further development will be carried out.

The government officials said the new machine has several advantages over a heart-assisting device developed by Dr. Michael E. DeBakey of Methodist Hospital in Houston, Tex. But they called DeBakey's machine a breakthrough, adding, "We aren't calling this a breakthrough."

Smooth Blood Flow

Marshall Turner, a mechanical engineer who built the machine, said another key advantage is that it provides a smooth flow of blood. He said this should eliminate blood clots, the main problem of DeBakey's pulsating machine.

Turner said his machine would be capable of doing all the heart's work but added it wouldn't be used to that extent because clots might form in the unworking heart.

Like DeBakey's, the new machine would assume some of the work of the heart's left ventrical, the main working and pumping muscle.

Turner said implanting the machine in the chest keeps all the blood flow inside the body. He said this contrasts with DeBakey's machine, which pumps blood into an external device and then back into the body.

Furthermore, Turner continued, implantation cuts the danger of infection because connecting tubes aren't required.

Turner's machine, about the size of a fist, is driven by a small electric motor. It pushes the blood with two rotating wheels which run against a blood-carrying tube. The wheels compress the tube but don't close it.

Turner said a big problem so far has been with the motor. One burned out after being used for 11 days in an experiment with a calf.

The machine would have to work several weeks before it was used with humans, said Goodman, who also is a mechanical engineer, specializing in development of biomedical equipment.

The machine was developed by Turner and Dr. William Pierce of the University of Pennsylvania.

Checking Death of Mrs. McLean, Once Heir to the Hope Diamond

PLANO, Tex. (AP) — An autopsy has been completed in the death of Evalyn McLean, 25, who was once among the heirs to the famed Hope diamond.

Miss McLean's body was found Tuesday in the rambling ranch home where she lived alone. Neighbors in this Dallas suburb broke into the home after they saw no activity there for several days.

Officials said results of the autopsy would be released soon.

The funeral for Miss McLean is today. The body will be cremated.

Miss McLean's body was discovered lying on a bed, fully clothed. There was no indication of foul play, Justice of the Peace B. B. Carpenter said.

She was the daughter of John R. "Jock" McLean of Palm Beach, Fla. A former Dallas debutante, she had never married. She spent her time working with the horses she raised and trained at her Friendly Acres horse ranch six miles northeast of Plano.

The Hope diamond was once owned by her grandmother, Washington hostess Evalyn Walsh McLean.

Miss McLean and six other grandchildren were never allowed to so much as touch the diamond, a stone reputed to have brought ill luck to most who were associated with it.

The diamond was bought from Evalyn Walsh McLean's estate by New York jeweler Harry Winston in 1947. He gave it to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Paid $40,000

Evalyn Walsh McLean liked to wear the Hope diamond to her gala Washington parties. She claimed she had turned down offers of nearly $2 million for the diamond. She said she bought it in the early 1900s after her marriage to the late Ned McLean. Mrs. McLean paid $40,000 for the stone and took it to a priest to have it blessed.

The diamond, according to its legend, was once possessed by King Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette but disappeared after the French Revolution. The first owner of the stone was a French traveler named Tavernier, who sold the diamond to Louis XIV of France. Tavernier later was ripped to death by a dog pack.

The stone derives its name from Henry Thomas Hope, a London banker who bought it in 1830.

Columbia Woman Loses Life in Dutchess Crash

A 65-year-old Columbia County woman was instantly killed shortly after 11:30 a. m. Wednesday when her 1967 VW station wagon went out of control and crashed into a parked car in a safety zone off the Taconic State Parkway near Route 44 in the Town of Pleasant Valley.

Dover Plains State Police Sergeant Edward Streider said an autopsy had been ordered by county authorities to determine the cause of the death of Margot Boelke of Hillsdale.

According to investigators, Deskin Spaulding, 30, of 1883 Olive Street, Piscataway, N. J., drove his 1967 sedan off the parkway between the exit and entrance ramp at Route 44 and parked the vehicle while he checked directions.

The car driven by the woman appeared heading south and suddenly it swerved across the northbound lane and crashed into Spaulding's sedan, pushing it some 75 feet before the two cars came to a stop.

The woman was pronounced dead at the scene by a physician who had been summoned by passing motorist, who also notified state police of the collision. Spaulding was taken to Vassar Hospital and treated for a whiplash of the neck and other minor injuries.

The accident was investigated by Sergeant Streider, Lt. Samuel Crodelle, commanding officer of Troop K in Dutchess and Putnam counties, BCI Investigator Alfred J. Visciarelli and Trooper Kevin McCauliffe of the Dover Plains substation.

The death was the second highway fatality in Dutchess County this week. On Sunday Thomas Francis Dunphy, 23, of Beacon, was killed in a one-car mishap on South Avenue, Poughkeepsie. The traffic death toll in Dutchess for 1967 is now 46, three ahead of the Ulster death toll for the year.

Two Are Arrested In Narcotics Raid

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A midafternoon raid at three Westchester County sites and one in the Bronx produced $250,000 in allegedly stolen pills and led to the arrest of two men, police said.

The pills were described by Westchester County Sheriff John E. Hoy as amphetamines, barbiturates and birth control pills.

Isaac Zonana, 59, was arrested at his Yonkers home and charged with possession of dangerous drugs and possession of stolen property. He was held in $25,000 bond.

David Runch, 57, of Bronxville, was arrested at a White Plains drycleaning store, booked on the same charges and released on $500 bond.

The raids, according to Sheriff Hoy, were staged in midafternoon, hitting simultaneously in Yonkers, White Plains, Mount Vernon and the Bronx.

Hoy said mislabeled drugs in drums were found in Zonana's home and other pharmaceuticals were found in the cleaning store. Raiders also hit a warehouse in Mount Vernon leased by Zonana and found a "truckload" of pills there, Hoy said.

A number of drug firm representatives identified some of the pills, Hoy said, including Lederle Laboratories, a division of American Cyanamid, and E. R. Squibb & Co., both of New York; Merck Sharpe and Dohme Division of the Merck & Co., of New Brunswick, N.J. and Smith Cline & French of Union, N.J.

Zonana's home is at 114 Hayward St.

'Tinderbox Already Blazing'

A report from Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick in Southeast Asia "a tinderbox where fires already blazing must be extinguished " states that "While people differ on their views of the war, they all agree on the need to show our soldiers that we're thinking of them and deeply appreciate their sacrifices."

Congressman Resnick is halfway through a tour of Southeast Asia and is now due to spend one week in Vietnam.

He says he is carrying more recorded messages and gifts this year than during his past two season trips to that area. Delivering as many personally as possible, he says the gifts come from manufacturers and include hunting knives, religious medals and even Kool Aid (which the soldiers use to mask the horrid taste of their purified drinking water.)

The Ellenville Democrat, whose trip is taking him through New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, Singapore, Burma, Thailand, Laos, Vietnam and Hong Kong, is taking the tour at his own expense.

The State Department, however, has set up an intensive schedule of conferences with political, educational and intellectual leaders for him in the various countries.

Rep. Resnick plans to report on the conference in detail upon his return.

In order to "get a good cross section of popular feelings, particularly among the young," he has taken his teenage children, Jeffery and Debbie with him.

Checking Death of Mrs. McLean, Once Heir to the Hope Diamond

PLANO, Tex. (AP) — An autopsy has been completed in the death of Evalyn McLean, 25, who was once among the heirs to the famed Hope diamond.

Miss McLean's body was found Tuesday in the rambling ranch home where she lived alone. Neighbors in this Dallas suburb broke into the home after they saw no activity there for several days.

Officials said results of the autopsy would be released soon.

The funeral for Miss McLean is today. The body will be cremated.

Miss McLean's body was discovered lying on a bed, fully clothed. There was no indication of foul play, Justice of the Peace B. B. Carpenter said.

She was the daughter of John R. "Jock" McLean of Palm Beach, Fla. A former Dallas debutante, she had never married. She spent her time working with the horses she raised and trained at her Friendly Acres horse ranch six miles northeast of Plano.

The Hope diamond was once owned by her grandmother, Washington hostess Evalyn Walsh McLean.

Miss McLean and six other grandchildren were never allowed to so much as touch the diamond, a stone reputed to have brought ill luck to most who were associated with it.

The diamond was bought from Evalyn Walsh McLean's estate by New York jeweler Harry Winston in 1947. He gave it to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Paid $40,000

Evalyn Walsh McLean liked to wear the Hope diamond to her gala Washington parties. She claimed she had turned down offers of nearly $2 million for the diamond. She said she bought it in the early 1900s after her marriage to the late Ned McLean. Mrs. McLean paid $40,000 for the stone and took it to a priest to have it blessed.

The diamond, according to its legend, was once possessed by King Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette but disappeared after the French Revolution. The first owner of the stone was a French traveler named Tavernier, who sold the diamond to Louis XIV of France. Tavernier later was ripped to death by a dog pack.

The stone derives its name from Henry Thomas Hope, a London banker who bought it in 1830.

Columbia Woman Loses Life in Dutchess Crash

A 65-year-old Columbia County woman was instantly killed shortly after 11:30 a. m. Wednesday when her 1967 VW station wagon went out of control and crashed into a parked car in a safety zone off the Taconic State Parkway near Route 44 in the Town of Pleasant Valley.

Dover Plains State Police Sergeant Edward Streider said an autopsy had been ordered by county authorities to determine the cause of the death of Margot Boelke of Hillsdale.

According to investigators, Deskin Spaulding, 30, of 1883 Olive Street, Piscataway, N. J., drove his 1967 sedan off the parkway between the exit and entrance ramp at Route 44 and parked the vehicle while he checked directions.

The car driven by the woman appeared heading south and suddenly it swerved across the northbound lane and crashed into Spaulding's sedan, pushing it some 75 feet before the two cars came to a stop.

The woman was pronounced dead at the scene by a physician who had been summoned by passing motorist, who also notified state police of the collision. Spaulding was taken to Vassar Hospital and treated for a whiplash of the neck and other minor injuries.

The accident was investigated by Sergeant Streider, Lt. Samuel Crodelle, commanding officer of Troop K in Dutchess and Putnam counties, BCI Investigator Alfred J. Visciarelli and Trooper Kevin McCauliffe of the Dover Plains substation.

The death was the second highway fatality in Dutchess County this week. On Sunday Thomas Francis Dunphy, 23, of Beacon, was killed in a one-car mishap on South Avenue, Poughkeepsie. The traffic death toll in Dutchess for 1967 is now 46, three ahead of the Ulster death toll for the year.

Two Are Arrested In Narcotics Raid

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A midafternoon raid at three Westchester County sites and one in the Bronx produced $250,000 in allegedly stolen pills and led to the arrest of two men, police said.

The pills were described by Westchester County Sheriff John E. Hoy as amphetamines, barbiturates and birth control pills.

Isaac Zonana, 59, was arrested at his Yonkers home and charged with possession of dangerous drugs and possession of stolen property. He was held in $25,000 bond.

David Runch, 57, of Bronxville, was arrested at a White Plains drycleaning store, booked on the same charges and released on $500 bond.

The raids, according to Sheriff Hoy, were staged in midafternoon, hitting simultaneously in Yonkers, White Plains, Mount Vernon and the Bronx.

Hoy said mislabeled drugs in drums were found in Zonana's home and other pharmaceuticals were found in the cleaning store. Raiders also hit a warehouse in Mount Vernon leased by Zonana and found a "truckload" of pills there, Hoy said.

A number of drug firm representatives identified some of the pills, Hoy said, including Lederle Laboratories, a division of American Cyanamid, and E. R. Squibb & Co., both of New York; Merck Sharpe and Dohme Division of the Merck & Co., of New Brunswick, N.J. and Smith Cline & French of Union, N.J.

Zonana's home is at 114 Hayward St.

'Tinderbox Already Blazing'

A report from Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick in Southeast Asia "a tinderbox where fires already blazing must be extinguished" states that "While people differ on their views of the war, they all agree on the need to show our soldiers that we're thinking of them and deeply appreciate their sacrifices."

Congressman Resnick is halfway through a tour of Southeast Asia and is now due to spend one week in Vietnam.

He says he is carrying more recorded messages and gifts this year than during his past two season trips to that area. Delivering as many personally as possible, he says the gifts come from manufacturers and include hunting knives, religious medals and even Kool Aid (which the soldiers use to mask the horrid taste of their purified drinking water.)

The Ellenville Democrat, whose trip is taking him through New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, Singapore, Burma, Thailand, Laos, Vietnam and Hong Kong, is taking the tour at his own expense.

The State Department, however, has set up an intensive schedule of conferences with political, educational and intellectual leaders for him in the various countries.

Rep. Resnick plans to report on the conference in detail upon his return.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 14, 1967

Social Security

Pushing toward adjournment, House and Senate conferees brought out a compromise Social Security amended bill which raises benefits 13 per cent but levies higher taxes on workers and employers to pay for them.

Hereafter, taxes will be imposed on base earnings of $7,800 a year as compared to the present $6,600 base, itself the result of various increases over the years. The tax paid by workers and employers will go up from the current 4.4 per cent to 4.8 per cent in 1969 with further periodic increases until the rate reaches 5.9 per cent in 1987.

The maximum annual tax for a worker, matched by his employer, is now $290.40. The maximum would rise to $343.20 next year and to $374.40 in 1969.

Full retirement benefits will be paid to persons 65 years old and over earning as much as $1,680 a year, compared to $1,500 now. There is no limit on earnings of persons over 72.

Those are the highlights of the new compromise. They will accrue to the 24 million now drawing old age and dependent benefits. In the present value of the dollar, the benefits fall far short of sustenance levels for man and wife except in the most out of the way areas. They need to be supplemented either by part time work, as allowed in the new schedule, or by other income. Otherwise, they are below the poverty level.

Coming Robot Society

The key development of the next century will be the growing role of machines in taking over tasks of the human mind, threatening the world with a robot society.

At the 150th anniversary meeting of the New York Academy of Science, this prediction was offered by Dr. Simon Ramo, a pioneer in the aerospace industry. He believes that mankind can avert such a fate—that a robot society could evolve only by default.

Nevertheless, Dr. Ramos was optimistic. Technology, he said, could even provide us with "instant democracy," where every home had an electronic voting machine, enabling all to participate in day-to-day decisions. That would be chaos, not democracy.

Machines are doing almost instantaneously a great deal of the mental work that took many months and years to perform. No doubt they will be tremendously improved until none of the arduous mental problems of man will remain for him to solve. But machines do not have imagination or initiative. Man will still have to dream and plan and perform.

Machines multiply man's capacity. With them, he can create all that mankind wants in this world—if only aggressive nations will put aside their covetousness and give a man a chance to live the full life now open before it.

The robot society need not disturb us. Properly harnessed, it should be man's greatest servant in all history.

Foreign Aid Bill

When William S. Gaud, the nation's foreign aid administrator, urged Americans the other day to understand and accept foreign aid as indispensable to stability and peace through the current century, in effect he handed them a bill for $200 billion.

The first 20 years of foreign aid, from 1945 to 1965, the net cost to tht taxpayer ran to $121 billion. If we are to continue foreign aid at the level of this year's allowance, the lowest in its history, the next 35 years will easily top $200 billion.

That is a huge sum. But we deal in astronomical figures today. One way to look at the foreign aid output is that it forms one-third of the national debt. Another is that it would have paid one year's federal budget and allowed the taxpayers a year's tax holiday.

But the most useful way to think of it is perhaps what Gaud had in mind when he said it would help maintain stability and peace. For what we have spent on foreign aid would equal seven years' cost of another Vietnam war, without the loss of lives, which is beyond price.

The American people may fuss and groan about it, but by and large they are persuaded of the value of foreign aid. They are only impatient with it because it is so protracted, foregtting the more costly alternative.

In their grief they were able to think of healing others.

Spy Defections Put Red Secret Police on Spot

NEW YORK (NEA) — The KGB is in trouble again. Russia's secret police agency has had another spell of bad luck in recent months and as a result a new purge is reported to be brewing in the Kremlin.

A curt statement printed in Moscow's Pravda in May announced that Vladimir Semichastny, a former leader of the Young Communist League (Komsomol), lost his job as chief of the KGB and "transferred to other work." He was succeeded by Yuri Andropov, a burly man of 52, who is (or was then) a friend and close associate of Leonid Brezhnev, head of the Russian Communist party.

Now, according to East European Communist Andropov is also in trouble and probably on his way out.

The removal of Semichastny in May was obvious related to the struggle for power between his patron and mentor, Alexander Shelepin, and Brezhnev. But the Kremlin, it seems, also held Semichastny responsible for the death of Maj. Gen. Lukshin, a senior officer of the KGB.

An unprecedented official statement by the Kremlin revealed only that Lukshin "died tragically in the course of his duties." However, East European Communists insisted that he was killed near Khabarovsk, less than 50 miles from Red China, in a battle with Mao Tse-tung's secret agents.

They recalled that the decline of Shelepin, Semichastny's predecessor in the KGB, coincided with the assassination of another high-ranking officer of the secret police, Maj. Gen. Georgy Naimushin, who was also reported to have died "while carrying out his service duties."

The demotion of the "young Turks"—Shelepin, Semichastny and a third official of the KGB, V. S. Tikunov—marked the end of the Komsomol's control of Russia's secret police. All three were appointed to their jobs by Nikita Khrushchav while they were still members of the Young Communist League.

There is no doubt that the young Turks were better politicians than officials of the secret police. During their rule of the KGB the United States CIA managed to secure the cooperation of Col. Oleg Penkovsky, a top Russian secret agent who provided an invaluable stream of information to the West until he was caught by the KGB and executed. In addition, numerous Soviet agents had also been flushed out in Western Europe.

It was therefore the task of Andropov to tighten security measures and, above all, stop the defection of Moscow's secret agents.

Undoubtedly, too, Brezhnev slept better at night, knowing that the KGB was in the hands of a man he selected, rather than in the hands of Khrushchev's choice from the ranks of the Komsomol.

But Andropov was in office only three months when Yuri Loginov, a Soviet spy who posed as a Canadian citizen, defected in South Africa. He was an important agent who confessed to espionage in 23 countries.

Then came another blow for which Andropov was held responsible. Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliuyeva, eluded the KGB widespread network and finally found alsylum in the United States.

But the greatest blow to Andropov's prestige was the recent defection in West Germany of Lieut. Col. Yevgeny Runge. Though probably not as important an agent as Col. Penkovsky, Runge operated for many years efficient KGB organizations in West Germany.

Runge is now in the United States undergoing interrogation by American intelligence officials. It was his defection, it is believed, that is the main reason for Andropov's plight.

Runge faced a problem in fleeing. The KGB usually holds a secret agent's family in hostage to prevent defections. But so sure was Andropov of Runge's loyalty that he permitted him to take his wife and son abroad.

Changes Due in Pentagon When McNamara Leaves

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Ten Pentagon changes are likely when Robert McNamara goes.

Large institutions in the long run have a way of reasserting their authority over the men who run them. For awhile, a determined man may have his will, and he may, during his tenure institute systems that will change the institution. But the institution weakens such a man and turns back on his changes. This action is slowed down, but not stopped, when one "strong" man is followed by another. It is unusual that a strong man follows a strong man. It is therefore best to bet on the institution.

By this reasoning, the following changes are likely in the Pentagon regardless of the man who follows McNamara:

1—Undoubtedly, more delegation of authority and decision making will come. Men down the line will surely get more chance at responsibility.

2—Morale will probably go up. The operation will become a little sloppier.

3—The intangibles of war—those things that cannot be measured on computers—will likely receive more consideration.

4—Things will be less exciting.

5—Almost assuredly, there will be less tendency to equate honest difference of opinion in the services with disloyalty to the chief, less internal spying on what officials are saying privately. As a result, officials who disagree with the secretary of defense won't be looking over their shoulders furtively while they work.

6—Pentagon officials will have more time to move ahead on positive programs instead of being embroiled in the "turbulance" brought about by constant reorganizing.

7—Some McNamara reorganizations may fall apart. These are the ones which have been held together in name only by his insistence.

8—A step-up in basic and state-of-the-art research is possible.

9 — Greater receptivity is likely to adopting new systems — such as Polaris (a pre-McNamara decision) and a nuclear Navy (which McNamara has dragged his feet on)—with greater speed.

10—A tendency may develop to adopt a greater variety of weapons systems, each to backstop the other. The new men will not likely be so certain as McNamara that they are dead right in the systems chosen and assume that in a war it's impossible to predict exactly what will happen or which weapon will fail to do the job expected of it.

On the other hand, McNamara and his immediate predecessors have made some vital changes in the Pentagon. The most important of these — unification of major services, unification of the budget, systems analysis, computerization of some important functions and cost effectiveness in its true sense of getting the most for the dollar—have been the result of hard-fought changes which began with James Forrestal and continued down through Charles Wilson, Thomas Gates and, finally, McNamara.

McNamara's genius has not been in conceiving new ideas or ways of doing things but in his salesmanship and his drive to put ideas into effect. He took concepts begun by his predecessors and whipped them through by persuasiveness and by brute force.

McNamara has had the effect of a strong purgative. He has gutted out some musty ideas and obsolete ways of doing things that everyone recognized as being wrong but most men dared touch only chip by chip. Unfortunately, McNamara has, in cleaning out fat, also carved into some muscle. The Defense Department now needs time to digest those ideas that will work and to eject those changes that weaken it.

Drew Pearson Says

Cyrus Vance Leads LBJ's List to Succeed McNamara

WASHINGTON — The man President Johnson has at the top of his list to succeed Bob McNamara in the Defense Department is Cyrus Vance, the troubleshooter just returned from Cyprus.

Johnson has known Vance for more than ten years, ever since Vance handled a special Senate investigation of missile failures for Johnson, who was then chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, boring in on Eisenhower's missile lag.

Vance is highly qualified to be Secretary of Defense, but has one physical handicap—a slipped disk in his back, which causes such excruciating pain that sometimes he can hardly sit through Cabinet meetings.

Last summer Vance finally resigned and went abroad for a long-postponed vacation. He was in Italy only one week when he had to return because of a death in the family.

Then came the Detroit race riots, and the President rushed him there as a troubleshooter. Then came the danger of war over Cyprus. Vance still has not got his vacation.

Others on the Johnson list for Secretary of Defense are:

Gov. John Connally, of Texas, administrative assistant to LBJ when he was in the Senate.

Connally was Johnson's campaign manager for the Presidential nomination against John F. Kennedy in 1960, and incurred the Kennedy clan's wrath when he dictated a statement to Mrs. India Edwards and ex-Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman that Kennedy was suffering from Addison's disease. India's husband was promptly fired from the USIA, but the Kennedys forgave Connally when LBJ urged that he be appointed Secretary of the Navy.

If Johnson runs again in 1968 he would prefer to have the popular Connally run for reelection as governor of Texas to help him to keep Texas in the Democratic column.

Clark Clifford is one of the most astute lawyers in Washington, with a long list of top clients ranging from DuPont to Phillips Petroleum and the Pennsylvania Railroad. Johnson has been leaning heavily on Clifford for advice in the Vietnam war, was grooming him to be Secretary of State but could appoint him as Secretary of Defense first.

As head of the Committee for Central Intelligence, Clifford attends top strategy meetings, listens to others argue, then tells LBJ: "If you really are serious about discussing this, Mr. President, I'd like to be consulted."

This usually ends the argument.

Robert Anderson, a Republican, is an old Texas friend of LBJ, was manager of the 300,000-acre Waggoner Ranch near Wichita Falls, later became Secretary of the Navy and Secretary of the Treasury under Eisenhower.

Before he took a job in the Eisenhower Cabinet, according to Robert Sherrell in his book "The Accidental President," Anderson had a million dollars deposited to his account by Sid Richardson, the big Texas oil man, in order to insure security after he retired.

Little Black Book

Another Democratic state, hitherto considered safe for Lyndon Johnson, may go Republican as a result of a little black book, which mysteriously disappeared from an obscure Elkins, W. Va., law office and turned up in the Justice Department. It has touched off an investigation into the financial affairs of West Virginia's last governor, William Wallace Barron.

The little black book may become as important as the black book featured in the Teapot Dome scandal. It is sure to help Rep. Aron Moore of Wheeling, now a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket.

The appointments book belonged to Elkins attorney Bonn Brown, who described it to this column as his "lawyer's daybook." He said it was stolen, along with some other papers, and he could only speculate on how the Justice Department finally got hold of it.

The book provided a detailed record of the clients and visitors who called upon him while he was "associated" in law practice with ex-Gov. Barron. This back-door relationship continued, Brown admitted, while Barron was a full-time state official. From the time Barron was appointed to head the State Liquor Commission in 1953 until the end of his term as governor in 1965 he received a cut from the Elkins law practice, Brown conceded.

The Justice Department, running down entries in the appointments book, has found that Brown shared fees from the coal industry with Barron at the same time that the coal industry was seeking the right of eminent domain to lay a pipeline across West Virginia for transporting coal slurry.

Brown acknowledged to us that he had made two payments of $25,000 each from the coal industry to Barron while Barron was governor. Brown claimed this was merely Barron's share of "accumulated law fees" from coal clients.

Brown freely admitted he had lobbied to secure the right of eminent domain for the coal pipeline. These expropriation rights, however, were approved by the state legislature.

The Justice Department is also interested in liquor industry law fees which Brown allegedly shared with Barron while the latter headed the liquor commission.

The former governor declined to comment on the specific charges the Justice Department is investigating. He pointed out to us, however, that he had been associated with Brown in the Elkins law firm since they got out of law school in 1941. He denied he had done anything wrong.

90th Congress Tried Hard To Regain Its Independence

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever the final record of the 90th Congress, it is most likely to be remembered for trying to recapture influence and authority previous congresses have lost to the executive branch.

By ordering substantial cuts in spending before it will even consider President Johnson's request for a tax increase, Congress has told the administration it wants a larger voice in controlling the growth of the federal government.

By transferring control of important education and anti-poverty programs from the federal bureaucracy to state and local governments it has called for a halt in the long trend toward centralization of authority in executive agencies in Washington.

Also under challenge is the President's authority to send U.S. forces into overseas combat without congressional approval. A resolution calling on the President to get such approval is awaiting Senate debate.

Such congressional declarations of independence would have seemed ludicrous to an earlier breed of congressmen accustomed to dealing with passive presidents.

But the exercise of presidential power that marked occasional administrations became an overpowering force in the early days of the New Deal. White House occupants since Franklin D. Roosevelt have consolidated and added to his gains.

Where presidents once were content to suggest programs for Congress to act on, they now send the complete draft of bills to Capitol Hill and fight any attempt to alter them.

Under the shadow of nuclear war and recurring foreign crises, presidents since 1950 have tended to act first in foreign affairs and then ask Congress to back them up.

"We want to pause in the headlong rush toward ever bigger government," said Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee in touching off the revolt against Johnson's tax request.

The Senate resolution calling on Congress to "reassert its constitutional authority over the use of the armed forces" said until it does "the American people will be threatened with tyranny or disaster."

Whether the 90th Congress will be able to follow up what it has begun remains to be seen. The move is essentially a reaction to the Vietnam war and its economic dislocations.

An improvement in the war situation might cool congressional ardor for a fight with the President, particularly in an election year with its stress on party loyalty.

But the things that are being said now about the need for Congress to reassert itself have a validity beyond the moment, and if not the 90th, a future Congress may heed them.

Loans for Americans in Cuba

By DON BOHNING
Chicago Daily News Service

MIAMI, Dec. 9—The Swiss embassy in Havana is administering interest-free U.S. government loans for American citizens stranded in Cuba to help them subsist while awaiting long-delayed permission to leave the island.

An average of 160 to 180 families with U.S. citizen members receive the monthly loan asistance, a spokesman for the state department's Bureau of Consular Affairs in Washington said.

The program has been underway nearly a year.

Loan amounts vary but almost all are well under $100 monthly. The final total is left to the discretion of the Swiss embassy, based on need of the applicant, who signs a note for each loan. The loans in Cuban currency are designed primarily to keep the Americans and their families eating.

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has consistently refused to allow some 850 Americans and another 2,250 immediate family members to leave Cuba despite three years of persistent U.S. efforts to get them out.

Only crack in the sugarcane curtain came in December 1966, when the Mexican government arranged for two repatriation flights from Havana to New Orleans via Merida, Mexico. The two flights carried 169 U. S. citizens and immediate family members.

The remaining Americans anticipating additional flights also prepared to leave. They were fired from their jobs and had their properties inventoried for confiscation by the Cuban government once they departed.

When no additional flights were allowed by Cuba, it meant they had to rely on savings, odd jobs and money from relatives outside the country to subsist.

It was about this time the repatriation loan program was initiated, through the Swiss embassy, which handles U.S. affairs in Cuba.

Meanwhile, the departure time for the Americans in Cuba — remains as vague as ever.

The best hope of arranging for their release still rests with the Mexicans who initiated efforts to get them out a little over a year ago. Mexico is the only Latin American country that still maintains diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"The situation," admits John Fitzgerald, the state department's co-ordinator of Cuban affairs in Washington, "remains pretty much the same with the Mexicans still pressing on their (the American citizens') behalf."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 14, 1967

Social Security

Pushing toward adjournment, House and Senate conferees brought out a compromise Social Security amended bill which raises benefits 13 per cent but levies higher taxes on workers and employers to pay for them.

Hereafter, taxes will be imposed on base earnings of $7,800 a year as compared to the present $6,600 base, itself the result of various increases over the years. The tax paid by workers and employers will go up from the current 4.4 per cent to 4.8 per cent in 1969 with further periodic increases until the rate reaches 5.9 per cent in 1987.

The maximum annual tax for a worker, matched by his employer, is now $290.40. The maximum would rise to $343.20 next year and to $374.40 in 1969.

Full retirement benefits will be paid to persons 65 years old and over earning as much as $1,680 a year, compared to $1,500 now. There is no limit on earnings of persons over 72.

Those are the highlights of the new compromise. They will accrue to the 24 million now drawing old age and dependent benefits. In the present value of the dollar, the benefits fall far short of sustenance levels for man and wife except in the most out of the way areas. They need to be supplemented either by part time work, as allowed in the new schedule, or by other income. Otherwise, they are below the poverty level.

Coming Robot Society

The key development of the next century will be the growing role of machines in taking over tasks of the human mind, threatening the world with a robot society.

At the 150th anniversary meeting of the New York Academy of Science, this prediction was offered by Dr. Simon Ramo, a pioneer in the aerospace industry. He believes that mankind can avert such a fate—that a robot society could evolve only by default.

Nevertheless, Dr. Ramos was optimistic. Technology, he said, could even provide us with "instant democracy," where every home had an electronic voting machine, enabling all to participate in day-to-day decisions. That would be chaos, not democracy.

Machines are doing almost instantaneously a great deal of the mental work that took many months and years to perform. No doubt they will be tremendously improved until none of the arduous mental problems of man will remain for him to solve. But machines do not have imagination or initiative. Man will still have to dream and plan and perform.

Machines multiply man's capacity. With them, he can create all that mankind wants in this world—if only aggressive nations will put aside their covetousness and give a man a chance to live the full life now open before it.

The robot society need not disturb us. Properly harnessed, it should be man's greatest servant in all history.

Foreign Aid Bill

When William S. Gaud, the nation's foreign aid administrator, urged Americans the other day to understand and accept foreign aid as indispensable to stability and peace through the current century, in effect he handed them a bill for $200 billion.

The first 20 years of foreign aid, from 1945 to 1965, the net cost to tht taxpayer ran to $121 billion. If we are to continue foreign aid at the level of this year's allowance, the lowest in its history, the next 35 years will easily top $200 billion.

That is a huge sum. But we deal in astronomical figures today. One way to look at the foreign aid output is that it forms one-third of the national debt. Another is that it would have paid one year's federal budget and allowed the taxpayers a year's tax holiday.

But the most useful way to think of it is perhaps what Gaud had in mind when he said it would help maintain stability and peace. For what we have spent on foreign aid would equal seven years' cost of another Vietnam war, without the loss of lives, which is beyond price.

The American people may fuss and groan about it, but by and large they are persuaded of the value of foreign aid. They are only impatient with it because it is so protracted, foregtting the more costly alternative.

In their grief they were able to think of healing others.

Spy Defections Put Red Secret Police on Spot

NEW YORK (NEA) — The KGB is in trouble again. Russia's secret police agency has had another spell of bad luck in recent months and as a result a new purge is reported to be brewing in the Kremlin.

A curt statement printed in Moscow's Pravda in May announced that Vladimir Semichastny, a former leader of the Young Communist League (Komsomol), lost his job as chief of the KGB and "transferred to other work." He was succeeded by Yuri Andropov, a burly man of 52, who is (or was then) a friend and close associate of Leonid Brezhnev, head of the Russian Communist party.

Now, according to East European Communist Andropov is also in trouble and probably on his way out.

The removal of Semichastny in May was obvious related to the struggle for power between his patron and mentor, Alexander Shelepin, and Brezhnev. But the Kremlin, it seems, also held Semichastny responsible for the death of Maj. Gen. Lukshin, a senior officer of the KGB.

An unprecedented official statement by the Kremlin revealed only that Lukshin "died tragically in the course of his duties." However, East European Communists insisted that he was killed near Khabarovsk, less than 50 miles from Red China, in a battle with Mao Tse-tung's secret agents.

They recalled that the decline of Shelepin, Semichastny's predecessor in the KGB, coincided with the assassination of another high-ranking officer of the secret police, Maj. Gen. Georgy Naimushin, who was also reported to have died "while carrying out his service duties."

The demotion of the "young Turks"—Shelepin, Semichastny and a third official of the KGB, V. S. Tikunov—marked the end of the Komsomol's control of Russia's secret police. All three were appointed to their jobs by Nikita Khrushchav while they were still members of the Young Communist League.

There is no doubt that the young Turks were better politicians than officials of the secret police. During their rule of the KGB the United States CIA managed to secure the cooperation of Col. Oleg Penkovsky, a top Russian secret agent who provided an invaluable stream of information to the West until he was caught by the KGB and excuted. In addition, numerous Soviet agents had also been flushed out in Western Europe.

It was therefore the task of Andropov to tighten security measures and, above all, stop the defection of Moscow's secret agents.

Undoubtedly, too, Brezhnev slept better at night, knowing that the KGB was in the hands of a man he selected, rather than in the hands of Khrushchev's choice from the ranks of the Komsomol.

But Andropov was in office only three months when Yuri Loginov, a Soviet spy who posed as a Canadian citizen, defected in South Africa. He was an important agent who confessed to espionage in 23 countries.

Then came another blow for which Andropov was held responsible. Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliuyeva, eluded the KGB widespread network and finally found alsylum in the United States.

But the greatest blow to Andropov's prestige was the recent defection in West Germany of Lieut. Col. Yevgeny Runge. Though probably not as important an agent as Col. Penkovsky, Runge operated for many years efficient KGB organizations in West Germany.

Runge is now in the United States undergoing interrogation by American intelligence officials. It was his defection, it is believed, that is the main reason for Andropov's plight.

Runge faced a problem in fleeing. The KGB usually holds a secret agent's family in hostage to prevent defections. But so sure was Andropov of Runge's loyalty that he permitted him to take his wife and son abroad.

Changes Due in Pentagon When McNamara Leaves

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Ten Pentagon changes are likely when Robert McNamara goes.

Large institutions in the long run have a way of reasserting their authority over the men who run them. For awhile, a determined man may have his will, and he may, during his tenure institute systems that will change the institution. But the institution weakens such a man and turns back on his changes. This action is slowed down, but not stopped, when one "strong" man is followed by another. It is unusual that a strong man follows a strong man. It is therefore best to bet on the institution.

By this reasoning, the following changes are likely in the Pentagon regardless of the man who follows McNamara:

1—Undoubtedly, more delegation of authority and decision making will come. Men down the line will surely get more chance at responsibility.

2—Morale will probably go up. The operation will become a little sloppier.

3—The intangibles of war—those things that cannot be measured on computers—will likely receive more consideration.

4—Things will be less exciting.

5—Almost assuredly, there will be less tendency to equate honest difference of opinion in the services with disloyalty to the chief, less internal spying on what officials are saying privately. As a result, officials who disagree with the secretary of defense won't be looking over their shoulders furtively while they work.

6—Pentagon officials will have more time to move ahead on positive programs instead of being embroiled in the "turbulance" brought about by constant reorganizing.

7—Some McNamara reorganizations may fall apart. These are the ones which have been held together in name only by his insistence.

8—A step-up in basic and state-of-the-art research is possible.

9 — Greater receptivity is likely to adopting new systems — such as Polaris (a pre-McNamara decision) and a nuclear Navy (which McNamara has dragged his feet on)—with greater speed.

10—A tendency may develop to adopt a greater variety of weapons systems, each to backstop the other. The new men will not likely be so certain as McNamara that they are dead right in the systems chosen and assume that in a war it's impossible to predict exactly what will happen or which weapon will fail to do the job expected of it.

On the other hand, McNamara and his immediate predecessors have made some vital changes in the Pentagon. The most important of these — unification of major services, unification of the budget, systems analysis, computerization of some important functions and cost effectiveness in its true sense of getting the most for the dollar—have been the result of hard-fought changes which began with James Forrestal and continued down through Charles Wilson, Thomas Gates and, finally, McNamara.

McNamara's genius has not been in conceiving new ideas or ways of doing things but in his salesmanship and his drive to put ideas into effect. He took concepts begun by his predecessors and whipped them through by persuasiveness and by brute force.

McNamara has had the effect of a strong purgative. He has gutted out some musty ideas and obsolete ways of doing things that everyone recognized as being wrong but most men dared touch only chip by chip. Unfortunately, McNamara has, in cleaning out fat, also carved into some muscle. The Defense Department now needs time to digest those ideas that will work and to eject those changes that weaken it.

Cyrus Vance Leads LBJ's List to Succeed McNamara

WASHINGTON — The man President Johnson has at the top of his list to succeed Bob McNamara in the Defense Department is Cyrus Vance, the troubleshooter just returned from Cyprus.

Johnson has known Vance for more than ten years, ever since Vance handled a special Senate investigation of missile failures for Johnson, who was then chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, boring in on Eisenhower's missile lag.

Vance is highly qualified to be Secretary of Defense, but has one physical handicap—a slipped disk in his back, which causes such excruciating pain that sometimes he can hardly sit through Cabinet meetings.

Last summer Vance finally resigned and went abroad for a long-postponed vacation. He was in Italy only one week when he had to return because of a death in the family.

Then came the Detroit race riots, and the President rushed him there as a troubleshooter. Then came the danger of war over Cyprus. Vance still has not got his vacation.

Others on the Johnson list for Secretary of Defense are:

Gov. John Connally, of Texas, administrative assistant to LBJ when he was in the Senate.

Connally was Johnson's campaign manager for the Presidential nomination against John F. Kennedy in 1960, and incurred the Kennedy clan's wrath when he dictated a statement to Mrs. India Edwards and ex-Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman that Kennedy was suffering from Addison's disease. India's husband was promptly fired from the USIA, but the Kennedys forgave Connally when LBJ urged that he be appointed Secretary of the Navy.

If Johnson runs again in 1968 he would prefer to have the popular Connally run for reelection as governor of Texas to help him to keep Texas in the Democratic column.

Clark Clifford is one of the most astute lawyers in Washington, with a long list of top clients ranging from DuPont to Phillips Petroleum and the Pennsylvania Railroad. Johnson has been leaning heavily on Clifford for advice in the Vietnam war, was grooming him to be Secretary of State but could appoint him as Secretary of Defense first.

As head of the Committee for Central Intelligence, Clifford attends top strategy meetings, listens to others argue, then tells LBJ: "If you really are serious about discussing this, Mr. President, I'd like to be consulted."

This usually ends the argument.

Robert Anderson, a Republican, is an old Texas friend of LBJ, was manager of the 300,000-acre Waggoner Ranch near Wichita Falls, later became Secretary of the Navy and Secretary of the Treasury under Eisenhower.

Before he took a job in the Eisenhower Cabinet, according to Robert Sherrell in his book "The Accidental President," Anderson had a million dollars deposited to his account by Sid Richardson, the big Texas oil man, in order to insure security after he retired.

Little Black Book

Another Democratic state, hitherto considered safe for Lyndon Johnson, may go Republican as a result of a little black book, which mysteriously disappeared from an obscure Elkins, W. Va., law office and turned up in the Justice Department. It has touched off an investigation into the financial affairs of West Virginia's last governor, William Wallace Barron.

The little black book may become as important as the black book featured in the Teapot Dome scandal. It is sure to help Rep. Aron Moore of Wheeling, now a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket.

The appointments book belonged to Elkins attorney Bonn Brown, who described it to this column as his "lawyer's daybook." He said it was stolen, along with some other papers, and he could only speculate on how the Justice Department finally got hold of it.

The book provided a detailed record of the clients and visitors who called upon him while he was "associated" in law practice with ex-Gov. Barron. This back-door relationship continued, Brown admitted, while Barron was a full-time state official. From the time Barron was appointed to head the State Liquor Commission in 1953 until the end of his term as governor in 1965 he received a cut from the Elkins law practice, Brown conceded.

The Justice Department, running down entries in the appointments book, has found that Brown shared fees from the coal industry with Barron at the same time that the coal industry was seeking the right of eminent domain to lay a pipeline across West Virginia for transporting coal slurry.

Brown acknowledged to us that he had made two payments of $25,000 each from the coal industry to Barron while Barron was governor. Brown claimed this was merely Barron's share of "accumulated law fees" from coal clients.

Brown freely admitted he had lobbied to secure the right of eminent domain for the coal pipeline. These expropriation rights, however, were approved by the state legislature.

The Justice Department is also interested in liquor industry law fees which Brown allegedly shared with Barron while the latter headed the liquor commission.

The former governor declined to comment on the specific charges the Justice Department is investigating. He pointed out to us, however, that he had been associated with Brown in the Elkins law firm since they got out of law school in 1941. He denied he had done anything wrong.

90th Congress Tried Hard To Regain Its Independence

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever the final record of the 90th Congress, it is most likely to be remembered for trying to recapture influence and authority previous congresses have lost to the executive branch.

By ordering substantial cuts in spending before it will even consider President Johnson's request for a tax increase, Congress has told the administration it wants a larger voice in controlling the growth of the federal government.

By transferring control of important education and anti-poverty programs from the federal bureaucracy to state and local governments it has called for a halt in the long trend toward centralization of authority in executive agencies in Washington.

Also under challenge is the President's authority to send U.S. forces into overseas combat without congressional approval. A resolution calling on the President to get such approval is awaiting Senate debate.

Such congressional declarations of independence would have seemed ludicrous to an earlier breed of congressmen accustomed to dealing with passive presidents.

But the exercise of presidential power that marked occasional administrations became an overpowering force in the early days of the New Deal. White House occupants since Franklin D. Roosevelt have consolidated and added to his gains.

Where presidents once were content to suggest programs for Congress to act on, they now send the complete draft of bills to Capitol Hill and fight any attempt to alter them.

Under the shadow of nuclear war and recurring foreign crises, presidents since 1950 have tended to act first in foreign affairs and then ask Congress to back them up.

"We want to pause in the headlong rush toward ever bigger government," said Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee in touching off the revolt against Johnson's tax request.

The Senate resolution calling on Congress to "reassert its constitutional authority over the use of the armed forces" said until it does "the American people will be threatened with tyranny or disaster."

Whether the 90th Congress will be able to follow up what it has begun remains to be seen. The move is essentially a reaction to the Vietnam war and its economic dislocations.

An improvement in the war situation might cool congressional ardor for a fight with the President, particularly in an election year with its stress on party loyalty.

But the things that are being said now about the need for Congress to reassert itself have a validity beyond the moment, and if not the 90th, a future Congress may heed them.

Loans for Americans in Cuba

By DON BOHNING
Chicago Daily News Service

MIAMI, Dec. 9—The Swiss embassy in Havana is administering interest-free U.S. government loans for American citizens stranded in Cuba to help them subsist while awaiting long-delayed permission to leave the island.

An average of 160 to 180 families with U.S. citizen members receive the monthly loan asistance, a spokesman for the state department's Bureau of Consular Affairs in Washington said.

The program has been underway nearly a year.

Loan amounts vary but almost all are well under $100 monthly. The final total is left to the discretion of the Swiss embassy, based on need of the applicant, who signs a note for each loan. The loans in Cuban currency are designed primarily to keep the Americans and their families eating.

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has consistently refused to allow some 850 Americans and another 2,250 immediate family members to leave Cuba despite three years of persistent U.S. efforts to get them out.

Only crack in the sugarcane curtain came in December 1966, when the Mexican government arranged for two repatriation flights from Havana to New Orleans via Merida, Mexico. The two flights carried 169 U. S. citizens and immediate family members.

The remaining Americans anticipating additional flights also prepared to leave. They were fired from their jobs and had their properties inventoried for confiscation by the Cuban government once they departed.

When no additional flights were allowed by Cuba, it meant they had to rely on savings, odd jobs and money from relatives outside the country to subsist.

It was about this time the repatriation loan program was initiated, through the Swiss embassy, which handles U.S. affairs in Cuba.

Meanwhile, the departure time for the Americans in Cuba — remains as vague as ever.

The best hope of arranging for their release still rests with the Mexicans who initiated efforts to get them out a little over a year ago. Mexico is the only Latin American country that still maintains diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"The situation," admits John Fitzgerald, the state department's co-ordinator of Cuban affairs in Washington, "remains pretty much the same with the Mexicans still pressing on their (the American citizens') behalf."

Crime Syndicate Forces Way In Cigarette-Smuggling Racket

By JAMES K. BATTEN
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — When the four Mafia hoods stalked into his trucking-company office in New York, Mr. H. probably wished he'd never heard of North Carolina.

It seems that Mr. H., once a legitimate trucker, had started smuggling untaxed cigarettes from North Carolina to New York. Then the Mafia leaders got wind of his little enterprise and muscled in as "partners."

Now the four men were saying that Mr. H. had been chiseling the syndicate, keeping too much of the cigarette profit for himself. So they announced their demand: surrender three of your vehicles — a 36-foot tractor-trailer and two Econoline vans.

Thunderstruck, Mr. H. refused. When he did, he was promptly escorted outside to meet a fifth man, Mr. S., the leader of the group.

Mr. S. directed one of his hoodlum friends to empty all but one of the bullets from his revolver. The gun was then placed against Mr. H's head, and the trigger was pulled. The gun did not go off.

Suddenly impressed by his visitors' persuasiveness, Mr. H. surrendered the three trucks.

This bizarre episode is one of several in a confidential report prepared within Mayor John V. Lindsay's administration in New York City to underline the menace of the cigarette smuggling racket.

The report, which would make interesting reading in North Carolina,, is jammed with details on how the Mafia has taken over the racket. Profits are enormous, because New York City taxes cigarettes to the tune of $1.40 per carton. But bootleg cigarettes can be bought (legally) in North Carolina without any tax at all.

Other samplings from the report:

—On Mar. 9, 1967, a tractor-trailer was stopped by New York police on the George Washington Bridge. Inside were 20,625 cartons of cigarettes, purchased from a wholesale tobacco company in Durham, N. C., for $40,000.

"Riding shotgun with the driver of the seized tractor-trailer was Mr. G," says the report. "His function was to protect the cash on the way down to North Carolina and the loaded trailer truck on the return trip from competing 'groups.'

"Reliable police information indicates that he was armed with a submachine gun when leaving North Carolina. Mr. G. is a known underworld 'enforcer' with a criminal record dating back to 1947. He was shot eight times in the 'Gallo war.' He is suspected to having committed murder several times on contract for crime family higher-ups."

—Another bootlegger, whose "connections with the Mafia are well-known to New York police," was Mr. A. He sent two trucks from New York each day with $8,000 to $16,000 to buy cigarettes from Mack Judge's service station in Weldon, N. C.

"Mr. A's operation ran smoothly," says the report. "Police estimate that over a two-year period he was responsible for the importation of over 6,000,000(M) cartons of cigarettes." When Mr. A and a partner were arrested at their homes in Brooklyn, police found "detailed records indicating the nature, extent of their operations and names of their customers."

Mr. A's customers in New York, in many cases, were well-known Mafia associates. The report mentions Mr. B., who was close to a reputed Mafia boss, Mr. C., a "soldier" in the Genovese family; Mr. D., who takes orders from a "soldier" in the Gambino family; and Mr. E., who associates with members of the Luchese family.

While New York officials have reams of information about the underworld's involvement in cigarette smuggling, prosecution seems to be proving difficult.

"Attempts to gain further information via grand jury investigations have not been fruitful," says the New York report. "The Cosa Nostra (Mafia) oath prohibits informing, on penalty of death.

"So while bootlegging is only a misdemeanor, many of those subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury have served jail sentences for contempt of court rather than break the oath."

"Yes, sir! He wants to apply for secretary of defense!"

Offers No Solution

By JOE CAPPO

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 — The junior colleague of Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D.-Minn.) says the candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination "has not offered an alternative to the Vietnam war."

Sen. Walter F. Mondale said here yesterday that this is one of the principal reasons he has declared support for President Johnson's policy in Vietnam.

"Don't get me wrong," Mondale said. "I think Gene is a great American, and he brings to the country far more than he detracts from it . . . but he still has not come up with a solution."

The handsome, athletic-looking Mondale was sponsor of a Federal Meat Inspection Bill that was signed into law over the weekend.

"Basically, we have to stay on our course in Vietnam," he said. "I don't think Hanoi is interested in negotiations."

He said the only areas in Minnesota where he has noted support for McCarthy "is on college campuses and among the young people."

Regarding the meat inspection law, Mondale said it will be very effective "if we get the appropriation for it."

"That should not be a problem," he said, indicating that the necessary funds would run from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

The law calls for all meat processing and packaging plants to bring their standards up to federal inspection levels within three years.

Previously, some 15,000 meat plants that they dealt in only intrastate sales were not subject to federal laws.

Mondale admitted that he wrote some "practical problems" into his original bill, which called for immediate federal inspection of all plants.

"This would have taken a good deal of time and money to train enough inspectors to make the law effective. —

Resisting Asians Rely On U.S. Nuclear Power

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A Japanese research man writes that the threat of Communist China's nuclear military power to Japan and other Asian countries is a present fact and not a future possibility.

He says China's nuclear weapons are already exerting a political influence on the countries of Asia. No matter how small the number of nuclear bombs Communist China is able to put into military use, the fact that Peking has nuclear bombs at all puts other Asian countries in the same position as was Japan at the end of World War II, when the United States had only two rather small atom bombs. Communist China, with its Badger bomber, or perhaps an intermediate range missile, could launch its bombs today if it decided to do so.

Fear Reprisal

Peking's only problem, this Japanese says, is the reprisal that would be forthcoming from America and perhaps the Soviet Union.

These sentiments echo those voiced by this reporter's other contacts in Thailand, Japan, Laos and Singapore. These men believe it is only the ability and the determination of the United States to hit Red China with overwhelming nuclear force if necessary that keeps their lands from being politically blackmailed or taken over by Red China.

On the other side of the world these men see Western Europe protected against Russian threats of nuclear bombing by the certainty the United States has the ability and will to retaliate against the Soviet Union in the event of an attack.

Not that in each case the Asians known to this reporter stress U. S. "will" as well as U. S. ability.

This certainly is relatively new. It has been clear for a considerable number of years, of course, that the United States has had the ability to saturate any country in the world with nuclear attacks. For a long time, however, many Allied peoples were convinced that when the chips were down, and the United States faced with a nuclear showdown, Washington would renege on its commitments rather than take the chance of atomic war.

It was during those years that many Asians made accommodations with the Communists and moved into a neutrality which enabled the Communist undergrounds to make progress in their countries.

Today in Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, Laos, Japan, South Korea, Formosa, India and even in Burma, men are able to stand up against persistent Communist threats, some veiled and some open, because they know the United States will come to their aid firmly and with speed.

Men in a half-dozen Asian countries have made it clear to this reporter in no uncertain terms that were it not for this certainty, they would have to make the best deal they could with the Communists.

They have made it equally clear that it is the persistent determination of the United States in South Vietnam that makes them certain Washington will back them up in a showdown with Red China and its Communist allies.

Strong Farmer Protest Vote Against LBJ

By LLOYD GREEN
Chicago Sun-Times Special

CHICAGO — The president of the nation's largest farm organization predicts there will be a strong farmer protest vote next year against the Johnson administration.

Charles B. Shuman made the prediction as 5,000 farmers gathered at the Conrad Hilton Hotel for the 49th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"There is a great deal of unhappiness — even anger — among farm people over inflation and the Administration's farm program," said Shuman, who has headquarters in Chicago.

He said the majority of the nation's 2,100,000 farmers feel they would be earning more money if the government had abandoned its program of subsidies and supports for farm products.

"But it's too late now to change the program radically before the Presidential election," he observed.

Shuman contended that inflation is hurting farmers more than it is the general public. He said farm income has dropped this year while the cost of farm production supplies has gone up.

"Food prices have risen and will continue to do so," he said. "But the middleman has been making more money. We know his operating costs have gone up too.

Shuman, a registered Democrat, said he has not decided how he will vote next year.

He declared there is no such a thing as a "farm vote." Farmers are about evenly divided between the Democratic and Republican parties, he said.

"But if the farmers were to vote today on the Democratic Administration's farm program, I'm sure 75 per cent would vote against it."

Crime Syndicate Forces Way In Cigarette-Smuggling Racket

By JAMES K. BATTEN
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — When the four Mafia hoods stalked into his trucking-company office in New York, Mr. H. probably wished he'd never heard of North Carolina.

It seems that Mr. H., once a legitimate trucker, had started smuggling untaxed cigarettes from North Carolina to New York. Then the Mafia leaders got wind of his little enterprise and muscled in as "partners."

Now the four men were saying that Mr. H. had been chiseling the syndicate, keeping too much of the cigarette profit for himself. So they announced their demand: surrender three of your vehicles — a 36-foot tractor-trailer and two Econoline vans.

Thunderstruck, Mr. H. refused. When he did, he was promptly escorted outside to meet a fifth man, Mr. S., the leader of the group.

Mr. S. directed one of his hoodlum friends to empty all but one of the bullets from his revolver. The gun was then placed against Mr. H's head, and the trigger was pulled. The gun did not go off.

Suddenly impressed by his visitors' persuasiveness, Mr. H. surrendered the three trucks.

This bizarre episode is one of several in a confidential report prepared within Mayor John V. Lindsay's administration in New York City to underline the menace of the cigarette smuggling racket.

The report, which would make interesting reading in North Carolina,, is jammed with details on how the Mafia has taken over the racket. Profits are enormous, because New York City taxes cigarettes to the tune of $1.40 per carton. But bootleg cigarettes can be bought (legally) in North Carolina without any tax at all.

Other samplings from the report:

—On Mar. 9, 1967, a tractor-trailer was stopped by New York police on the George Washington Bridge. Inside were 20,625 cartons of cigarettes, purchased from a wholesale tobacco company in Durham, N. C., for $40,000.

"Riding shotgun with the driver of the seized tractor-trailer was Mr. G," says the report. "His function was to protect the cash on the way down to North Carolina and the loaded trailer truck on the return trip from competing 'groups.'

"Reliable police information indicates that he was armed with a submachine gun when leaving North Carolina. Mr. G. is a known underworld 'enforcer' with a criminal record dating back to 1947. He was shot eight times in the 'Gallo war.' He is suspected to having committed murder several times on contract for crime family higher-ups."

—Another bootlegger, whose "connections with the Mafia are well-known to New York police," was Mr. A. He sent two trucks from New York each day with $8,000 to $16,000 to buy cigarettes from Mack Judge's service station in Weldon, N. C.

"Mr. A's operation ran smoothly," says the report. "Police estimate that over a two-year period he was responsible for the importation of over 6,000,000(M) cartons of cigarettes." When Mr. A and a partner were arrested at their homes in Brooklyn, police found "detailed records indicating the nature, extent of their operations and names of their customers."

Mr. A's customers in New York, in many cases, were well-known Mafia associates. The report mentions Mr. B., who was close to a reputed Mafia boss, Mr. C., a "soldier" in the Genovese family; Mr. D., who takes orders from a "soldier" in the Gambino family; and Mr. E., who associates with members of the Luchese family.

While New York officials have reams of information about the underworld's involvement in cigarette smuggling, prosecution seems to be proving difficult.

"Attempts to gain further information via grand jury investigations have not been fruitful," says the New York report. "The Cosa Nostra (Mafia) oath prohibits informing, on penalty of death.

"So while bootlegging is only a misdemeanor, many of those subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury have served jail sentences for contempt of court rather than break the oath."

"Yes, sir! He wants to apply for secretary of defense!"

Offers No Solution

By JOE CAPPO

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 — The junior colleague of Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D.-Minn.) says the candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination "has not offered an alternative to the Vietnam war."

Sen. Walter F. Mondale said here yesterday that this is one of the principal reasons he has declared support for President Johnson's policy in Vietnam.

"Don't get me wrong," Mondale said. "I think Gene is a great American, and he brings to the country far more than he detracts from it...but he still has not come up with a solution."

The handsome, athletic-looking Mondale was sponsor of a Federal Meat Inspection Bill that was signed into law over the weekend.

"Basically, we have to stay on our course in Vietnam," he said. "I don't think Hanoi is interested in negotiations."

He said the only areas in Minnesota where he has noted support for McCarthy "is on college campuses and among the young people."

Regarding the meat inspection law, Mondale said it will be very effective "if we get the appropriation for it."

"That should not be a problem," he said, indicating that the necessary funds would run from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

The law calls for all meat processing and packaging plants to bring their standards up to federal inspection levels within three years.

Previously, some 15,000 meat plants that they dealt in only intrastate sales were not subject to federal laws.

Mondale admitted that he wrote some "practical problems" into his original bill, which called for immediate federal inspection of all plants.

"This would have taken a good deal of time and money to train enough inspectors to make the law effective.

Resisting Asians Rely On U.S. Nuclear Power

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A Japanese research man writes that the threat of Communist China's nuclear military power to Japan and other Asian countries is a present fact and not a future possibility.

He says China's nuclear weapons are already exerting a political influence on the countries of Asia. No matter how small the number of nuclear bombs Communist China is able to put into military use, the fact that Peking has nuclear bombs at all puts other Asian countries in the same position as was Japan at the end of World War II, when the United States had only two rather small atom bombs. Communist China, with its Badger bomber, or perhaps an intermediate range missile, could launch its bombs today if it decided to do so.

Fear Reprisal

Peking's only problem, this Japanese says, is the reprisal that would be forthcoming from America and perhaps the Soviet Union.

These sentiments echo those voiced by this reporter's other contacts in Thailand, Japan, Laos and Singapore. These men believe it is only the ability and the determination of the United States to hit Red China with overwhelming nuclear force if necessary that keeps their lands from being politically blackmailed or taken over by Red China.

On the other side of the world these men see Western Europe protected against Russian threats of nuclear bombing by the certainty the United States has the ability and will to retaliate against the Soviet Union in the event of an attack.

Not that in each case the Asians known to this reporter stress U. S. "will" as well as U. S. ability.

This certainly is relatively new. It has been clear for a considerable number of years, of course, that the United States has had the ability to saturate any country in the world with nuclear attacks. For a long time, however, many Allied peoples were convinced that when the chips were down, and the United States faced with a nuclear showdown, Washington would renege on its commitments rather than take the chance of atomic war.

It was during those years that many Asians made accommodations with the Communists and moved into a neutrality which enabled the Communist undergrounds to make progress in their countries.

Today in Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, Laos, Japan, South Korea, Formosa, India and even in Burma, men are able to stand up against persistent Communist threats, some veiled and some open, because they know the United States will come to their aid firmly and with speed.

Men in a half-dozen Asian countries have made it clear to this reporter in no uncertain terms that were it not for this certainty, they would have to make the best deal they could with the Communists.

They have made it equally clear that it is the persistent determination of the United States in South Vietnam that makes them certain Washington will back them up in a showdown with Red China and its Communist allies.

Strong Farmer Protest Vote Against LBJ

By LLOYD GREEN
Chicago Sun-Times Special

CHICAGO — The president of the nation's largest farm organization predicts there will be a strong farmer protest vote next year against the Johnson administration.

Charles B. Shuman made the prediction as 5,000 farmers gathered at the Conrad Hilton Hotel for the 49th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"There is a great deal of unhappiness — even anger — among farm people over inflation and the Administration's farm program," said Shuman, who has headquarters in Chicago.

He said the majority of the nation's 2,100,000 farmers feel they would be earning more money if the government had abandoned its program of subsidies and supports for farm products.

"But it's too late now to change the program radically before the Presidential election," he observed.

Shuman contended that inflation is hurting farmers more than it is the general public. He said farm income has dropped this year while the cost of farm production supplies has gone up.

"Food prices have risen and will continue to do so," he said. "But the middleman has been making more money. We know his operating costs have gone up too.

Shuman, a registered Democrat, said he has not decided how he will vote next year.

He declared there is no such a thing as a "farm vote." Farmers are about evenly divided between the Democratic and Republican parties, he said.

"But if the farmers were to vote today on the Democratic Administration's farm program, I'm sure 75 per cent would vote against it."

Graveyard of Reputations

Even Military Fails to Understand Vietnam Dynamics

BY PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Americans are learning the hard way what the French in their last days in Vietnam, knew only too well: Vietnam is the graveyard of reputations.

Vietnam relentlessly grinds people down. Few ranking Americans have departed Vietnam with their reputations enhanced. Many failed to understand the dynamics of the war, particularly the military officers who insisted on viewing Vietnam in conventional military terms.

Took General Year

Lt. Gen. Fred C. Weyand spent a year in Vietnam before, as he explains, "The truth dawned on me."

Now the 6-foot-5 Californian is one of the handful of American general officers who seem to understand the social and political aspects that make this conflict so different from other wars the United States has fought.

Few generals have the acumen to bridge the gulf that has divided the military and civilian approaches to the Vietnam war. Weyand has done it.

Here is what Weyand says to this kind of war:

"It is so unconventional that we are having a hard time understanding it. The U.S. military organization has had to be tailored and modified to fit itself to this kind of war.

"Our American terminology doesn't fit it, either. We have had to devise new names like 'county fair,' 'hamlet festival,' and 'search and destroy' to describe what we are doing.

"It is difficult to paint a word picture of what is happening here in Vietnam, even to military men skilled in the business."

'Moment of Truth'

Weyand's "moment of truth" came early this year after he assumed command of Field Forces 2, equivalent to a corps in earlier wars. Its region includes Saigon, the northern Mekong Delta and the rubber plantations and piedmont that stretch up to the central lowlands.

The 51-year-old soldier served in the China-Burma-India theater in World War II. He brought the 25th Division to Vietnam from Hawaii in December 1965, and commanded it here for one year.

Operating in the Cu Chi area northwest of Saigon, a hotbed of guerrilla activity, Weyand figured that he and his division had made solid progress during 1966.

Enormous Problem

"We had, too," he recalls, "but it was progress under my concept of conventional warfare. When I took over command of Field Forces 2 I began to realize the enormity of the problem. I had not known how deeply the Communists were embedded in the countryside, that the threat was as acute, or that Saigon was as close to being strangled as it was."

Weyand had come to Vietnam to fight another Korea, where he commanded an infantry battalion through five battle campaigns. He became instead a student first, then an adept practitioner, of military political warfare.

Many observers regard his region as the one place in Vietnam where solid progress can be charted. They say Weyand and his top civilian official, Texan John Paul Vann, are applying tactics likely to show long-term results.

"In Germany we didn't worry about people, about winning their hearts and minds," Weyand says.

"In Vietnam, this is turned upside down. We have destroyed some divisions several times, yet the effect in the Vietnamese villages was not noticeable. We did not deter the terrorists and the guerillas.

Control of People Key

"It became obvious to me that the priority objective in Vietnam is control of the people. The Viet Cong guerrillas and the regular enemy troops who work amongst the people became the real threat. They controlled the people, like the hoodlum with the switchblade knife in the subway."

The temptation to underrate the guerrilla has been strong for many American career officers, and Weyand says he did not appreciate the military effectiveness of the local guerrilla battalions, companies, platoons and squads until he took over his new command.

"Our operations must and do take into consideration economic and political factors far beyond those normally considered," he observes. "We concern ourselves with the attitudes of the people, the impact of spending on the economy, opening roads for normal commerce to resume, things like that."

Weyand began using American troops in antiguerrilla actions around Saigon and in the northern delta. The tangled jungle at the periphery of heavily populated areas just to the north of Saigon has been bulldozed flat, literally tearing the ground away from Viet Cong who had dug extensive tunnels and rooms in these jungles over the years.

Weyand believes the stranglehold on Saigon has been broken and that the Vietnamese army will eventually be able to take over the job of controlling Communists in provinces around the capital.

Hands Full Now

The general has his hands full right now with a resurgence of North Vietnamese troop activity in the Loc Ninh-Bu Dop area. He has sent U.S. battalions into fixed positions along the Cambodian border and they have repelled Communist attack after attack inflicting sizable losses without taking many casualties themselves.

He makes a point of visiting all the battlefields in his region. He leavens his imposing appearance and star-studded collar with occasional gallows humor.

"I'm putting a colonel in charge of this operation," he mentioned to a group of senior officers one day. "We can relieve a colonel, but not a general. Us generals have to stick together."

And he believes the war is being won. "Day in and day out I see the good things being done here," he says. "They far outweigh the bad things."

The current military threat, he believes, can be dealt with by the U.S. military and the Vietnamese. "I can foresee the day when the Vietnamese can handle it alone," he asserts—with this qualification: "The big unknown is the intentions of Hanoi and Peking—are they going [illegible]?"

Prevention of Blindness Unit Stresses Safe Toys Campaign

Potentially dangerous toys and Christmas tree hazards will cause several hundred American children to suffer needless eye injuries during the coming holiday season, reports the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

On behalf of the Society's annual nation-wide Safe Toy Campaign, Dr. John W. Ferree, executive director of the NSPB, warns parents that 17 per cent of the more serious injuries to children's eyes are caused by missile-type toys such as pellet guns, dart guns, air guns, bean shooters and many toys with rubber bands such as sling shots. "Parents should also be alerted against buying seemingly harmless toys having protruding points, sharp edges, detachable parts or those made with flammable or plastic materials that shatter," says Dr. Ferree.

As part of the seasonal Safe Toy Campaign, the Society recommends that:

Christmas trees, not made fire-proof by approved chemical sprays, should be kept in water to prevent drying and causing fire hazards.

Christmas trees should be kept away from heated radiators or fireplaces.

All electrical wiring should be double-checked for shorts that can cause sparks and flames.

All tree decorations should be unbreakable and nonflammable.

More than 40 per cent of the accidents causing visual impairment in the U.S. today occur in the home, reports the National Society. According to latest data from the Public Health Service's National Health Survey, this represents a greater number than the combined number of at-work and automobile accidents in which eye injuries are sustained.

The Society emphasizes that good eye-safety habits and attitudes should be practiced in the home not only at Christmas time but all year round. Aerosol spray cans containing many different pressurized liquids such as insecticides, deodorants, antibiotics, oven cleaners, paint, and hair fixatives, should be kept out of reach of children at all times. It has been recently found that these liquids, if accidentally sprayed into the eye, can cause severe corneal damage.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc., founded in 1908, is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in the prevention of blindness through a comprehensive program of community services, public and professional education and research.

Both sides of the Vietnam conflict are expected to be discussed. A spokesman for the social science club told The Freeman yesterday that the club is still looking for some prominent person to defend the Johnson Administration's position.

Plan Additional Income For Welfare Trainees

ALBANY—One thousand welfare recipients in the State who are taking job-training will receive up to $30 more each week starting January 1, 1968, George K. Wyman, State Commissioner of Social Services, announced today. He said this additional income would be added incentive to recipients to continue work training that may lead to full self-support. The additonal payments were authorized by the 1967 State Legislature.

The program was inaugurated by Congress under the Manpower Training and Development Act, which furnishes funds to the states to teach new skills and upgrade present skills. New York State has participated each year with classroom and on-the-job training programs directed by the Division of Employment of the State Labor Department.

At present 8,000 persons are being trained under MDTA in the State, 1,000 of whom are receiving public assistance. A variety of courses are taught, including practical nursing, hospital orderly, typing, and appliance repair. Several preoccupational training programs are also conducted for young people.

Trooper Killed, Hunt Teen-Agers

PARISH, N.Y. (AP) — A state trooper was shot to death today near this community north of Syracuse, and a hunt was launched for the occupants of a stolen auto he was said to have been chasing.

Trooper William G. Doyle, 27, of nearby Pulaski, was killed on a rural road, and police said his car was riddled with bullets.

A green car police said contained two teen-age boys was sought.

It was reported seen heading south toward Route 11. Police said it bore an Air Force sticker on the rear and a Minnesota or Michigan license plate, SN 2196.

Police said they were looking for a car stolen from Griffiss Air Force Base in Rome Wednesday.

Doyle joined the force in January 1962. Police said that his wife, Joan, was employed by the General Electric Co. in Syracuse and that he was the son of a retired state policeman, John M. Doyle Sr. of Oswego.

Mexico is said to resemble Egypt in remains of ancient civilizations, especially pyramids.

Will Decide About Britain

BRUSSELS (AP) — The five Common Market countries that want Britain in their economic bloc decided today to bring the issue to a head with France at their meeting next Monday and Tuesday, a West German official said today.

Foreign Minister Willy Brandt of West Germany and the foreign ministers of Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg made the decision at a breakfast meeting called by Brandt.

The West German official said the decision whether to start negotiations could go either way at next week's meeting of the Common Market council. But he said the five would insist on a decision.

The source said the five agreed that the decision must be unanimous. They did not question President Charles de Gaulle's right to a veto, he said.

He added that they also agreed the applications of Britain, Ireland, Denmark and Norway should remain a live issue even if the decision goes against negotiations—provided the applications still want to get in.

The officials said that if things reach that point, all concerned will have to consider what to do next.

Hayman Denies Leherb's Sale

Leo Hayman, owner and manager of Leherb's Restaurant, 240 Boulevard, today said "Rumors that we intend to sell the restaurant are completely unfounded and untrue."

Hayman said, "I don't know where these rumors originate, but in our case they have persisted for several weeks. We definitely are not going to sell."

Yummy Cake Recipe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has leaped into the cake gap with the assertion that the recipe they distributed after Lynda Johnson's wedding will produce "the most yummy cake in the world."

Many women who tried the reduced-scale wedding cake recipe pronounced it a monumental flat flop and suggested baking powder was needed to make the cake rise.

The White House Tuesday confirmed its original pound cake recipe. But Wednesday, apparently nagged by a lurking doubt, cake-recipe spokesmen "decided to make sure."

"We tested it in our own kitchen and it came out beautifully," they said. To prove the point, samples of the cake were passed out around the White House. Newsmen said they found it tasty.

"It is flat, just as the women complained," a spokesman said. "But pound cake is supposed to be flat.

"Now we can say with great authority that it is the most yummy cake in the world."

Hernando Cortes, the Spanish conqueror of Mexico, introduced branding to North America. He marked his cattle and horses with three Christian crosses. The practice spread throughout the fenceless West, where cattle roamed free.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The awesome force of a hurricane, says The World Almanac, is created by the evaporation of warm water from tropical seas. Heat energy is stored as water vapor that forms enormous and agitated cumulo-nimbus clouds surrounding the storm's calm eye. A hurricane can lift two billion tons of water a day and pour it back as rain within 24 hours.

Bill From Wirtz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz has sent Congress a bill providing compensation for uranium miners who contract cancer as a result of radiation.

More than 100 miners already have died of lung cancer because of excessive radiation in the mines, Wirtz said. His bill is intended to assure "that these miners and their families are adequately compensated for their losses."

Uranium mining is conducted principally in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. Only Colorado has recognized lung cancer as an occupational disease among uranium miners. State officials have voiced concern their compensation fund might be drained.

then could not be exceeded in any expansion of the program.

States would have to set up training and work programs and when possible, require adults in aided families to work. These people would be allowed to keep some earnings without having their relief payments cut.

The states would provide day care for children of mothers working under the programs, as well as family planning services for those who want them.

"I thought we learned something last summer," Kennedy said. "If we had some trouble with a minority of our population last summer, what are we asking for over the period of 1968?"

Called Harmful

Harris, a member of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders investigating last summer's riots, said the proposed welfare provisions will prove harmful in troubled American cities.

The Senate Democratic leadership exerted heavy pressure to win approval of the compromise bill.

Democrats were called to a meeting in Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's office where senators up for re-election next year told foes of the bill their chances would be harmed if the measure were forced over and the benefits delayed.

Grant Permission to Have Post Office Nativity Scene

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — The Committee for Christian Witness said today it has been informed by the Post Office Department that it could build a nativity scene on the grounds of the post office here.

The controversy arose here when the committee was forced to remove its sign reading "Christmas is Christ's birthday."

William Pfleging, a postal employe and a member of the committee, said the general counsel of the Post Office Department, Timothy May, said a creche would not violate postal laws or regulations because it would depict a historical event. May specified that it had to be erected at no expense to the government.

The committee will meet to see if it can have a creche made before Christmas.

Trooper Killed, Hunt Teen-Agers

PARISH, N.Y. (AP) — A state trooper was shot to death today near this community north of Syracuse, and a hunt was launched for the occupants of a stolen auto he was said to have been chasing.

Trooper William G. Doyle, 27, of nearby Pulaski, was killed on a rural road, and police said his car was riddled with bullets.

A green car police said contained two teen-age boys was sought.

It was reported seen heading south toward Route 11. Police said it bore an Air Force sticker on the rear and a Minnesota or Michigan license plate, SN 2196.

Police said they were looking for a car stolen from Griffiss Air Force Base in Rome Wednesday.

Doyle joined the force in January 1962. Police said that his wife, Joan, was employed by the General Electric Co. in Syracuse and that he was the son of a retired state policeman, John M. Doyle Sr. of Oswego.

Mexico is said to resemble Egypt in remains of ancient civilizations, especially pyramids.

Will Decide About Britain

BRUSSELS (AP) — The five Common Market countries that want Britain in their economic bloc decided today to bring the issue to a head with France at their meeting next Monday and Tuesday, a West German official said today.

Foreign Minister Willy Brandt of West Germany and the foreign ministers of Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg made the decision at a breakfast meeting called by Brandt.

The West German official said the decision whether to start negotiations could go either way at next week's meeting of the Common Market council. But he said the five would insist on a decision.

The source said the five agreed that the decision must be unanimous. They did not question President Charles de Gaulle's right to a veto, he said.

He added that they also agreed the applications of Britain, Ireland, Denmark and Norway should remain a live issue even if the decision goes against negotiations—provided the applications still want to get in.

The officials said that if things reach that point, all concerned will have to consider what to do next.

Hayman Denies Leherb's Sale

Leo Hayman, owner and manager of Leherb's Restaurant, 240 Boulevard, today said "Rumors that we intend to sell the restaurant are completely unfounded and untrue."

Hayman said, "I don't know where these rumors originate, but in our case they have persisted for several weeks. We definitely are not going to sell."

Yummy Cake Recipe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has leaped into the cake gap with the assertion that the recipe they distributed after Lynda Johnson's wedding will produce "the most yummy cake in the world."

Many women who tried the reduced-scale wedding cake recipe pronounced it a monumental flat flop and suggested baking powder was needed to make the cake rise.

The White House Tuesday confirmed its original pound cake recipe. But Wednesday, apparently nagged by a lurking doubt, cake-recipe spokesmen "decided to make sure."

"We tested it in our own kitchen and it came out beautifully," they said. To prove the point, samples of the cake were passed out around the White House. Newsmen said they found it tasty.

"It is flat, just as the women complained," a spokesman said. "But pound cake is supposed to be flat.

"Now we can say with great authority that it is the most yummy cake in the world."

Hernando Cortes, the Spanish conqueror of Mexico, introduced branding to North America. He marked his cattle and horses with three Christian crosses. The practice spread throughout the fenceless West, where cattle roamed free.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The awesome force of a hurricane, says The World Almanac, is created by the evaporation of warm water from tropical seas. Heat energy is stored as water vapor that forms enormous and agitated cumulo-nimbus clouds surrounding the storm's calm eye. A hurricane can lift two billion tons of water a day and pour it back as rain within 24 hours.

Bill From Wirtz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz has sent Congress a bill providing compensation for uranium miners who contract cancer as a result of radiation.

More than 100 miners already have died of lung cancer because of excessive radiation in the mines, Wirtz said. His bill is intended to assure "that these miners and their families are adequately compensated for their losses."

Uranium mining is conducted principally in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. Only Colorado has recognized lung cancer as an occupational disease among uranium miners. State officials have voiced concern their compensation fund might be drained.

States would have to set up training and work programs and when possible, require adults in aided families to work. These people would be allowed to keep some earnings without having their relief payments cut.

The states would provide day care for children of mothers working under the programs, as well as family planning services for those who want them.

Harris, a member of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders investigating last summer's riots, said the proposed welfare provisions will prove harmful in troubled American cities.

The Senate Democratic leadership exerted heavy pressure to win approval of the compromise bill.

DIED

Memoriam

In loving memory of our great-grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Lasher, who passed away one year ago today, December 14, 1966.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear grandma,
That we do not think of you.
GREAT-GRANDCHILDREN

Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our dear mother, Theresa Post, who passed away 11 years ago today, December 14, 1956.
Death is a heartache no one can heal,
Memories are keepsakes no one can steal.
Beautiful memories are all we have left,
Of a wonderful mother who has been called home to rest.
Sacred Heart of Jesus have mercy on her.
DAUGHTER and SON

Memoriam

A message in memoriam to Mrs. Lillian Lasher who died a year ago December 14, 1966.
Gram, you were one person who never frowned upon another. You accepted all for what they were and not for what they did. Your love and kindness made all who knew you a better person, we won't forget you. Gram, wherever you are, have a Blessed Christmas.
GRANDCHILDREN

Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Lillian Lasher, who passed away one year ago today, December 14, 1966.
Her helping hand was always first
To render any aid she could;
Her voice was always raised in praise,
Her words were wise and good.
Dear Mother, since you've gone away,
The ones you loved so true,
Try hard to carry on the way,
We know you'd want us to.
DAUGHTERS and SONS,
MILDRED and LUKE
BEATRICE and JOHN

Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother, Frances Carpino on her first anniversary, December 14, 1967.
We had a wonderful mother
Patient, kind and true.
No other friend in all the world,
Would be as true as you.
For all her loving kindness,
She asked nothing in return.
If all the world deserted us,
To our mother, we could have turned.
To all who have a wonderful mother,
Cherish her with loving care.
You'll never know the heartache,
Til you find she isn't there.

Rocky Says Tax Increase Is Imperative Next Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has been hinting at a tax increase for months, now says there is no question but that a hike will be necessary next year to balance the expense budget, according to the New York Times.

Rockefeller said Wednesday that several of the state taxes would have to be raised including business taxes and at least one of the two biggest revenue produers—the sales tax and the state income tax— the newspaper reported today.

"There's no question but that there's going to have to be some increase," Rockefeller was quoted by the Times as saying while on a flight here from a "town meeting" in Binghamton —the last of a dozen such gatherings he has held around the state.

The governor has estimated previously that in 1968-69 there will be a budget gap of $600 million or more.

The account also said in part:

Rockefeller said, "I think everyone has accepted an increase in business taxes. In the nine years of my administration, there's been no increase. I think even the business community is ready."

The corporation franchise tax, the corporation and utilities taxes, and bank tax, the unincorporated business tax and the insurance premium tax are the state's five main business taxes.

As to how much would be raised, the governor said only it would be "on some equitable basis."

Of speculation that a tax package would have to include increases in either or both the sales tax and state income tax, the governor said: "It's fair to speculate that it would be impossible to raise anywhere near the amount needed without at least one of them."

Rockefeller said he would have to confer with legislative leaders before making any final decisions on the program but added that he expected to formulate his proposals by Jan. 3.

Think Fluid Leak Cause of Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aviation experts are looking deeply into the possibility that leaking hydraulic fluid may have caused the June 23 crash of a Mohawk Airlines jet which brought death to all 34 aboard.

The Washington - bound BAC 111 crashed near Blossburg, Pa., shortly after taking off from Elmira, N.Y. Witnesses said they saw the plane's tail fall off before it nosed down and crashed.

A hearing into the accident, conducted by the National Transportation Safety Board, was expected to wind up today.

Wednesday's testimony focused sharply on the possibility that leaking fluid from the ship's hydraulic system may have been ignited.

Poughkeepsie Doctor Dies, Was Hurt in Car Accident

SHARON, Conn. (AP) — The emergency room at Sharon Hospital released an injured doctor who later was taken back to the hospital and died there, it was disclosed today.

Dr. Edward Stevenson, 52, of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., was injured Sunday afternoon when his car veered off route 41 and hit a telephone pole.

A passing motorist took Stevenson to Sharon Hospital, where he was examined in the emergency room, said Medical Examiner G. S. Gudernatch.

Stevenson was then released into the custody of state police, who took him to the barracks at Canaan and booked him on a charge of drunken driving.

The next day, Stevenson complained of feeling ill, and another doctor was called in to examine him. On the doctor's orders, Stevenson was taken by ambulance back to the hospital, where he died Monday evening.

Stevenson had suffered multiple rib fractures, a punctured lung and a lacerated spleen, Dr. Gudernatch said.

Asked whether a physician had examined Stevenson in the emergency room Sunday, Gudernatch replied: "He certainly wouldn't be dismissed without a doctor's say-so."

Stevenson was assistant pathologist at Albany Hospital in Albany, N.Y., and his wife, Dr. Jean Keiser Stevenson, is chairman of the Department of Health at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie.

Funeral services were scheduled for today at Christ Episcopal Church in Pomfret, where Stevenson attended prep school.

Picket Lines In Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Picket lines were set up today after the University of Rochester cabinet voted late Wednesday to strike over the administration's suspension of 23 graduate students involved in a sit-in against Dow Chemical Co. Nov. 8.

An estimated 1,000 students and some faculty members heard 17 speakers at the student government meeting. Earlier, the university's chapter of the American Association of University Professors condemned the suspension of the 23 students, and demanded the decision be rescinded.

The college cabinet voted to go on strike at 7 a.m., with picketing following an hour later. Graduate students joined in the picketing.

A Dow recruiter's appearance on campus last month had been protested by the students. The company manufactures napalm used in Vietnam by U.S. forces. In announcing the decision on the 23 Tuesday, Provost McCrea Hazlett said the students were suspended because coercion of others violates the fundamental spirit and moral foundation of the university.

Ninety one undergraduates also were put on probation last month for participating in the sit-in. Hazlett said the graduate students, however, being older, should have understood their action better.

A speaker at the student cabinet meeting reflected the Provost's position, saying that the use of disruptive tactics is clearly incompatible with effective university operations. Asst. Provost John Coe termed both the faculty recommendation and the student strike "selfish acts." "They are naive if they think a strike will act to change the administration," Coe said.

The suspension, involving the second semester of the 1967-68 school year, takes effect Jan. 30 and runs to Sept. 19. Modification of the punishment, including probation, can be requested by the students by Jan. 8 to allow them to continue their education, Hazlett said.

Rocky Says Tax Increase Is Imperative Next Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has been hinting at a tax increase for months, now says there is no question but that a hike will be necessary next year to balance the expense budget, according to the New York Times.

Rockefeller said Wednesday that several of the state taxes would have to be raised including business taxes and at least one of the two biggest revenue produers—the sales tax and the state income tax—the newspaper reported today.

"There's no question but that there's going to have to be some increase," Rockefeller was quoted by the Times as saying while on a flight here from a "town meeting" in Binghamton —the last of a dozen such gatherings he has held around the state.

The governor has estimated previously that in 1968-69 there will be a budget gap of $600 million or more.

The account also said in part:

Rockefeller said, "I think everyone has accepted an increase in business taxes. In the nine years of my administration, there's been no increase. I think even the business community is ready."

The corporation franchise tax, the corporation and utilities taxes, and bank tax, the unincorporated business tax and the insurance premium tax are the state's five main business taxes.

As to how much would be raised, the governor said only it would be "on some equitable basis."

Of speculation that a tax package would have to include increases in either or both the sales tax and state income tax, the governor said: "It's fair to speculate that it would be impossible to raise anywhere near the amount needed without at least one of them."

Rockefeller said he would have to confer with legislative leaders before making any final decisions on the program but added that he expected to formulate his proposals by Jan. 3.

Think Fluid Leak Cause of Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aviation experts are looking deeply into the possibility that leaking hydraulic fluid may have caused the June 23 crash of a Mohawk Airlines jet which brought death to all 34 aboard.

The Washington - bound BAC 111 crashed near Blossburg, Pa., shortly after taking off from Elmira, N.Y. Witnesses said they saw the plane's tail fall off before it nosed down and crashed.

A hearing into the accident, conducted by the National Transportation Safety Board, was expected to wind up today.

Wednesday's testimony focused sharply on the possibility that leaking fluid from the ship's hydraulic system may have been ignited.

Poughkeepsie Doctor Dies, Was Hurt in Car Accident

SHARON, Conn. (AP) — The emergency room at Sharon Hospital released an injured doctor who later was taken back to the hospital and died there, it was disclosed today.

Dr. Edward Stevenson, 52, of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., was injured Sunday afternoon when his car veered off route 41 and hit a telephone pole.

A passing motorist took Stevenson to Sharon Hospital, where he was examined in the emergency room, said Medical Examiner G. S. Gudernatch.

Stevenson was then released into the custody of state police, who took him to the barracks at Canaan and booked him on a charge of drunken driving.

The next day, Stevenson complained of feeling ill, and another doctor was called in to examine him. On the doctor's orders, Stevenson was taken by ambulance back to the hospital, where he died Monday evening.

Stevenson had suffered multiple rib fractures, a punctured lung and a lacerated spleen, Dr. Gudernatch said.

Asked whether a physician had examined Stevenson in the emergency room Sunday, Gudernatch replied: "He certainly wouldn't be dismissed without a doctor's say-so."

Stevenson was assistant pathologist at Albany Hospital in Albany, N.Y., and his wife, Dr. Jean Keiser Stevenson, is chairman of the Department of Health at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie.

Funeral services were scheduled for today at Christ Episcopal Church in Pomfret, where Stevenson attended prep school.

The suspension, involving the second semester of the 1967-68 school year, takes effect Jan. 30 and runs to Sept. 19. Modification of the punishment, including probation, can be requested by the students by Jan. 8 to allow them to continue their education, Hazlett said.

Kin of Ex-Slave Eye South Life

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Three Buffalo sisters whose father was a slave on a Virginia tobacco plantation are looking forward to retiring on the 101-acre farm he bought when freed after the Civil War.

Mrs. Louise West, Mrs. Pauline Ferguson, and Mrs. Bertha Oliver, all of Buffalo are the daughters of the late James E. Rux, born a slave more than 100 years ago near Richmond. He was within earshot of cannon fire which signaled the surrender of Confederate Gen Robert E. Lee to Gen U.S. Grant at Appomattox Courthouse on April 9, 1865.

After he was freed at age 13, the sisters recall, Rux eventually became a sharecropper on the same Virginia plantation. Rux was successful enough to buy the 101-acre farm near Green Bay in Prince Edward County, Va. The three sisters and their nine brothers and sisters grew up there in a log house their father built.

Rux's children, however, all migrated to the northern states in search of a better life. But when reaching retirement, they have returned one by one to the family home.

Mrs. Oliver, the youngest of the three plans to retire in about three years, while Mrs. West and Mrs. Ferguson already have stopped working. In the meantime, the three sisters will visit the log house in the Virginia tobacco fields once a year.

Woman Hurt In Car Mishap

A Greene County woman was injured at 1:45 p. m. Wednesday when she lost control of her car on Route 9W in the Town of Athens and crashed into a mail box and guard rails before coming to a stop.

Trooper David Perry of Leeds said Betty A. McNulty, 25, of RD 2, Catskill, was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital and treated for lacerations of the knees and hands.

According to a report of Trooper E. C. Scott, the woman was driving south and after passing an unidentified bus she attempted to pass a truck and lost control of her car. The vehicle went off the left side of the highway, hit a mail box, veered across the pavement and hit guard rails, and then recrossed the highway and hit another guard rail, troopers said.

Check Truck Fire

U.N. Releases Text of Draft On Rescue of Downed Spacemen

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations made public today the text of a draft agreement on the rescue of astronauts forced down on foreign territory. U.S. sources said the proposal had the backing of both the United States and the Soviet Union.

The agreement follows up a treaty on the peaceful uses of outer space, endorsed by the U.N. General Assembly a year ago, which came into force earlier this year.

Diplomats who have been working on the agreement hoped to have it approved by the assembly before it adjourns next week. It first must be approved by the U.N. Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, but this is expected to be no obstacle.

The agreement states that "if, owing to accident, distress, emergency or unintended landing, the personnel of a spacecraft land in territory under the jurisdiction of a contracting party, it shall immediately take all possible steps to rescue them and render them all necessary assistance."

Astronauts who make such emergency landings also "shall be safely and promptly returned to representatives of the launching authority," the draft agreement says.

In the event of an emergency landing at sea, parties to the agreement "shall if necessary extend assistance in search and rescue operations for such personnel to assure their speedy rescue," it said.

Harassment Jails Man For 15 Days

Accused of throwing stones and cans at a school bus en route from the Rondout Valley Central School to Pine Bush after a basketball game, Roger D. Taft, 23, of Kerhonkson, was arrested Wednesday by Ellenville State Police on a charge of harassment.

Arraigned before Rochester Town Justice Abram D. Smith, Taft pleaded guilty and was fined $50. In lieu of payment of the fine, the man was committed to the county jail for 15 days or until the fine is paid, according to Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes of Ellenville.

Fred Bement of the Pine Bush school system, complained to troopers Wednesday that after a group of students left the Rondout Valley school following a basketball game Tuesday night, a man followed the school bus to Pine Bush pelting the bus with stones and cans on the way.

As far as could be determined no one was injured on the bus and the vehicle was not extensively damaged. Yesterday a formal complaint was made before Judge Smith who issued a warrant and Trooper James C. Kelly took Taft into custody.

Student Killed

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP) — David J. King of Lyons, a 23-year-old student at Alfred University, was killed today when the automobile in which he was riding struck a utility pole and overturned along County Route 66 three miles north of this Steuben County city.

U.S. Crime on Upswing, Gain of 16 Pct. Over '66

The FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, a compilation of statistics submitted voluntarily by local and state police agencies disclosed that for the first nine months of 1967 crime in the United States increased 16 per cent over the corresponding period in 1966. The crime rate or the risk of becoming a victim of crime increased 14 per cent. These figures were released today by Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

In making these figures available FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover stated that nationwide the violent crimes as a group increased 15 per cent. Individually, these crimes showed a 27 per cent increase in robbery, 16 per cent in murder, 9 per cent in aggravated assault, and 7 per cent in forcible rape. Each of the more voluminous property crimes recorded increases with auto theft up 17 per cent, burglary 16 per cent, and thefts over $50 in value 15 per cent. As a group, the property crimes registered a 16 per cent rise.

According to the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, the large core metropolitan cities of over 250,000 population showed an average 15 per cent rise. The suburban communities recorded a 17 per cent increase and the rural areas a 12 per cent rise. Regionally the crime trends were consistent, ranging from an overall increase of 14 per cent in the Southern States to an 18 per cent rise in the Northeastern States. The North Central States registered a 17 per cent increase during the 9-month period and the Western States 15 per cent. Each region recorded increases in all crime classifications.

The FBI Director called attention to the significant increase in robbery on a nationwide basis and, particularly, to a 33 per cent increase in armed robbery. He disclosed street robbery, which makes up over one-half of all robbery offenses, increased 27 per cent, business house robbery 38 per cent, service station robbery 26 per cent, chain store robberies 39 per cent, and robbery of residences 10 per cent. Bank robbery continued sharp upward trend with a 60 per cent increase during the 9-month period in 1967 over the same months in 1966. The FBI Director also singled out a marked 22 per cent increase in the use of firearms in aggravated assaults.

According to the FBI figures, the nationwide burglary increase of 16 per cent continued to be influenced by an 11 per cent increase in daytime burglary of residences. Burglaries of nonresidences rose 18 per cent.

In the larceny category purse-snatching increased 23 per cent, thefts of personal property from automobiles 17 per cent, pocket-picking 14 per cent, and shoplifting 11 per cent during the 9-month period.

Assuming the 1967 crime trend as recorded during the first nine months continues at the same level through the last quarter, Hoover noted there would be an increase of 65,000 violent crimes over 1966 and a further increase of 450,000 property crimes over 1966. The FBI Director pointed out the last quarter of the year, October through December, has historically been a period of high crime incidence.

TRIPLE-S BLUE STAMPS

as American as a candy cane at Christmas

What a joyous moment when a tot gets to meet Santa—in person!—and has a chance to place her very own gift order. The toys, tinsel and holly—the jolly spirit of the season that prompts the giving of gifts to those we love—are all a cherished part of our American tradition. Triple-S Blue Stamps are a part of this tradition too. They spread extra cheer by helping you to play Santa any gift-giving time of the year. And by helping your neighborhood merchants to thank you for being a customer.

Shop at Grand Union and other friendly merchants who help keep the spirit of giving alive all year. They're the ones who say: "The Blue Stamps are on us . . . not you!"

Thoroughly Modern Math Course Given

A multi-media course on Arithmetic from a Modern Standpoint will be given simultaneously this winter at Wappingers Falls Junior High School and Rockland Community College, Suffern, by methods not being used anywhere else in the United States. The course will be conducted by the State University College, New Paltz.

The math course, beginning Jan. 3, will follow a similar experimental course on Education Law presented this fall by New Paltz and combining pre-filmed lectures, an "electrowriter," and a three-way telephone communication network. Bell Telephone Company has said this combination of techniques had never been previously used for a course presentation.

The modern math course, for graduate students and elementary school teachers, will strengthen students' background in new math. A foundation will be established in concepts skills, vocabulary, and symbolism appropriate for contemporary instruction. Sets, relations, and common properties will be stressed to demonstrate the coherence of mathematics, according to Dr. Robert Davidson, Director of Continuing Education at the college.

Students must have been admitted to graduate study at New Paltz in order to register. Applications for the course must be received by Dec. 22.

Deeds Recorded

The following deeds have recently been recorded in the office of County Clerk Albert Spada:

Robert Cornwell and wife, Claryville, to Gregory A. Sablic, Watang, land at Red Hill, town Denning.

Thoroughly Modern Math Course Given

A multi-media course on Arithmetic from a Modern Standpoint will be given simultaneously this winter at Wappingers Falls Junior High School and Rockland Community College, Suffern, by methods not being used anywhere else in the United States. The course will be conducted by the State University College, New Paltz.

The math course, beginning Jan. 3, will follow a similar experimental course on Education Law presented this fall by New Paltz and combining pre-filmed lectures, an "electrowriter," and a three-way telephone communication network. Bell Telephone Company has said this combination of techniques had never been previously used for a course presentation.

The modern math course, for graduate students and elementary school teachers, will strengthen students' background in new math. A foundation will be established in concepts skills, vocabulary, and symbolism appropriate for contemporary instruction. Sets, relations, and common properties will be stressed to demonstrate the coherence of mathematics, according to Dr. Robert Davidson, Director of Continuing Education at the college.

Students must have been admitted to graduate study at New Paltz in order to register. Applications for the course must be received by Dec. 22.

Call for Resignation Of Draft Chief Hershey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft chief Lewis B. Hershey's recommendation that local boards speedily induct Selective Service law violators has generated calls for his resignation from Capitol Hill.

Eight House Democrats issued a joint statement Wednesday asking Lt. Gen. Hershey to step down as Selective Service director. They also urged President Johnson to reverse Hershey's Oct. 26 recommendation to local draft boards.

Hershey's position on draft law violators also drew a proposal for a legislative remedy from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who said "We simply cannot tolerate the existing situation."

In a Senate speech, Kennedy offered a bill that would prohibit use of induction to punish either legal or illegal protest activities. He said such legislation is needed because of widespread fear the draft will be used "as a tool to frighten potential anti-draft or antiwar demonstrators."

Kennedy acknowledged there's no chance for passage of his bill this session, which could wind up this week, but urged early action on it next session.

The eight congressmen said Hershey's continuation in office serves "a constant provocation to those Americans who view the contempt for the Constitution by an officer of the federal government as a reason and excuse for their own disregard for lawful political procedures."

Signing the statement were Reps. George Brown, Phillip Burton and Don Edwards of California; John D. Dow, Benjamin S. Rosenthal and William F. Ryan of New York; John Conyers Jr. of Michigan, and Robert W. Kastenmeier of Wisconsin.

Hershey has stressed that his recommendation for reclassifying and quickly inducting draft law violators would not apply to legal protests against the draft.

Rockefeller Presses Case For Gun Control

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The 1968 Legislature's workload expanded today as Gov. Rockefeller pressed his case for gun-control laws.

The Republican governor told a "town meeting" in Binghamton Wednesday that a recent survey taken at his behest showed that 78 per cent of the people of New York State favored tighter controls on firearms.

He cited the results of the poll in anticipation of a barrage of opposition from sportsmens' groups to his proposal for requiring registration of shotguns and rifles.

He plans to send that legislation to the Legislature next month.

Elsewhere on the legislative horizon Wednesday, a Senate - Assembly committee said it would offer a bill that would provide state financial assistance to county and regional planning agencies.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Metropolitan and Regional Area Studies said the aid would help encourage expansion of existing county and regional agencies and expansion of regional planning in the New York City metropolitan area.

Sen. Thomas R. Laverne, R-Rochester, chairman of the committee, said he expected Rockefeller's support for the measure.

In Binghamton, Rockefeller voiced his belief that his gun - control plan would win legislative approval. He said:

"My judgment, on balance, and that of those in the field of crime prevention, is that it will have to go through. I'll have to go ahead with it.

Fare Increase Blocked by PSC

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission has blocked a move by a bus company to double its fare for carrying school children in the middle of several school districts' fiscal year.

The PSC took that position Wednesday in the case of the United Traction Co. of Albany, which provides transportation for about 7,000 pupils in the Albany-Troy area.

The commission conceded that the company may have to increase its fares in an effort to bolster its financial condition, but said the firm should consider the fiscal effect on the school district.

The company, the PSC said, should give consideration "to the times when school budgets are prepared to enable educational authorities to obtain funds necessary to meet proposed increases."

United Traction proposed, effective last Nov. 1, to discontinue sales of its half-priced "school tokens" in favor of so-called "student tokens," which would be sold to individuals in lots of 120 or less.

The PSC said that the school systems could not have bought the 12½-cent tokens under the proposal and that they would have been required to adopt a pass system geared to a 25-cent fare, if they wished to continue furnishing transportation to students on company buses.

The PSC labeled as "unjustly discriminatory" the plan to require school districts to pay 25 cents each for tokens, while allowing pupils to purchase the tokens in lots of up to 120 for only 12.5 cents.

Griffiths Dies, Ex-Eagle Editor

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — Eben Griffiths, who rose from the post of city editor of the old Brooklyn Eagle to an executive position with the Socony-Mobil Co., died Tuesday at the age of 81.

Griffiths, a trustee of St. Lawrence University for 37 years, died in Methodist Hospital in Brooklyn after a lengthy illness, the university reported Wednesday.

Griffiths was city editor of the Brooklyn Eagle before joining the oil company in 1912. He was advertising director of the company from 1932 until his retirement in 1946.

The university named a new art center after him.

Griffiths was born in Richville, St. Lawrence County. He was graduated from St. Lawrence in 1907.

Seek New Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for James R. Hoffa, imprisoned Teamsters union president, have asked the Supreme Court to grant him a new trial.

In their request they alleged the trial judge and two jurors were biased against Hoffa, and said two prostitutes have sworn in affidavits they had sexual relations with seven jurors.

The allegations of improper trial conduct have been rejected by lower federal courts.

Hoffa is serving an eight-year sentence for his 1964 jury tampering conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn.

REAL FIRE DOG — Who's in charge here, appears to be the quizical look of this small dog that survived the smoke which overcame six persons in a $15,000 fire, in Cincinnati, that damaged a night club. Mrs. Carol O'Rourke and her five children who live on the floor above the club remain in the hospital for further treatment but the family pet came through in fine style and was renamed "Smokey" by the firemen, of course. # Congressional Fight Looms Over School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fight between urban and rural congressmen over federal school aid funds threatens to slow down Congress' rush to adjourn by week's end.

House and Senate conferees met until near midnight Wednesday in an effort to agree on a formula for funding the Elementary and Secondary School Act but broke up in wide disagreement.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told the House earlier Congress could not adjourn without passing a bill extending the act. But unless agreement comes promptly today he is likely to run into heavy pressure to put it over until next year.

One of Four

The school bill is one of four measures congressional leaders want to wrap up before the session ends, but it will take a firm hand to hold the homeward-bound legislators in Washington past Friday night.

There also could be trouble with another of the bills. Senate liberals are balking at some proposed welfare aid restrictions in a measure that would boost Social Security benefits and taxes. There is talk of trying to delay final action on it until next year.

The other two bills, appropriating funds for the foreign-aid and antipoverty programs, moved forward Wednesday and should get another boost today.

A $2.3 billion foreign-aid bill agreed to by House and Senate conferees is expected to win quick approval in the House. And the senate is expected to pass a $1.98 appropriation for the antipoverty program approved by its Appropriations Committee.

Although the House has voted only $1.6 billion for the antipoverty program, little difficulty is expected in reaching a compromise at about the $1.78 billion figure that Director Sargent Shriver of the Office of Economic Opportunity says he needs to continue the program at its present level of operations.

In the school bill conference, members from urban areas are quarreling with rural representatives over proposed changes in the formula for allocating funds that would increase the amounts going to rural areas at the expense of large Northern cities.

The problem arises because President Johnson, seeking to hold down federal spending, budgeted only half the amount for the program that Congress authorized, making the existing formula inoperative.

Stillman to Quit Newburgh Urban Renewal Position

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — John S. Stillman, former undersecretary of commerce during the Kennedy administration, says he is resigning as Newburgh's urban renewal director because the city will be run by Republicans next year.

Stillman told a City Hall news conference he would leave his $15,000-a-year job at the end of the month. He was appointed last January by the incumbent Democratic administration.

He said the election of Republicans to the City Council and mayor's post showed the people had an "apparent lack of confidence in me."

Stillman is a former Orange County Democratic chairman and once served as chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority.

In last November's election, Republican-Conservative George McKneally defeated Democratic incumbent Joseph X. Mullin. Two other GOP councilmen also were elected, making the four-member body all Republican.

Call for Resignation Of Draft Chief Hershey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft chief Lewis B. Hershey's recommendation that local boards speedily induct Selective Service law violators has generated calls for his resignation from Capitol Hill.

Eight House Democrats issued a joint statement Wednesday asking Lt. Gen. Hershey to step down as Selective Service director. They also urged President Johnson to reverse Hershey's Oct. 26 recommendation to local draft boards.

Hershey's position on draft law violators also drew a proposal for a legislative remedy from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who said "We simply cannot tolerate the existing situation."

In a Senate speech, Kennedy offered a bill that would prohibit use of induction to punish either legal or illegal protest activities. He said such legislation is needed because of widespread fear the draft will be used "as a tool to frighten potential anti-draft or antiwar demonstrators."

Kennedy acknowledged there's no chance for passage of his bill this session, which could wind up this week, but urged early action on it next session.

The eight congressmen said Hershey's continuation in office serves "a constant provocation to those Americans who view the contempt for the Constitution by an officer of the federal government as a reason and excuse for their own disregard for lawful political procedures."

Signing the statement were Reps. George Brown, Phillip Burton and Don Edwards of California; John D. Dow, Benjamin S. Rosenthal and William F. Ryan of New York; John Conyers Jr. of Michigan, and Robert W. Kastenmeier of Wisconsin.

Hershey has stressed that his recommendation for reclassifying and quickly inducting draft law violators would not apply to legal protests against the draft.

Rockefeller Presses Case For Gun Control

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The 1968 Legislature's workload expanded today as Gov. Rockefeller pressed his case for gun-control laws.

The Republican governor told a "town meeting" in Binghamton Wednesday that a recent survey taken at his behest showed that 78 per cent of the people of New York State favored tighter controls on firearms.

He cited the results of the poll in anticipation of a barrage of opposition from sportsmens' groups to his proposal for requiring registration of shotguns and rifles.

He plans to send that legislation to the Legislature next month.

Elsewhere on the legislative horizon Wednesday, a Senate-Assembly committee said it would offer a bill that would provide state financial assistance to county and regional planning agencies.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Metropolitan and Regional Area Studies said the aid would help encourage expansion of existing county and regional agencies and expansion of regional planning in the New York City metropolitan area.

Sen. Thomas R. Laverne, R-Rochester, chairman of the committee, said he expected Rockefeller's support for the measure.

In Binghamton, Rockefeller voiced his belief that his gun-control plan would win legislative approval. He said:

"My judgment, on balance, and that of those in the field of crime prevention, is that it will have to go through, I'll have to go ahead with it.

Fare Increase Blocked by PSC

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission has blocked a move by a bus company to double its fare for carrying school children in the middle of several school districts' fiscal year.

The PSC took that position Wednesday in the case of the United Traction Co. of Albany, which provides transportation for about 7,000 pupils in the Albany-Troy area.

The commission conceded that the company may have to increase its fares in an effort to bolster its financial condition, but said the firm should consider the fiscal effect on the school district.

The company, the PSC said, should give consideration "to the times when school budgets are prepared to enable educational authorities to obtain funds necessary to meet proposed increases."

United Traction proposed, effective last Nov. 1, to discontinue sales of its half-priced "school tokens" in favor of so-called "student tokens," which would be sold to individuals in lots of 120 or less.

The PSC said that the school systems could not have bought the 12½-cent tokens under the proposal and that they would have been required to adopt a pass system geared to a 25-cent fare, if they wished to continue furnishing transportation to students on company buses.

The PSC labeled as "unjustly discriminatory" the plan to require school districts to pay 25 cents each for tokens, while allowing pupils to purchase the tokens in lots of up to 120 for only 12.5 cents.

Griffiths Dies, Ex-Eagle Editor

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — Eben Griffiths, who rose from the post of city editor of the old Brooklyn Eagle to an executive position with the Socony-Mobil Co., died Tuesday at the age of 81.

Griffiths, a trustee of St. Lawrence University for 37 years, died in Methodist Hospital in Brooklyn after a lengthy illness, the university reported Wednesday.

Griffiths was city editor of the Brooklyn Eagle before joining the oil company in 1912. He was advertising director of the company from 1932 until his retirement in 1946.

The university named a new art center after him.

Griffiths was born in Richville, St. Lawrence County. He was graduated from St. Lawrence in 1907.

Seek New Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for James R. Hoffa, imprisoned Teamsters union president, have asked the Supreme Court to grant him a new trial.

In their request they alleged the trial judge and two jurors were biased against Hoffa, and said two prostitutes have sworn in affidavits they had sexual relations with seven jurors.

The allegations of improper trial conduct have been rejected by lower federal courts.

Hoffa is serving an eight-year sentence for his 1964 jury tampering conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn.

REAL FIRE DOG — Who's in charge here, appears to be the quizical look of this small dog that survived the smoke which overcame six persons in a $15,000 fire, in Cincinnati, that damaged a night club. Mrs. Carol O'Rourke and her five children who live on the floor above the club remain in the hospital for further treatment but the family pet came through in fine style and was renamed "Smokey" by the firemen, of course. # Congressional Fight Looms Over School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fight between urban and rural congressmen over federal school aid funds threatens to slow down Congress' rush to adjourn by week's end.

House and Senate conferees met until near midnight Wednesday in an effort to agree on a formula for funding the Elementary and Secondary School Act but broke up in wide disagreement.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told the House earlier Congress could not adjourn without passing a bill extending the act. But unless agreement comes promptly today he is likely to run into heavy pressure to put it over until next year.

One of Four

The school bill is one of four measures congressional leaders want to wrap up before the session ends, but it will take a firm hand to hold the homeward-bound legislators in Washington past Friday night.

There also could be trouble with another of the bills. Senate liberals are balking at some proposed welfare aid restrictions in a measure that would boost Social Security benefits and taxes. There is talk of trying to delay final action on it until next year.

The other two bills, appropriating funds for the foreign-aid and antipoverty programs, moved forward Wednesday and should get another boost today.

A $2.3 billion foreign-aid bill agreed to by House and Senate conferees is expected to win quick approval in the House. And the senate is expected to pass a $1.98 appropriation for the antipoverty program approved by its Appropriations Committee.

Although the House has voted only $1.6 billion for the antipoverty program, little difficulty is expected in reaching a compromise at about the $1.78 billion figure that Director Sargent Shriver of the Office of Economic Opportunity says he needs to continue the program at its present level of operations.

In the school bill conference, members from urban areas are quarreling with rural representatives over proposed changes in the formula for allocating funds that would increase the amounts going to rural areas at the expense of large Northern cities.

The problem arises because President Johnson, seeking to hold down federal spending, budgeted only half the amount for the program that Congress authorized, making the existing formula inoperative.

Stillman to Quit Newburgh Urban Renewal Position

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — John S. Stillman, former undersecretary of commerce during the Kennedy administration, says he is resigning as Newburgh's urban renewal director because the city will be run by Republicans next year.

Stillman told a City Hall news conference he would leave his $15,000-a-year job at the end of the month. He was appointed last January by the incumbent Democratic administration.

He said the election of Republicans to the City Council and mayor's post showed the people had an "apparent lack of confidence in me."

Stillman is a former Orange County Democratic chairman and once served as chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority.

In last November's election, Republican-Conservative George McKneally defeated Democratic incumbent Joseph X. Mullin. Two other GOP councilmen also were elected, making the four-member body all Republican.

Paltz College Will Offer Public Course on 'Africa'

State University College, New Paltz, accepted among U. S. Colleges as providing the nation's leading undergraduate courses in African studies, will offer an evening course for the general public on the Land and People of Africa from Jan. 8 to March 14.

The Africa course is the first in a series on non-Western studies to be made available to all residents in the Mid-Hudson region through the new Continuing Education program at New Paltz under the direction of Dr. Robert C. Davidson. The winter course will be given Monday and Thursday from 7 to 9 p. m.

Registrations for the course and the enrollment fee should be received by Friday, Jan. 5. Application forms may be obtained from the center for Continuing Education at the college.

New Paltz has attracted a number of widely-recognized specialists on Africa, among them Dr. Parbati Sircar, who obtained his PhD at the University of London, and who will conduct the public course.

The college has 15 African experts on its staff, nine of them holders of the doctorate degree.

"Africa can no longer be thought of as the 'dark continent' which many of us heard about in school," Dr. Davidson said. "The world in which we now live, and in which our children will travel and work will require factual understanding of African problems and peoples in the coming years. New Paltz is pleased to be so able to meet its responsibilities in this international education endeavor."

He said the course would present a historical survey including the culture hearths of a man in Africa, movements of man and culture innovations; early kingdoms and empires and their trade relations with the outside world; European penetration in Africa and the, the "Scramble for Africa;" and processes of colonization and decolonization.

Also, the physical background: landforms, climates, soils and water, and analysis of environmental problems related to development.

Also recources, their present utilization and problems of further development: forestry, fisheries, agriculture, minerals, manufacturing and processing industries.

Also included will be a study of social geography, population distribution, rural and urban settlements, and problems of urbanization.

Also regional geography of west, east, central and southern Africa.

The latter section will attempt an integration of the physical, biological and social phenomena from different parts of Africa to show the varieties of the land and people of the continent.

California Leads Nation In Vietnam Battle Deaths

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten states topped by California account for more than half the U.S. battle deaths after 81 months of Vietnam fighting, a Pentagon tabulation shows.

N.Y. Second

Leading in war deaths according to computer records are California, the most populous state, with 1,289, New York 988, Pennsylvania 814, Texas 789 and Illinois 703.

Rounding out the first 10 are Ohio 699, Michigan 584, Florida 459, New Jersey 397 and Indiana 377.

These states combine for 7,099 of the nation's 13,634 deaths listed as a result of hostile action in Southeast Asia between Jan. 1, 1961 and last Sept. 30, the last computer run available.

War deaths stood at 15,265 as of last Saturday.

In addition to the first 10, another 15 states have given up 200 or more men to the conflict. All the other states also have posted losses ranging down to Alaska's 10.

Vietnam combat deaths also are listed for Guam, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico.

The basis for determining state losses is the serviceman's home of record, which may or may not be his birthplace. In most cases this is his native home but some servicemen list as homes of record their parent's current home or the military bases where wives remain.

Relatively Accurate

For all practical purposes the home-of-record system is regarded as relatively accurate in indicating the various state losses.

There has been only a slight change in the ranking order of the states with the largest number of deaths since the first breakdown was made available last spring. Illinois moved barely ahead of Ohio as the No. 5 state.

California also tops the nonhostile death category with 227 out of an over-all total of 2,705 dead through September. The nonhostile tabulation includes such causes as accident plane crashes, truck wrecks, explosions, fires, drownings and other incidents not connected with enemy activities.

Behind California in nonhostile deaths are New York 195, Texas 176, Pennsylvania 173, Illinois 148 and Ohio 133.

The next 15 states according to numbers of hostile deaths are:

Alabama 303, Georgia 352, Kentucky 256, Louisiana 200, Maryland 246, Massachussetts 346, Minnesota 224, Missouri 309, North Carolina 366, Oklahoma 208, South Carolina 213, Tennessee 332, Virginia 294, Washington 258 and Wisconsin 250.

SCHOOL FOR TROOPERS — Construction of an academy to centralize the training programs of the New York State Police is expected to start next spring. Architect's sketch shows instructional facilities and administrative offices. Behind it are two dormitories, each with accomodations for 100 men.

$3.6 Million Project

State Campus at Albany Is Locale

Planning for an academy building to house the training programs of the New York State Police has been moving along quietly in recent weeks with the result that construction is now expected to get underway in April, according to State Police Superintendent William E. Kirwan.

The Legislature, following up a recommendation by Governor Rockefeller, gave a green light to the project last year and has authorized appropriations of $3.6 million.

The design for the academy, prepared under the supervision of State Architect Charles S. Kawecki, has been approved and preliminary work on the site has been completed, Kirwan disclosed. In developing the plans, representatives of the State Police visited many training facilities in other states.

The complex, comprised of a main building for instruction and administrative offices for the training and academy staffs and two dormitories, will be located on the State Campus at Albany adjacent to the Division Headquarters of the State Police. The timetable calls for occupancy of the academy early in 1970.

"The completion of this installation, which will have living accommodations for 200 men, will not only greatly aid our training program by providing means for centralizing our training activities," the Superintendent said, "but will also enable us to expand our assistance to local law enforcement agencies."

Services planned for local departments include a 10-week traffic institute and course in police supervision and management.

The main academy building will be a one-story structure 330 by 310 feet in area. The plans provide for two classrooms with a capacity for 100 students each and equipped for audio-visual instruction. The rooms can be subdivided for smaller groups. An auditorium for assemblies will have seating facilities for 304 persons.

Both the classrooms and the auditorium will be provided with consoles which will enable speakers to control the audio-visual equipment and the room lighting.

Six project rooms will be available for special instructional purposes for groups of 40 and also can be subdivided into twelve rooms for groups of 20.

Two other rooms are of special interest. One will be used for training in court procedures and will be authetically equipped for mock trials, including a judge's bench, jury box, witness stand and counsel tables. The other room will be used for setting up various mock crimes scenes for training in crime investigative procedures.

Among other facilities in the main building will be a gymnasium with an area of 7,500 square feet, a room for instruction in defensive tactics and disarming techniques, a practice typing room, a library, a museum, a physician's office and examining room, and offices for the administrative staff.

A firearms range, with 10 firing positions will be located in the basement. This will be equipped for automatic retrieval of targets. A fallout shelter also will be located in the basement.

U.S. Tourists Spend Billions Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The free-spending American tourist is giving Uncle Sam a bigger financial headache this year than ever before.

He's already forced the Johnson administration to launch a new program to attract foreign visitors to the United States in hopes of offsetting some of the billions now spent annually for foreign travel by Americans.

Officials expect American tourists will have spent about $2 billion more in other countries than foreign tourists have spent here this year—a record travel gap which compares with a $1.6 billion gap in each of the last two years.

This is almost as large as the total dollar drain—in excess of $2 billion—expected for 1967 as a whole.

Administration officials have ruled out any head tax on departing Americans to help close the gap. They are concentrating instead on a new presidential task force which will draft a plan to increase foreign travel to the United States, already at record levels.

The task force's first formal meeting is set for Jan. 16 with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey expected to take part.

Officials said the aim of the new program is to narrow the gap. They said there's no hope of eliminating it entirely.

The Vietnam war is costing the United States more than $2 billion annually in its balance of payments accounts—the more formal description for the dollar drain. The travel gap is believed to be the second largest drain.

Raquel Welch Set For Bob Hope Tour

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope leaves Friday for Vietnam with another Christmas cargo of laughs and lovelies including, this time, the eye-filling, 37-22½-35½ Raquel Welch.

It will be the comedian's fourth Vietnam visit and 17th annual Christmas tour but the first trouping for troops anywhere by the one-time winner of "Miss Photogenic" and "Fairest of the Fair" beauty contests. Did the prospect of deafening wolf whistles and seas of eager faces seem, perhaps, a little dismaying?

"No I've been looked at a lot of times, and that's what I'll be there for. These are pretty wonderful guys."

The girl who has graced hundreds of U.S. and European magazines—but has refused offers of up to $35,000 to pose nude because "I'd just be very embarrassed"—leave with a presold audience.

Her pin-up pictures—especially one of her standing provocatively in a Stone Age doeskin bikini in "One Million Years B.C."—reportedly adorn many GI barrack walls and lockers.

Miss Welch has autographed poster-size photos at the request of troop units who have elected her their mascot. The U.S. and overeas demand became so costly that 20th Century-Fox now answers it with photo postcards.

Mixed Chorus in Concert Saturday at High School

"Christmas 1967" is the theme of the concert to be presented by the Saugerties High School Mixed Chorus at 7:45 Saturday, in the high school auditorium.

Christmas 1967 marks another "first" for this group of 97 students. In the past the chorus has shared the stage at Christmas time with other vocal and instrumental ensembles but this year the Mixed Chorus has accepted the responsibility and honor of presenting the complete program which contains representative examples of both familiar and lesser known works selected from the Christmas choral literature, both sacred and secular.

The Christmas Concert has always been a special event for the Saugerties High School Mixed Chorus because of its overtones of "homecoming" for past members of the group and Christmas 1967 will continue the tradition in which these former members will be invited to ascend to the stage to join the present members in a mass rendition of "Home for the Holidays." The entire audience will be requested to sing seven carols with the chorus.

Other sections of the program include "Bright Star of Heaven," an ancient French Carol; "All My Heart This Night Rejoices" by Johannis Georg Ebeling; "Blessed Be That Maid Marie" from William Ballet's Lute Book; "A Babe is Born in Bethlehem" from Piae Cantiones, 1582; "Praise Ye Lord," a setting of Psalm 106, 1 by Alan Hovhaness; 'Fum, Fum, Fum," a Spanish Carol; "All Were There" by George Lynn; and "Cherubim Song (No. 7)" by Demitry Bortniansky.

The program will conclude with two popular seclar works; 'Snow, Snow, Beautiful Snow" by Carl Sigman and Sherman Feller, and "The Twelve Days of Christmas," an old English song.

This year's accompanists include Nancy Bolinder, Christine Beckert, Lynanne Davis, Bonnie Henry, Brenda Pavlinik, Linda Ward and Wendy Wolven.

The musical director is William Searles Carman, II and this year's officers are president Howard Post; vice-president, Nancy Bolinder; secretary, Eileen Baker and treasurer, Ellen Baker.

Tickets for Christmas 1967 may be obtained at the door or from any member of the chorus.

Pioneer 8 Soaring, Astro Help Target

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Pioneer 8 soared through a long looping orbit about the sun today, reporting on conditions in interplanetary space. Its findings might ease the way for moon-bound astronauts.

The 145-pound spacecraft was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy as part of a two-in-one shot that concluded the space agency's launch activity for 1967.

Kicked into earth orbit as the Delta booster rocket stabbed into space was a small 40-pound communications payload called TTS, which stands for test and training satellite.

The TTS beams and receives radio signals on the same frequencies that will be used on Apollo man-to-the-moon flights and thus will provide valuable practice for the 18 ground stations in NASA's global Apollo tracking network.

Pioneer 8 zipped into a wide-swinging orbit that ranges from 92 million to 101 million miles from the sun's surface and will take 386 days to complete one circuit.

On its interplanetary journey it is gathering information on the solar wind, cosmic dust, cosmic rays and electric and magnetic fields. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported all detectors were working well.

The information, combined with that from the still-operating Pioneers 6 and 7, should provide physicists with the most comprehensive view yet of conditions in the solar system. Of special interest is radiation spilled into space by sun flares.

Mixed Chorus in Concert Saturday at High School

"Christmas 1967" is the theme of the concert to be presented by the Saugerties High School Mixed Chorus at 7:45 Saturday, in the high school auditorium.

Christmas 1967 marks another "first" for this group of 97 students. In the past the chorus has shared the stage at Christmas time with other vocal and instrumental ensembles but this year the Mixed Chorus has accepted the responsibility and honor of presenting the complete program which contains representative examples of both familiar and lesser known works selected from the Christmas choral literature, both sacred and secular.

The Christmas Concert has always been a special event for the Saugerties High School Mixed Chorus because of its overtones of "homecoming" for past members of the group and Christmas 1967 will continue the tradition in which these former members will be invited to ascend to the stage to join the present members in a mass rendition of "Home for the Holidays." The entire audience will be requested to sing seven carols with the chorus.

Other sections of the program include "Bright Star of Heaven," an ancient French Carol; "All My Heart This Night Rejoices" by Johannis Georg Ebeling; "Blessed Be That Maid Marie" from William Ballet's Lute Book; "A Babe is Born in Bethlehem" from Piae Cantiones, 1582; "Praise Ye Lord," a setting of Psalm 106, 1 by Alan Hovhaness; 'Fum, Fum, Fum," a Spanish Carol; "All Were There" by George Lynn; and "Cherubim Song (No. 7)" by Demitry Bortniansky.

The program will conclude with two popular seclar works; 'Snow, Snow, Beautiful Snow" by Carl Sigman and Sherman Feller, and "The Twelve Days of Christmas," an old English song.

This year's accompanists include Nancy Bolinder, Christine Beckert, Lynanne Davis, Bonnie Henry, Brenda Pavlinik, Linda Ward and Wendy Wolven.

The musical director is William Searles Carman, II and this year's officers are president Howard Post; vice-president, Nancy Bolinder; secretary, Eileen Baker and treasurer, Ellen Baker.

Tickets for Christmas 1967 may be obtained at the door or from any member of the chorus.

$25,000 1968 Goal

County March of Dimes Drive Launched

The kick-off meeting of the Ulster County Chapter, March of Dimes for the 1968 campaign was held at the Gov. Clinton Hotel Wednesday, December 13.

This year's county goal is $25,000, it was reported at the meeting.

Meyer Kaplan, county chairman, introduced William A. Kelly, chairman of the board of directors, who welcomed those in attendance. Chairmen from the various towns in the county were introduced along with the chairmen of the various phases of the drive.

Kelly introduced Alvord Clements, Eastern State Representative of the National Foundation, who spoke of the research and work being carried on at the approximately one hundred Centers throughout the U. S. Clements spoke in detail of the work being done at the Salk Institute for Biological Studies and especially the recent research breakthrough on cancer. Clements gave a special word of commendation to the work being done by teenagers to assist in the work of the National Foundation by taking part in drives to raise funds.

Clements said that modern medicine can do a great deal to help the child born less than perfect, but it cannot do nearly enough without support from the public. Before medical knowledge can help a birth defect victim, the parents must know that help is available and where to find it. Before new knowledge can be effectively applied toward the prevention of birth defects, the public must be aware that prevention or correction is possible.

The March of Dimes now supports nearly 100 birth defects research centers throughout the country. Each center has the combined skills of teams of medical experts to bear on the complex of birth defects problems.

"These centers are made possible by public contributions and we of Ulster County have taken a great part in raising funds to help this cause. The Ulster County Chapter has also spent approximately $153,000 since 1952 to the present time for patient aid. Please volunteer to help us in the campaign when it starts in January 1968. There are no paid employes in the Ulster County Chapter, March of Dimes. All work is done by volunteers," a spokesman said.

'Space Bus' Can Hurl Warheads

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A Defense Department researcher says the United States has developed a space vehicle that can hurl nuclear warheads at several cities.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering told a dinner of the Dallas chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army and the Dallas Council on World Affairs on Wednesday that the "space bus" would counter additional missiles deployed by the Soviet Union.

After the main booster has cut off the bus can make minute adjustments of its speed and direction, and after each adjustment can eject one of the several reentry vehicles with nuclear warheads that it carries, Foster said.

Thus each warhead would be delivered on a trajectory to a different city, or if desired, all could be delivered within one city.

The Poseidon, a new missile planned for deployment on Polaris nuclear submarines, will carry the space bus.

Foster said a worldwide military satellite communication system with transportable terminals has been deployed also. The system can be moved to any spot in the world so that a local commander can maintain continuous and private communication with the Pentagon or White House.

Foster said the government's aggressive research program will guarantee the security of the United States.

'We maintain the aggressive initiative in research and development so that we can find the surprises first and anticipate the worst that our potential adversaries can bring against us and we exploit these surprises to our own advantage," he said.

He said about $400 million will be spent on basic research in fields important to defense and more than $8 billion will be spent in actual defense research.

Drug Users Steal $10 Million Each Day

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 100,000 drug addicts are stealing $10 million worth of property every day in New York City, according to testimony given before a legislative committee Wednesday.

Dr. Efren Ramiraz, commissioner of the City Addiction Service Agency, said 200,000 New Yorkers "organize their lives around the use of drugs and 100,000 of them are addicts."

Lawrence W. Pierce, chairman of the State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, said addicts needed $22 a day to support their habits, forcing them to steal $100 in goods to net that much.

Both men testified at the second day of the hearings being held by the Joint Legislative Committee on Penal Institutions, headed by Assemblyman Bertram L. Podell, D-Brooklyn. Podell came up with the $10 million figure after putting the two men's testimony together.

Figures on the numbers of addicts in New York and throughout the country usually are conservative estimates, according to testimony given Wednesday.

U. S. Atty. Joseph P. Hoey said there were probably between 200,000 and 300,000 narcotics users in the country with about half of them in New York City.

Million Estate

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A tax appraisal filed in Surrogate's Court disclosed Wednesday that a net estate of $1.36 million was left by Atty. William Palmer, 94, when he died Dec. 5, 1963.

His daughter, Mrs. Caroline P. Frayne, of Troy, was named chief beneficiary, while her husband, George Frayne, was made executor of the estate. The state tax on the estate was $85,332.

Familiar Cop

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Highway Patrolman G.E. Duggan halted a car he said was raveling 85 miles per hour on the Turner Turnpike.

The next day, Duggan reported, he stopped the same motorist going in the opposite direction—again at a speed of 85.

"Do you work all the time?" the chagrined driver asked Duggan.

Before medical knowledge can help a birth defect victim, the parents must know that help is available and where to find it. Before new knowledge can be effectively applied toward the prevention of birth defects, the public must be aware that prevention or correction is possible.

The March of Dimes now supports nearly 100 birth defects research centers throughout the country. Each center has the combined skills of teams of medical experts to bear on the complex of birth defects problems.

"These centers are made possible by public contributions and we of Ulster County have taken a great part in raising funds to help this cause. The Ulster County Chapter has also spent approximately $153,000 since 1952 to the present time for patient aid. Please volunteer to help us in the campaign when it starts in January 1968. There are no paid employes in the Ulster County Chapter, March of Dimes. All work is done by volunteers," a spokesman said.

'Space Bus' Can Hurl Warheads

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A Defense Department researcher says the United States has developed a space vehicle that can hurl nuclear warheads at several cities.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering told a dinner of the Dallas chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army and the Dallas Council on World Affairs on Wednesday that the "space bus" would counter additional missiles deployed by the Soviet Union.

After the main booster has cut off the bus can make minute adjustments of its speed and direction, and after each adjustment can eject one of the several reentry vehicles with nuclear warheads that it carries, Foster said.

Thus each warhead would be delivered on a trajectory to a different city, or if desired, all could be delivered within one city.

The Poseidon, a new missile planned for deployment on Polaris nuclear submarines, will carry the space bus.

Foster said a worldwide military satellite communication system with transportable terminals has been deployed also. The system can be moved to any spot in the world so that a local commander can maintain continuous and private communication with the Pentagon or White House.

Foster said the government's aggressive research program will guarantee the security of the United States.

"We maintain the aggressive initiative in research and development so that we can find the surprises first and anticipate the worst that our potential adversaries can bring against us and we exploit these surprises to our own advantage," he said.

He said about $400 million will be spent on basic research in fields important to defense and more than $8 billion will be spent in actual defense research.

Drug Users Steal $10 Million Each Day

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 100,000 drug addicts are stealing $10 million worth of property every day in New York City, according to testimony given before a legislative committee Wednesday.

Dr. Efren Ramiraz, commissioner of the City Addiction Service Agency, said 200,000 New Yorkers "organize their lives around the use of drugs and 100,000 of them are addicts."

Lawrence W. Pierce, chairman of the State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, said addicts needed $22 a day to support their habits, forcing them to steal $100 in goods to net that much.

Both men testified at the second day of the hearings being held by the Joint Legislative Committee on Penal Institutions, headed by Assemblyman Bertram L. Podell, D-Brooklyn. Podell came up with the $10 million figure after putting the two men's testimony together.

Figures on the numbers of addicts in New York and throughout the country usually are conservative estimates, according to testimony given Wednesday.

U. S. Atty. Joseph P. Hoey said there were probably between 200,000 and 300,000 narcotics users in the country with about half of them in New York City.

Million Estate

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A tax appraisal filed in Surrogate's Court disclosed Wednesday that a net estate of $1.36 million was left by Atty. William Palmer, 94, when he died Dec. 5, 1963.

His daughter, Mrs. Caroline P. Frayne, of Troy, was named chief beneficiary, while her husband, George Frayne, was made executor of the estate. The state tax on the estate was $85,332.

Familiar Cop

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Highway Patrolman G.E. Duggan halted a car he said was raveling 85 miles per hour on the Turner Turnpike.

The next day, Duggan reported, he stopped the same motorist going in the opposite direction—again at a speed of 85.

Newkirk, Holcomb Note

U.S., Yule Seal Partnership

Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk and Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., 1967 Honorary Chairman of the Ulster County Christmas Seal campaign joined in calling attention to the partnership again this year between the U.S. Postal Department's Christmas stamp and the 1967 Christmas Seal. The Christmas stamp and Christmas Seal appear together on posters appearing on 50,000 United States Post Office Department trucks throughout the country.

Newkirk pointed out that U.S. Postmaster Lawrence F. O'Brien authorized the display of these posters on the nation's postal vehicles for the Christmas Seal Campaign period; Nov. 15 through Sunday, Dec. 31. In addition, posters are being displayed in many post office lobbies. He further pointed out that this is the 6th consecutive year that a special U.S. Christmas postage stamp was issued during the same period as Christmas Seal, now in their 61st year of issuance.

In commenting on the stamp-seal program, United States Postmaster O'Brien said; "The combination of Christmas stamps-Christmas Seals teams U.S. Post Office custom with an American tradition. It is a great pleasure... that I welcome the opportunity again to work with you... and to wish your National Honorary Christmas Seal Chairman, Robert Morse, the members of the National Tuberculosis Association, and all affiliates... a most successful campaign."

Speaking of the local stamp-seal team Postmaster Newkirk said: "It is a pleasure for all of us in the Kingston post office to work again with our Ulster County TB and Health Association during this holiday season. I urge all of our citizens to use the Christmas Seal all during this holiday season on cards, letters and packages, and to give their personal aid to the Ulster County TB-Respiratory Disease program by also using Christmas Seals on all of this holiday mail."

Dr. Holcomb spoke warmly of the unfailing cooperation and guidance given to the Christmas Seal mail campaign by Newkirk and his entire staff. "We know from state and national comparison that the working relationship between the Kingston Post Office and our Ulster County TB and Health Association is not only mutually cooperative, but exceptionally constructive."

The 1967 Christmas Seal Campaign-Stamp posters bear the inscription: "Mail Early with Christmas Stamps — Use Christmas Seals" with the seal in full color and the stamp in black and white. The Ulster County Christmas Seal Campaign currently is in full motion and continues officially through Dec. 31 Dr. Holcomb pointed out, and urged all Ulster County citizens to support their county's TB-Respiratory Disease Health program for 1967-1968.

Trust Gift for Olive Library

Election of officers, announcement of a trust fund and annual reports highlighted the December meeting of the board of trustees, Olive Free Library.

Mrs. E. Claire Friedberg, trustee and Mrs. Arline Tisch, librarian, reported on their trip to the State Library Association convention at Rochester in October. What interested them chiefly was finding out how small libraries could improve. They stressed such considerations as having written library policies, putting experts in the area on book committees, keeping the public informed, and gaining additional library training for trustees and librarians. Mrs. Friedberg urged the formation of a Friends-of-the-Library group to make plans for the expansion of the library.

Mrs. Eleanor Proper, chairman of nominating committee, presented the following slate:

As trustees for five years, Mrs. E. Claire Friedberg and Mrs. Rosalie Burgher; and as officers for the next year, Mrs. Freda N. John, president, Mrs. Rosalie Burgher, vice president; Mrs. Eleanor Proper, secretary, and Bernard Stahl, treasurer.

The treasurer's report showed that expenditures for the year were in virtual balance with income. The unrestricted gift in memory of Mrs. Clement E. Chase of Ashokan tipped the scales in the direction of a sizable surplus.

In her annual president's report, which listed the specific way in which the library had been useful during the year, Mrs. John announced that another gift had just been received as a trust fund from Donald F. Bishop of West Shokan, in the form of 30 shares of International Business Machines Corp. stock, on the understanding that a similar monetary amount would be raised by the community. Elmer M. Olson, attorney of Boiceville, explained the terms of the agreement establishing the trust fund, which was accepted by the library association.

Rolison Has Albany Session

Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. (R.-38th Dist.) said he will be in Albany today for an executive meeting of the Senate Committee on Codes.

"This meeting has been called," the Senator said, "for the purpose of examining in closed session the controversial section of the new Penal Code dealing with the use of deadly physical force." Senator Rolison stated.

"A number of bills have already been pre-filed and it is my expectation that the Committee will review these bills with the view towards modification of the existing statutes which have caused such a tremendous amount of concern throughout the state. I am very definitely in favor of eliminating any provision which has the effect of making the job of our police officer that much more difficult and which strikes fear in the hearts of people who may be faced with the possibility of repelling an intruder in their own home."

Huge Artillery Shotgun Shell Used in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has started using what amounts to huge artillery shotgun shells against the Communists in South Vietnam sources report.

New artillery rounds fired in regular 105mm Howitzer pieces spray thousands of dart-shaped steel shafts over broad areas of jungle or open territory.

One well-aimed round can kill hundreds of enemy troops massing for an attack.

Military men report the weapon has been used with lethal effectiveness in such actions as Communist charges against American artillery positions below the Demilitarized Zone.

"I've seen reports of enemy soldiers actually being nailed to trees by these things," one officer commented.

Information on the antipersonnel cartridge has been cleared for publication by the Defense Department's security review office but defense officials decided not to announce its development through the Pentagon. A possible reason was the ugly nature of the weapon.

The new artillery round was first sent to the war zone on a test basis but is expected to become a standard ammunition item. It still bears its experimental designation of XM546.

Army officials say the round can be used either for close-in defensive fire or conventional direct fire.

It works this way: The round is fired into the air by a propelling charge, then explodes in flight projecting thousands of shafts specially made to fly nose-first. A fuse on the projectile allows commanders to set the distance at which the dart package bursts.

Each shaft weighs 8 grains. The entire round weighs 28 pounds and is slightly over 34 inches long. Its fuse begins ticking away as the projectile spins out the artillery tube.

New Try to Ease Abort Law

NEW YORK (AP) — Assemblyman Albert H. Blumenthal announced Wednesday hat he and 44 other legislators plan a new attempt to liberalize the state's 84-year-old abortion law.

Blumenthal, whose proposal last year died in the Assembly Codes Committee because Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia and other legislative leaders concluded the subject matter was simply too hot to handle, was optimistic about passage.

Three States Act

Blumenthal, a Manhattan Democrat, said at a news conference that since the committee defeat, California, North Carolina and Colorado have liberalized their statutes.

He said he expected continued stiff opposition from the Roman Catholic Church. Last year, church representatives at the Capitol waged an all-out effort to block any changes in the law.

Blumenthal's proposal would retain the only grounds in the present law for legal abortion — a substantial danger that the pregnancy endangers the mother's life.

In addition, the proposal—like last year's—would allow abortions if:

—There is a serious risk to the physical or mental health of the mother.

—There is a serious risk that the fetus, if born, will be permanently and seriously physically or mentally impaired.

—The pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

—The female is 13 years old or younger.

—The female is legally insane or incompetent.

Travia, and Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki, last year were said to favor legislation that would cover rape or incest—but nothing further. Rockefeller, who has spoken publicly for more liberal law, also was reported willing to settle for such limited changes.

No Chat With Travia

Blumenthal said he has not talked to Travia but he quoted the powerful Democrat as saying the question would reach the Legislature's floor this year. It was Travia who prevented this last year after rounds of informal conferences leading to the conclusion the subject was too hot.

Travia, a Catholic, said early in the 1967 session he might be willing to accept some liberalization. Later, he said he would advocate none of his own.

Blumenthal's proposal contains one new provision. This would allow doctors, nurses and hospitals to refuse a request for a legal abortion and avoid a lawsuit for malpractice.

Sexton Completes Training Courses

John Sexton, sales representative for Tek Bearing Co., 164 Garden Street, Poughkeepsie, recently completed Johns-Manville's Clipper Oil Seal Distributor Training School in Princeton, N. J. The school, which was held at the Princeton Inn, consisted of one and one-half days of orientation and marketing sessions on the Clipper Oil Seal, including sessions devoted to selection and installation techniques.

Clipper Oil Seals feature a tough, dense asbestos-rubber heel which J-M says is one-of-a-kind in the industry. Asbestos is used in the Clipper Oil Seal because of its strength and heat resistance. The combination of asbestos and rubber allows the added advantage of corrosion resistance. According to J-M, no sealing compound is required.

Sexton resides in Ulster Park (RFD Box 286). He is a volunteer fireman, and a member of the Rifton Golf Association.

Resignation of Marcus Is 10th Under Lindsay

NEW YORK (AP)—When he took office Mayor John V. Lindsay recruited a breed of bright young men he called "urbanists" and assigned them key posts in his administration.

But their turnover has been high: In less than 24 months 10 top Lindsay appointees have resigned—some under fire, some in anger, some with regret and some with relief.

The latest to leave, Water Commissioner James L. Marcus, one of Lindsay's top political advisers, resigned Tuesday while the district attorney's office was investigating a complaint about his activities as an investment counselor before he joined the city administration.

Fit Specifications

Marcus, slated for a top job as head of the Environmental Protection Administration, one of the mayor's proposed super-agencies, fit the Lindsay specifications perfectly.

At the time of his nationwide talent search, close aides said the mayor was looking for a "Kennedy-type" administration meaning "young, brainy and vigorous." Selection, they said, was based on a man's ability to work long hours and his absence of political affiliation.

Marcus, the 37-year-old son-in-law of John Davis Lodge, former governor of Connecticut, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, spent several years in business, joined Lindsay as a mayoral assistant and began a steady climb to the top of the Lindsay team.

His surprise resignation was announced as political leaders speculated on the status of Health Services administrator Howard Brown, who is in the hospital with a case of infectious hepatitis.

It has been rumored that Brown had also handed in his resignation, but Lindsay said Tuesday he would make no comment until Brown leaves the hospital.

Lindsay was initially pleased by the success of his talent search. At the end of his first year in office, he said one of his major accomplishments had been the installment of "competent young men—the 'urbanists', that new breed of nonpolitical government specialists—in key municipal positions of responsibility and judgment. . ."

However, the rash of resignations since the Republican mayor's appraisal—seven since February—drew sharp criticism Tuesday from City Councilman Edward L. Sadowsky.

"The first requirement for the successful operation of our agencies is for administrators to stick with their job," the Queens Democrat said. "What appears to be a precipitous departure of top executives in recent months does the city no good and can effectively paralyze the operations of these agencies."

Periconi Was First

First to leave the Lindsay team was Sanitation Commissioner Joseph F. Periconi, who resigned his $30,000-a-year post in November after a probe into alleged shakedowns and promotion payoffs in his department. The 56-year-old sanitation chief was not personally mentioned in any charges.

Within days after Periconi's departure was announced, Lindsay had two other resignations on his desk—from Deputy Mayor Robert Price and press secretary Woody Klein.

Price, 33, Lindsay's closest political adviser and manager of his four successful congressional campaigns and his mayoral campaign, left his protege to become an executive with the Dreyfus Fund, Inc.

The Linday team's most popular member, Parks Commissioner Thomas P. F. Hoving, traded his "happenings" and Batman shows last December for sculpture and painting when he resigned to become director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Buildings Commissioner Charles G. Moerdler, who weathered a storm in March 1966 when it was disclosed that his father-in-law owned several slum properties, resigned in July to join a law firm. The 32-year-old Moerdler said private life would give him "the latitude of engaging in political activity—a most welcome task formerly closed to me."

Mitchell Sviridoff, human resources administrator, announced his resignation in August "to accept an offer that comes once in a lifetime." The offer: To become vice president for national affairs for the Ford Foundation.

Less than 10 days later, Lindsay confirmed that Housing Authority Chairman Walter E. Washington was leaving to become mayor of Washington, D.C.

Last month, Lindsay lost two more administrators, Transportation Administrator Arthur E. Palmer Jr., and Sanitation Commissioner Samuel J. Kearing.

ARMY'S NEWEST — The U. S. Army showed off its newest and most advanced combat helicopter, the AH-56A Cheyenne, in its first flight at Van Nuys, Calif. The Cheyenne, built by Lockheed-California Co., is first of its kind with stubby fixed conventional wings and pusher propeller on its tail to give it top speed of 250 mph. An advanced armament system, built by Emerson Electric Co., St. Louis, features a swiveling 360-degree nose mounted 30mm automatic gun that can be aimed by a sight mounted on pilot's helmet. ## Pleasure Fund

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) —In the last 12 years, Wofford College has provided student loans for such things as stereo and hi-fi sets, a trip to a mountain resort, a secondhand car and karate lessons.

All of the loans were granted by the college administration through a "pleasure fund," established 12 years ago by an anonymous Wofford graduate who said he didn't want any students to go through Wofford "without having any fun."

More than 1,500 students have borrowed up to $50 each through the "pleasure fund." Students are charged a $1 "paper fee" which goes back into the fund when the loan is repaid.

The school superintendent said last month that no one could wear the button in the city's schools, and the American Civil Liberties Union threatened to go to court.

Resignation of Marcus Is 10th Under Lindsay

NEW YORK (AP)—When he took office Mayor John V. Lindsay recruited a breed of bright young men he called "urbanists" and assigned them key posts in his administration.

But their turnover has been high: In less than 24 months 10 top Lindsay appointees have resigned—some under fire, some in anger, some with regret and some with relief.

The latest to leave, Water Commissioner James L. Marcus, one of Lindsay's top political advisers, resigned Tuesday while the district attorney's office was investigating a complaint about his activities as an investment counselor before he joined the city administration.

Fit Specifications

Marcus, slated for a top job as head of the Environmental Protection Administration, one of the mayor's proposed superagencies, fit the Lindsay specifications perfectly.

A the time of his nationwide talent search, close aides said the mayor was looking for a "Kennedy-type" administration meaning "young, brainy and vigorous." Selection, they said, was based on a man's ability to work long hours and his absence of political affiliation.

Marcus, the 37-year-old son-in-law of John Davis Lodge, former governor of Connecticut, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, spent several years in business, joined Lindsay as a mayoral assistant and began a steady climb to the top of the Lindsay team.

His surprise resignation was announced as political leaders speculated on the status of Health Services administrator Howard Brown, who is in the hospital with a case of infectious hepatitis.

It has been rumored that Brown had also handed in his resignation, but Lindsay said Tuesday he would make no comment until Brown leaves the hospital.

Lindsay was initially pleased by the success of his talent search. At the end of his first year in office, he said one of his major accomplishments had been the installment of "competent young men—the 'urbanists', that new breed of nonpolitical government specialists—in key municipal positions of responsibility and judgment. . ."

However, the rash of resignations since the Republican mayor's appraisal—seven since February—drew sharp criticism Tuesday from City Councilman Edward L. Sadowsky.

"The first requirement for the successful operation of our agencies is for administrators to stick with their job," the Queens Democrat said. "What appears to be a precipitous departure of top executives in recent months does the city no good and can effectively paralyze the operations of these agencies."

Periconi Was First

First to leave the Lindsay team was Sanitation Commissioner Joseph F. Periconi, who resigned his $30,000-a-year post in November after a probe into alleged shakedowns and promotion payoffs in his department. The 56-year-old sanitation chief was not personally mentioned in any charges.

Within days after Periconi's departure was announced, Lindsay had two other resignations on his desk—from Deputy Mayor Robert Price and press secretary Woody Klein.

Price, 33, Lindsay's closest political adviser and manager of his four successful congressional campaigns and his mayoral campaign, left his protege to become an executive with the Dreyfus Fund, Inc.

The Linday team's most popular member, Parks Commissioner Thomas P. F. Hoving, traded his "happenings" and Batman shows last December for sculpture and painting when he resigned to become director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Buildings Commissioner Charles G. Moerdler, who weathered a storm in March 1966 when it was disclosed that his father-in-law owned several slum properties, resigned in July to join a law firm. The 32-year-old Moerdler said private life would give him "the latitude of engaging in political activity—a most welcome task formerly closed to me."

Mitchell Sviridoff, human resources administrator, announced his resignation in August "to accept an offer that comes once in a lifetime." The offer: To become vice president for national affairs for the Ford Foundation.

Less than 10 days later, Lindsay confirmed that Housing Authority Chairman Walter E. Washington was leaving to become mayor of Washington, D.C.

Last month, Lindsay lost two more administrators, Transportation Administrator Arthur E. Palmer Jr., and Sanitation Commissioner Samuel J. Kearing.

ARMY'S NEWEST — The U. S. Army showed off its newest and most advanced combat helicopter, the AH-56A Cheyenne, in its first flight at Van Nuys, Calif. The Cheyenne, built by Lockheed-California Co., is first of its kind with stubby fixed conventional wings and pusher propeller on its tail to give it top speed of 250 mph. An advanced armament system, built by Emerson Electric Co., St. Louis, features a swiveling 360-degree nose mounted 30mm automatic gun that can be aimed by a sight mounted on pilot's helmet. # Named Curator Aide At Dutchess Sites

Superintendent Stuart H. Maule of the Home of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vanderbilt Mansion National Historic Sites announced the appointment of Mrs. Margaret W. Partridge of Morristown National Historical Park, New Jersey, to fill the assistant Museum Curator's position. Mrs. Partridge's primary duties will be to assist Museum Curator Albert McClure in the preservation work, and in museum exhibit and signs planning.

MRS. M. W. PARTRIDGE

Mrs. Partridge, a native of West Orange, N. J., has been employed at Morristown National Historical Park for the last four years. She has completed several undergraduate courses at Radcliff, and in the last two years has completed a course on American Furniture offered at the Metropolitan Museum of Art by Columbia University. She is currently attending a similar course at the same museum on European Furniture.

Superintendent Maule said that Mrs. Partridge is a welcomed addition to the staff. This is particularly true in view of the expanding interpretive program at Roosevelt-Vanderbilt National Historic Sites. The National Park Service's PARKSCAPE U. S. A. program emphasizes "living history," and this has opened several avenues of interpretive possibilities—particularly with respect to the five senses. Some of the ideas are now in effect at both the Vanderbilt Visitor Center and the Vanderbilt Mansion.

Named Curator Aide At Dutchess Sites

Superintendent Stuart H. Maule of the Home of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vanderbilt Mansion National Historic Sites announced the appointment of Mrs. Margaret W. Partridge of Morristown National Historical Park, New Jersey, to fill the assistant Museum Curator's position. Mrs. Partridge's primary duties will be to assist Museum Curator Albert McClure in the preservation work, and in museum exhibit and signs planning.

MRS. M. W. PARTRIDGE

Mrs. Partridge, a native of West Orange, N. J., has been employed at Morristown National Historical Park for the last four years. She has completed several undergraduate courses at Radcliff, and in the last two years has completed a course on American Furniture offered at the Metropolitan Museum of Art by Columbia University. She is currently attending a similar course at the same museum on European Furniture.

Superintendent Maule said that Mrs. Partridge is a welcomed addition to the staff. This is particularly true in view of the expanding interpretive program at Roosevelt-Vanderbilt National Historic Sites. The National Park Service's PARKSCAPE U. S. A. program emphasizes "living history," and this has opened several avenues of interpretive possibilities—particularly with respect to the five senses. Some of the ideas are now in effect at both the Vanderbilt Visitor Center and the Vanderbilt Mansion.

The public may join the march in Woodstock as a protest to the war in Vietnam.

Spots Own Car

NEWTON, Kan. (AP) — William P. Hand was at work at his filling station south of Newton when a car started into his station, then pulled away.

Hand thought it looked like his car. He called home and, sure enough, his was missing.

About 30 minutes later Wichita police reported they had the car and two young occupants in custody.

With Draft Chief Hershey

Justice Department Disagrees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department may eventually find itself defending in court an action by draft chief Lewis B. Hershey with which it disagrees.

The situation could result from several suits—the principal one filed by the National Student Association — challenging Lt. Gen. Hershey's recommendation that local draft boards strip deferments from persons who interfere with the inducting process. He urged the boards to declare such persons draft delinquents, making them subject to priority induction into the service.

Conflict With Clark

It was this policy, announced by Hershey in an Oct. 26 letter to draft boards, that brought him into conflict with Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

Justice Department officials have said Hershey's proposal is both unconstitutional and contrary to Selective Service law.

The department is said to feel that if an individual is guilty of a crime such as destroying a draft card or interfering with the draft, he should be prosecuted in court rather than subjected to immediate induction.

The National Student Association, with campus units at 335 U.S. colleges, is seeking a federal district court injunction in Washington to prevent Hershey or local draft boards from enforcing his directive.

It also asks that all Selective Service regulations dealing with classification of registrants as delinquent be declared unconstitutional. The association will seek a preliminary injunction Thursday at a district court hearing.

The department has, basically, three courrses open to it:

— It could question whether the NSA is entitlled to bring the case to court because it is not an individual who has been reclassified and therefore has not been injured by the Hershey directive or the law.

— The department may point out that a 1967 Selective Service Act provision requires that before reclassification may be challenged an individual must refuse to be inducted.

— Or the department could defend the Hershey memorandum.

His Last Word

Hershey said Tuesday night he has spoken his last word on the issue of how induction law violations should be handled.

He said in the future he'll refer all questions to a joint statement he and Clark issued last Saturday. The statement appeared to place draft law violations within the department's jurisdiction, making violators subject to court action rather than accelerated conscription.

Hershey refused to comment on a report that he and Clark still differ on policy despite the joint statement. And when asked if he still stood behind his Oct. 26 directive, Hershey said:

"Yes. Well, I said that yesterday but I'm not even saying that much today. I'm not going to comment any further on this."

Rebate For American Motors

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In its battle for survival, the deficit ridden American Motors Corp. has received bank terms that would be refused richer companies and now, in addition, it will get a tax break that nobody else can obtain.

The company, which recently reported a fiscal year loss of $75.8 million, soon is expected to receive a second extension on repayment of a loan that originally totaled $95 million. The banks seemingly have no choice but to extend.

Almost simultaneously, congressional action this week will mean a big tax rebate for the company, a gift that may total as much as $20 million. Only American Motors can obtain a rebate through this unique legislation.

Was Extended

The bank loan was extended last year when the troubled company, the nation's fourth largest automaker, neared bankruptcy. The loan, totaling $95 million, was extended by a group of 24 banks.

Last May, when the loan was to have been repaid, these banks granted an extension on American Motors' promise to sell a subsidiary and use some of the money to reduce its indebtedness. This American Motors did.

Now the company still owes the banks $60 million and still it is barely afloat in a sea of red ink. Payment day is Dec. 31, and it appears the banks will again extend the deadline, for they cannot sink the company.

The tax action, which has been approved both by the House and Senate, also has been tailored specifically to American Motors' problems.

The tax provision concerns a section of law which permits operating losses to be applied as a reduction on taxes already paid in more profitable years.

The new legislation will enable American Motors to apply its present losses against taxes paid in the previous five years. This is an extension of two years, a benefit that no other company can obtain.

The wisdom of this move now is being questioned by businessmen who certainly would like to have the same breaks. Is this legislation fair to other corporations? Can Congress so easily give preferential treatment?

Though based in perhaps the most humane motives, the action is provoking a lot more questions also.

Is it fair to other taxpayers, to productive individuals and enterprises who theoretically must pay a disproportionate share of taxes to support a losing enterprise?

Isn't it the free enterprise credo, with reservations dictated by morality, charity, civility and progress, that the less efficient concerns should fall by the wayside as the productive and efficient advance?

Proponents of the tax measure can muster some very convincing arguments. American Motors employs close to 28,000 workers whose jobs would be jeopardized by financial failure. Its 2,500 dealers would be endangered. Hundreds of suppliers would be hurt by bankruptcy. Shareholders would lose equity. Automotive competition would be reduced.

Mismanagement Seen

The present plight of American Motors may not be the result solely of its own internal problems, but a very strong case can be made for mismanagement.

Why, the critics ask, should a once profitable company have fallen into the red at the very time auto sales were reaching record high levels?

Why should American Motors, which profitably developed the smaller car market in the United States, now see it taken over largely by foreign imports, whose sales are 15 to 20 per cent higher than a year ago?

Calls Protests Of Viet War Boost for Reds

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The assistant commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps contends that demonstrations protesting U.S. involvement in Vietnam boost the morale "of an enemy which is clearly losing the war."

Lt. Gen. Lewis J. Walt, made that assertion Wednesday night in an address before an audience of 250 in suburban Guilderland.

The speaking engagement, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club here, drew no protesters.

Walt said the morale of U.S. servicemen had not been hurt by the demonstrations at home.

"The morale of the American forces is the highest I have ever seen," Walt said. But, he added:

"The North Vietnamese leaders believe they can win the second war—the psychological and political arena of the war in the United States."

Santa to Tour Esopus Town On Saturday

A letter postmarked North Pole today disclosed plans by Santa Claus to visit the Town of Esopus on a schedule arranged by the Esopus Lions Club.

Accepting the invitation for the trip here, Santa cited a tight schedule and said he would be available Saturday, Dec. 16, touching down at the post offices in the town.

Santa noted that due to the fact that his reindeers are resting before the legendary Dec. 25 journey, he would arrive in a van instead of his distinctive sleigh.

"The sleigh," Santa added, "is partially packed for the overnight trip later this month."

Expressing the gratitude for the bearded gentleman's acceptance of the invitation, Lions Club members said the schedule for Saturday will be as follows:

Connelly post office at 10:30 a. m.; Cliff Every's farm in New Salem at 11 a. m.; St. Remy post office at 11:30 a. m.; Rifton post office at 12 noon; the firehouse in Union Center at 1 p. m.; Esopus post office at 1:30 p. m.; West Park post office at 1:45 p. m., and the Port Ewen post office at 3 p. m.

Children in the town are invited to turn out at the designated places to greet Santa Claus on his specially arranged visit to the community.

Senator Morse Set For Marist Talk

SEN. WAYNE MORSE

Where Is the War in Vietnam Taking America? is the title of the talk Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon will give at Marist College Sunday, Dec. 17, at 3 p. m.

Senator Morse has been waging a bold and courageous campaign in Congress, to end the war in Vietnam. His penetrating views on the war have persuaded many Senators to review their position.

Sponsoring the Senator's appearance in the area is the Committee to Support the Policy of Wayne Morse, based in Poughkeepsie. The chairman is Sigmund H. Miller.

Tickets may be obtained locally from Esther Sippen of Kingston and Sylvia Day of Woodstock.

Denies Charges About Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says reports the Soviet Union has sent war planes and technicians to participate in Yemen's civil war are "substantially accurate" and warns such intervention "is only likely to increase tension in the region."

A department spokesman also indicated that reports Soviet pilots have been flying combat missions against rebel Royalist forces near San'a, Yemen's capital, are correct.

Latest information received by informed Washington officials is that the operational Yemeni Republican air force includes six Ilyushin 28 bombers and 10 or 12 older MIG fighters. There have been recent reports that more advanced MIG models have been delivered.

Ulster and Sullivan: Where the Action Is

The municipal auditorium is where the action is tonight!

Two unbeaten Mid-Hudson Basketball Conference powerhouses — Ulster Community College (2-0) and Sullivan County (3-0) clash headon in an early season "crucial" that could be for all the marbles right here and now.

Coach Mike Perry's Senators and Coach John Webster's Mountaineers have met two common opponents and off that limited sampling the edge would appear to rest with Ulster.

Sullivan topped Orange County, 80-70, a 10-point margin to Ulster's 9-point edge, 78-69. The skirmishes with Rockland County were something else again. While Sullivan got by Rockland, 92-82, the Senators racked up their third highest point total in a 131-84 rout.

Scornful of that kind of comparison, Ulster Coach Perry approaches the contest with restrained optimism.

"I think we have the better team and a stronger bench," he said, "but I think the last two games may have hurt us more than they helped us."

Perry was referring to Ulster's clobberings of Rockland (131-83) and Northwestern Connecticut, 162-72.

"Sullivan is surely the toughest team we'll face all season," Perry went on. "We're going to have to come down from the clouds and play basketball tonight."

Perry said the runaway victories were just quirks of the schedule.

"You just don't schedule two soft touches just before one of your biggest games," he explained, "but schedules are fixed well in advance."

One Lineup Change

Perry plans one lineup change in the team that has averaged a whopping 113.5 points while limiting the opposition to 78.5 per set. He is adding Ty Quill to the foursome of Jumpin' Joe Uhl, Bill Boines, Leon Hanna and Frank Roselli, while Co-Captain Rod Chando sits out the early stages.

There was no particular significance in replacing Chando with Quill, the coach said.

Uhl, despite limited play, is averaging 29.5 points through the first six games. He set the new school record of 43 while playing only 28 minutes. Only four fouls will remove him from the action tonight.

There is a bit of revenge involved in the game, too, Coach Perry pointed out. "The beat us twice (94-93 and 82-74) in their 10-0 sweep to the title last year."

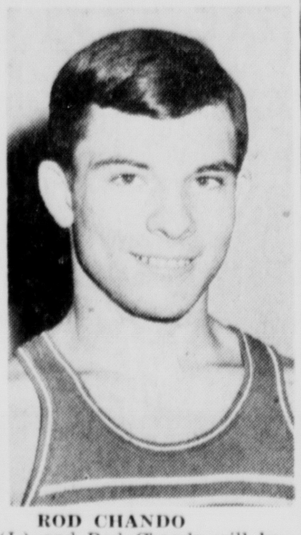
Sullivan (4-0 overall) has a new coach in John Webster, who succeeds Lee Roberts, now at State University College, New Paltz. Sullivan is familiar with the winning touch, having piloted his team to the Maine state high school championship last season.

Sullivan's biggest scoring threat is 6-3 Ed Strong, who averaged 28.5 in his first two Mid-Hudson contests. He is a former All-DUSO at Monticello.

Jim Kiernan, 6-1, formerly of Rice High in New York is another with Ray Allen, 6-3, out of Rochester. Added scoring punch is provided by Al Jackson, 6-1, also of New York City.

The action starts at 8 o'clock.

JOE UHL



ROD CHANDO

CO-CAPTAINS — Joe Uhl (L) and Rod Chando will be in the lineup when Ulster County Community College meets powerful Sullivan County tonight at 8 at the municipal auditorium.

Unitas Named MVP In National League

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—John Unitas, the veteran quarterback who has led the Baltimore Colts through 13 games without defeat, has been voted the Most Valuable Player in the National Football League by a landslide vote of an Associated Press panel.

Only four players were mentioned in the balloting by a committee of sports writers and sportscasters, three from each league city. One panel member did not vote in the MVP competition.

Unitas, completing his 12th season in a rags-to-riches pro career, received 40 votes. Dave "Deacon" Jones, defensive end of the Los Angeles Rams, drew three and running backs Leroy Kelly of Cleveland and Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears each got two.

Recovered Magic

Although Unitas wasn't even mentioned last year when Bart Starr of Green Bay was voted the MVP and didn't even get a vote on the 1966 All-Star team, the 34-year-old recaptured his old magic this season.

Unitas' career was in danger last season when a damaged right shoulder threatened to put him on the sidelines permanently. Benched at one stage of the '66 campaign, he finished in an agony of pain and interceptions.

In training camp last summer, Unitas babied his arm and cut down to a limited number of practice throws once a day. It worked so well that he probably will have thrown more passes than ever by the time Sunday's game with the Los Angeles Rams is over. Unitas' high was 420 passes in 1961. He already has thrown 405.

During the season Unitas has added to his own NFL records for touchdown passes (251) and yards gained passing (32,815 yards or about 19 miles), and also has passed Y. A. Tittle for league records with most completions (2,242) and most passes attempted (4,066).

Can Find Receivers

But the most important achievement by Unitas has been his ability to use a variety of receivers when injuries struck down Jimmy Orr and Raymond Berry, and to make the air attack stand up, despite an ordinary running game, for an 11-0-2 record going into the final with the Rams.

Alex Hawkins took over when Berry was out and Willie Richardson did such a fine job at Orr's position that he made All-League at flanker. The two wide receivers, plus tight end John Mackey and running back Tom Matte have been Unitas' favorite targets.

In addition to throwing the passes for 19 touchdowns, Unitas has called the plays that make the Colts the No. 1 offensive team in the league.

No wonder they pay the guy a reported $125,000 a year. After all, they got him for a song from the semipros in 1956.

Justice Bruhn, Colao Elected

Two former presidents and life members of the Kingston Bowling Association have been named to the KBA's Hall of Fame Board.

Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn was elected to a 5-year term and Emmanuel (Mannie) Colao to a 3-year term at the KBA's meeting this week.

They join eight other members of the Hall board which includes the KBA president, immediate past president and secretary-treasurer and five members chosen from the current Hall of Fame.

The Hall of Fame Board is scheduled to meet on Thursday, Jan. 4, to elect new members to the Hall of Fame. The board will determine the number at that meeting.

Cards' Promo Just Can't Win

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Shed a tear for John Dromo, who succeeded Peck Hickman as basketball coach of the nationally high ranked University of Louisville Cardinals.

"If we win they will say I did it with Hickman's players, such as Westley Unseld and Butch Beard," Dromo said before the season opened. "If we don't win, then I've loused up some great material."

The Cardinals, fifth-ranked in this week's Associated Press poll, suffered their second straight upset on the road Wednesday night. They took a 63-47 drubbing from the Dayton Flyers, who had been upset twice themselves last week and fell out of the AP Top Ten.

'Dayton played as if they were going for the NCAA championship in this game," Dromo said after Don May had paced the Flyers to their decisive victory with 25 points and 20 rebounds.

Best Team Effort

Don Donoher, Dayton coach who led the Flyers to the NCAA championship final against UCLA last March, declared, 'It was by far and away our best effort and a very welcomed comeback." He explained a 1-3-1 zone defense "stopped Louisville from moving the ball into Unseld and forced the outside men to take shots."

As a result, Louisville made only 19 of 56 field goal attempts and Jim Gottschall, Dayton soph, held Beard to just six points, his career low. Hooper made five steals in the second half to help keep the Cardinals off balance.

Unseld kept Louisville in contention until midway of the second half with 22 points and 15 rebounds.

Eastern Kentucky, which upset Dayton 76-75 last Friday, came through with another home court surprise. The Colonels erased a 14-point deficit to beat Marshall 76-73 on four free throws by Bobby Washington in the last 40 seconds. Garfield Smith was a major factor in the Colonels' triumph with 22 points and a record 33 rebounds.

Houston Romp

Second-ranked Houston enjoyed an 86-61 romp over George Washington in the first round of Bluebonnet Classic at Houston. Elvin Hayes, the Big E, paced Houston with 40 points. Montana State beat Mississippi State 81-73 in the other first-round game and meets Houston in the Bluebonnet final tonight.

In other games involving teams in the AP Top Ten, sixth-ranked Boston College routed Fairfield at home 96-76 and 10th-ranked Princeton made it five in a row by whipping Navy at Annapolis 76-59. Steve Adelman led BC with 27 points. Chris Thomforde paced Princeton with 19 points, including 9-for-9 from the foul line.

New Mexico also upped its record to 5-0 by downing West Texas 94-78 behind Ron Nelson's 24 points. In other home court triumphs, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia edged Providence 68-65 on Don Kelly's four free throws in the last 40 seconds, Texas Christian downed New Orleans Loyola 101-69, Columbia crushed Rutgers 95-64, Fordham beat Massachusetts 77-66 and St. Francis of New York humbled Connecticut 82-62.

Also, Oklahoma State edged Trinity, Tex., 58-55. Duke walloped Virginia for the 20th straight time 103-61, Wyoming trampled Denver 107-75, Colorado won over Creighton in overtime 67-66 and North Texas upset Texas A&M 71-65.

On the road, Furman beat Mississippi 72-68, LaSalle whipped Bucknell 84-59, St. Louis downed Missouri 77-66 and Evansville toppled Seattle 78-66.

Hawk Swimmers On Florida Trip

Swimmers at State University College, New Paltz, will celebrate the Christmas holidays by going to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to participate in the College Swim Forum. Hawk swimmers will work out two or three times a day in the 50-meter Hall of Fame pool.

Coach Art Stockin has had some bright moments despite losing his first three meets to Long Island University, Oswego and Oneonta. Last year's SUNYAC diving champ, Art Kramer, is undefeated this year. Kramer set a new Hawk record of 2:24.5 against Oneonta. Dave Green is undefeated in the 200-yard breaststroke. Fred Sachs set a 1,000 yard freestyle record of 13:00.5 against Oneonta.

Frosh swimmers have posted new marks 14 times so far this year. Lack of depth has been the big factor in the Hawk defeats this season.

Both the varsity and the frosh swim team will visit East Stroudesburg on Jan. 6.

Velasquez Ties Hartack Record

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jorge Velasquez rode a horse named Simpleton into the winner's circle Wednesday to tie Bill Hartack as the second winningest jockey in racing history for a single season.

The young Panamanian almost collapsed from heat exhaustion and had to cancel the rest of his mounts for the day, but not before pushing in his 417th winner for the year in the seventh race at Tropical Park.

The record is 485 set by Bill Shoemaker in 1953. Hartack had his big year in 1955.

Velasquez was barely able to weigh in after the race and then was helped to the jockey's room. He was revived with smelling salts.

Neshoba Littleme Cops Feature at Yonkers

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) — Neshoba Littleme, the rank outsider, held off the closing rush of Rapid and won Wednesday nights feature $4,000 pace by a nose before 16,859 at Yonkers Raceway. Time for the file was 2:05.

NFL: Baltimore at Los Angeles

This could make the NFL title game an anticlimax. It's already billed as the big game of the year. On performance and record they're the best two teams in the NFL. The Rams think they have an edge being on home grounds. A win automatically gives them division title, although they'll be tied in standings (because their first meeting was a deadlock and the Rams would have more points in the two games, which is the way they're settling things this year). Rams, buoyed by dramatic finish against Packers, rely on monstrous defense. Colts have underrated defense that's just as good. They want to be first team in history to go through 14-game schedule unbeaten. And they have Unitas.

Baltimore 17, Los Angeles 16

AFL: New York at Oakland

The stumbling Jets need this one badly after two straight losses. They're only team to beat Raiders in regular season play, but that was done when they had a healthy backfield and were inflamed with confidnece. Besides a bad thumb, Joe Namath has had trouble keeping pass rushers off his back. Raiders could feel complacent with division title cinched. But they're supposed to be pros.

Ulster and Sullivan: Where the Action Is

The municipal auditorium is where the action is tonight!

Two unbeaten Mid-Hudson Basketball Conference powerhouses — Ulster Community College (2-0) and Sullivan County (3-0) clash headon in an early season "crucial" that could be for all the marbles right here and now.

Coach Mike Perry's Senators and Coach John Webster's Mountaineers have met two common opponents and off that limited sampling the edge would appear to rest with Ulster.

Sullivan topped Orange County, 80-70, a 10-point margin to Ulster's 9-point edge, 78-69. The skirmishes with Rockland County were something else again. While Sullivan got by Rockland, 92-82, the Senators racked up their third highest point total in a 131-84 rout.

Scornful of that kind of comparison, Ulster Coach Perry approaches the contest with restrained optimism.

"I think we have the better team and a stronger bench," he said, "but I think the last two games may have hurt us more than they helped us."

Perry was referring to Ulster's clobberings of Rockland (131-83) and Northwestern Connecticut, 162-72.

"Sullivan is surely the toughest team we'll face all season," Perry went on. "We're going to have to come down from the clouds and play basketball tonight."

Perry said the runaway victories were just quirks of the schedule.

"You just don't schedule two soft touches just before one of your biggest games," he explained, "but schedules are fixed well in advance."

One Lineup Change

Perry plans one lineup change in the team that has averaged a whopping 113.5 points while limiting the opposition to 78.5 per set. He is adding Ty Quill to the foursome of Jumpin' Joe Uhl, Bill Boines, Leon Hanna and Frank Roselli, while Co-Captain Rod Chando sits out the early stages.

There was no particular significance in replacing Chando with Quill, the coach said.

Uhl, despite limited play, is averaging 29.5 points through the first six games. He set the new school record of 43 while playing only 28 minutes. Only four fouls will remove him from the action tonight.

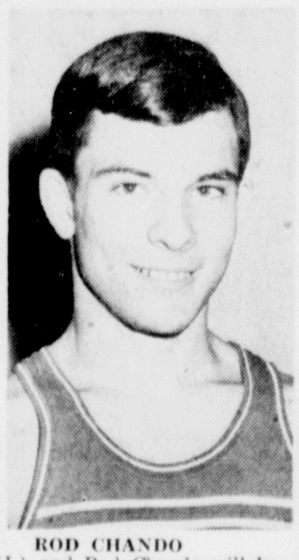
There is a bit of revenge involved in the game, too, Coach Perry pointed out. "The beat us twice (94-93 and 82-74) in their 10-0 sweep to the title last year."

Sullivan (4-0 overall) has a new coach in John Webster, who succeeds Lee Roberts, now at State University College, New Paltz. Sullivan is familiar with the winning touch, having piloted his team to the Maine state high school championship last season.

Sullivan's biggest scoring threat is 6-3 Ed Strong, who averaged 28.5 in his first two Mid-Hudson contests. He is a former All-DUSO at Monticello.

Jim Kiernan, 6-1, formerly of Rice High in New York is another with Ray Allen, 6-3, out of Rochester. Added scoring punch is provided by Al Jackson, 6-1, also of New York City.

The action starts at 8 o'clock.



JOE UHL ROD CHANDO

Unitas Named MVP In National League

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—John Unitas, the veteran quarterback who has led the Baltimore Colts through 13 games without defeat, has been voted the Most Valuable Player in the National Football League by a landslide vote of an Associated Press panel.

Only four players were mentioned in the balloting by a committee of sports writers and sportscasters, three from each league city. One panel member did not vote in the MVP competition.

Unitas, completing his 12th season in a rags-to-riches pro career, received 40 votes. Dave "Deacon" Jones, defensive end of the Los Angeles Rams, drew three and running backs Leroy Kelly of Cleveland and Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears each got two.

Recovered Magic

Although Unitas wasn't even mentioned last year when Bart Starr of Green Bay was voted the MVP and didn't even get a vote on the 1966 All-Star team, the 34-year-old recaptured his old magic this season.

Unitas' career was in danger last season when a damaged right shoulder threatened to put him on the sidelines permanently. Benched at one stage of the '66 campaign, he finished in an agony of pain and interceptions.

In training camp last summer, Unitas babied his arm and cut down to a limited number of practice throws once a day. It worked so well that he probably will have thrown more passes than ever by the time Sunday's game with the Los Angeles Rams is over. Unitas' high was 420 passes in 1961. He already has thrown 405.

During the season Unitas has added to his own NFL records for touchdown passes (251) and yards gained passing (32,815 yards or about 19 miles), and also has passed Y. A. Tittle for league records with most completions (2,242) and most passes attempted (4,066).

Can Find Receivers

But the most important achievement by Unitas has been his ability to use a variety of receivers when injuries struck down Jimmy Orr and Raymond Berry, and to make the air attack stand up, despite an ordinary running game, for an 11-0-2 record going into the final with the Rams.

Alex Hawkins took over when Berry was out and Willie Richardson did such a fine job at Orr's position that he made All-League at flanker. The two wide receivers, plus tight end John Mackey and running back Tom Matte have been Unitas' favorite targets.

In addition to throwing the passes for 19 touchdowns, Unitas has called the plays that make the Colts the No. 1 offensive team in the league.

No wonder they pay the guy a reported $125,000 a year. After all, they got him for a song from the semipros in 1956.

Hawk Swimmers On Florida Trip

Swimmers at State University College, New Paltz, will celebrate the Christmas holidays by going to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to participate in the College Swim Forum. Hawk swimmers will work out two or three times a day in the 50-meter Hall of Fame pool.

Coach Art Stockin has had some bright moments despite losing his first three meets to Long Island University, Oswego and Oneonta. Last year's SUNYAC diving champ, Art Kramer, is undefeated this year. Kramer set a new Hawk record of 2:24.5 against Oneonta. Dave Green is undefeated in the 200-yard breaststroke. Fred Sachs set a 1,000 yard freestyle record of 13:00.5 against Oneonta.

Frosh swimmers have posted new marks 14 times so far this year. Lack of depth has been the big factor in the Hawk defeats this season.

Both the varsity and the frosh swim team will visit East Stroudesburg on Jan. 6.

Velasquez Ties Hartack Record

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jorge Velasquez rode a horse named Simpleton into the winner's circle Wednesday to tie Bill Hartack as the second winningest jockey in racing history for a single season.

The young Panamanian almost collapsed from heat exhaustion and had to cancel the rest of his mounts for the day, but not before pushing in his 417th winner for the year in the seventh race at Tropical Park.

The record is 485 set by Bill Shoemaker in 1953. Hartack had his big year in 1955.

Velasquez was barely able to weigh in after the race and then was helped to the jockey's room. He was revived with smelling salts.

Neshoba Littleme Cops Feature at Yonkers

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) — Neshoba Littleme, the rank outsider, held off the closing rush of Rapid and won Wednesday nights feature $4,000 pace by a nose before 16,859 at Yonkers Raceway. Time for the file was 2:05.

NFL: Baltimore at Los Angeles

This could make the NFL title game an anticlimax. It's already billed as the big game of the year. On performance and record they're the best two teams in the NFL. The Rams think they have an edge being on home grounds. A win automatically gives them division title, although they'll be tied in standings (because their first meeting was a deadlock and the Rams would have more points in the two games, which is the way they're settling things this year). Rams, buoyed by dramatic finish against Packers, rely on monstrous defense. Colts have underrated defense that's just as good. They want to be first team in history to go through 14-game schedule unbeaten. And they have Unitas.

Baltimore 17, Los Angeles 16

AFL: New York at Oakland

The stumbling Jets need this one badly after two straight losses. They're only team to beat Raiders in regular season play, but that was done when they had a healthy backfield and were inflamed with confidnece. Besides a bad thumb, Joe Namath has had trouble keeping pass rushers off his back. Raiders could feel complacent with division title cinched. But they're supposed to be pros.

Cards' Promo Just Can't Win

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Shed a tear for John Dromo, who succeeded Peck Hickman as basketball coach of the nationally high ranked University of Louisville Cardinals.

"If we win they will say I did it with Hickman's players, such as Westley Unseld and Butch Beard," Dromo said before the season opened. "If we don't win, then I've loused up some great material."

The Cardinals, fifth-ranked in this week's Associated Press poll, suffered their second straight upset on the road Wednesday night. They took a 63-47 drubbing from the Dayton Flyers, who had been upset twice themselves last week and fell out of the AP Top Ten.

'Dayton played as if they were going for the NCAA championship in this game," Dromo said after Don May had paced the Flyers to their decisive victory with 25 points and 20 rebounds.

Best Team Effort

Don Donoher, Dayton coach who led the Flyers to the NCAA championship final against UCLA last March, declared, 'It was by far and away our best effort and a very welcomed comeback." He explained a 1-3-1 zone defense "stopped Louisville from moving the ball into Unseld and forced the outside men to take shots."

As a result, Louisville made only 19 of 56 field goal attempts and Jim Gottschall, Dayton soph, held Beard to just six points, his career low. Hooper made five steals in the second half to help keep the Cardinals off balance.

Unseld kept Louisville in contention until midway of the second half with 22 points and 15 rebounds.

Eastern Kentucky, which upset Dayton 76-75 last Friday, came through with another home court surprise. The Colonels erased a 14-point deficit to beat Marshall 76-73 on four free throws by Bobby Washington in the last 40 seconds. Garfield Smith was a major factor in the Colonels' triumph with 22 points and a record 33 rebounds.

Houston Romp

Second-ranked Houston enjoyed an 86-61 romp over George Washington in the first round of Bluebonnet Classic at Houston. Elvin Hayes, the Big E, paced Houston with 40 points. Montana State beat Mississippi State 81-73 in the other first-round game and meets Houston in the Bluebonnet final tonight.

In other games involving teams in the AP Top Ten, sixth-ranked Boston College routed Fairfield at home 96-76 and 10th-ranked Princeton made it five in a row by whipping Navy at Annapolis 76-59. Steve Adelman led BC with 27 points. Chris Thomforde paced Princeton with 19 points, including 9-for-9 from the foul line.

New Mexico also upped its record to 5-0 by downing West Texas 94-78 behind Ron Nelson's 24 points. In other home court triumphs, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia edged Providence 68-65 on Don Kelly's four free throws in the last 40 seconds, Texas Christian downed New Orleans Loyola 101-69, Columbia crushed Rutgers 95-64, Fordham beat Massachusetts 77-66 and St. Francis of New York humbled Connecticut 82-62.

Also, Oklahoma State edged Trinity, Tex., 58-55, Duke walloped Virginia for the 20th straight time 103-61, Wyoming trampled Denver 107-75, Colorado won over Creighton in overtime 67-66 and North Texas upset Texas A&M 71-65.

On the road, Furman beat Mississippi 72-68, LaSalle whipped Bucknell 84-59, St. Louis downed Missouri 77-66 and Evansville toppled Seattle 78-66.

THE FEARSOME FOURSOME of the Los Angeles Rams defense looks mean enough to eat nails as they take a break during practice. The four are: (TL-R) Lamar Lundy (85), Merlin Olsen (79), (BL-R) Roger Brown (78) and Deacon Jones (59). The Rams are preparing for their battle with the Baltimore Colts Sunday. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Colts Defense Shook By All-League Picks

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts were confused, and hardly amused, when the National Football League All-Star defensive team was announced earlier this week.

'Our guys are leading the league in defense, and no one makes the first team," said Tom Matte, a halfback on offense.

'Hey, Ordell," someone yelled to end Ordell Braase, the only Baltimore representative on the second All-Star team. "It looks like you're carrying all the rest of us."

"I know what it is," someone cracked. 'Everybody on the Colts' defense is mediocre, but they all play well together."

The Colt defenders certainly comprise a cohesive unit, but the individual members hardly are inept.

We have a lot of good players on defense," said Braase, an 11-year NFL veteran. It's unfortunate that they're overshadowed by players on other teams who get more recognition."

Braase went through the same experience on the Colts, playing in the shadow of the great Gino Marchetti for many years before being selected for the Pro Bowl Game last season for the first time.

Next Sunday, the Colt defenders would gladly trade individual recognition for team effort if it stretches Baltimore's unbeaten record.

A victory over the Rams in Los Angeles Sunday, in the regular season finale, would give the Colts the Coastal Division championship. Even a tie would clinch the title for Baltimore.

The Rams draw rave notices for their defense, particularly the fearsome foursome in the line — ends Dave "Deacon" Jones and Lamar Lundy, and tackles Merlin Olsen and Roger Brown.

Jones and Olsen made the All-Star first team while corner back Maxie Baughan and safety Ed Meador of the Rams were named to the second unit.

Giants' Davenport: The Perfect Fielder

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Davenport of the San Francisco Giants fielded more plays without an error last season than any other National League player.

The league's official 1967 records show Davenport took 137 fielding chances as a third baseman and 35 others at second — all without a flaw.

A total of 60 players, including 37 pitchers, had 1.000 fielding records last season, but none of them were regulars in any team's line-up. The best fielders among players who appeared in more than 100 games were Wes Parker, Woody Woodward, Clete Boyer, Bobby Wine, Tony Gonzalez and Tim McCarver.

Parker, the Los Angeles Dodgers' first baseman had an average of .996 after handling 985 chances in 112 games. Woodward handled 620 chances in 120 games as second baseman for the Atlanta Braves.

Clete Boyer took care of third base in 150 games for the Braves and had a .970 average after taking 471 plays, while Wine posted a .980 average as a shortstop for the Phildelphia Phils. He appeared in 134 games and handled 603 chances.

Gonzalez turned out to be the best fielding centerfielder after taking 272 chances in 143 games for the Phils. Meanwhile, McCarver handled 889 plays as catcher for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and ran up a .997 average in 130 games.

Milt Pappas and Ron Herbel were the best fielders among the pitchers. Pappas, who posted a 16-13 record for the Cincinnati Reds, handled 49 chances in 34 games without an error. Herbel made no errors in handling 48 chances in 42 games for the Giants. His won-lost record was 4-5.

Gonzalez had led the league's outfielders in 1962 and 1964, while both Parker and McCarver had the best averages for their positions in 1965.

Ernie Banks, the Cubs' veteran first baseman handled 1,484 fielding chances — more than anybody else in the league — and his team led the rest with a .981 fielding average. Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh figured in 131 double plays.

Blake and North Stars - Records of Sorts

Coach Ousted First Time

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Combustible Toe Blake set a personal record and the Minnesota North Stars extended a team mark but today's National Hockey League award for persistence goes to Chicago's slick Stan Mikita.

Blake, fiery coach of the Montreal Canadiens, was thrown out of a game for the first time Wednesday night for protesting a goal too vehemently. The fired-up Canadiens then routed Boston 6-2.

Minnesota blanked Los Angeles 4-0 and extended their unbeaten streak in games where they have scored the first goal to 10. They've won eight and tied two in games where they have opened the scoring.

Mikita scored twice, once while flat on his stomach, as Chicago tripped the New York Rangers 5-2.

In other games, Pittsburgh edged Toronto 2-1 and St. Louis whipped Oakland 3-1.

Explodes on Call

Blake exploded when referee Bill Friday allowed a goal by Boston's Ken Hodge in the first period. The Canadiens protested that Boston had too many men on the ice when the goal was scored.

At the end of the period, Blake approach Friday again and the referee gave the veteran coach the thumb. "It was the first time it ever happened to me in the NHL," said Blake.

Jean Beliveau, sidelined by an injury, took over for Blake and the Canadiens erupted for three goals in each of the last two periods. Rookie Jacques Lemaire scored twice and tough John Ferguson notched his first goal of the season.

Cesare Maniago registered Minnesota's shutout — the first ever for the expansionist North Stars. Wayne Connelly scored twice, his first goal coming with the game barely one minute old.

The early goal was a good omen for the North Stars, who have been unbeatable when they score first. Maniago kicked out 30 shots for his third career NHL shutout.

Mikita Delivers

Mikita, who has scored six goals in Chicago's last three games, snapped a 1-1 tie in the first period against the Rangers, when he went in alone against goalie Ed Giacomin, was tripped from behind, and still propelled the puck into the net while sprawled on the ice.

Bobby Hull scored his 25th goal of the season for the Black Hawks and Bob Nevin produced both Ranger goals.

Ken Schinkel assisted on Art Stratton's tying goal and then deflected a Noel Price slap shot for the third period winner as Pittsburgh shaded Toronto.

The defeat against the expansionist Penguins snapped an 11-game home ice unbeaten streak for the Maple Leafs and dropped Toronto in a tie for second place in the East Division with Chicago.

St. Louis escaped the West Division cellar by winning its third straight as Gary Sabourin fired his first two NHL goals. Jim Roberts also scored and Glenn Hall kicked out 24 shots Oakland shots as the Seals slipped into last place in the West.

Austrian Skier In Alpine Upset

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) — Gerhard Nenning of Austria scored a brilliant surprise victory in the first major Alpine ski contest of the season today as he won the giant slalom of the Criterium of the First Snow, after the disqualification of Kurt Huggler of Switzerland, who had been credited with the fastest time.

Nenning was clocked in 1 minute, 49.28 seconds for the run to beat out Guy Perillat of France in 1:50.21.

The course dropped 1,624 feet through 84 gates on the 10,500-foot high Col de L'Iseran.

A massive field of over 100 skiers from 19 nations took part in the contest which was run in perfect conditions with fine sunny weather and a thin cover of powder snow over the hard-packed surface.

Karl Schranz of Austria was third in the unofficial placings with a time of 1:50.24, followed by Jean-Claude Killy of France, the favorite, in 1:50.31.

Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., making a comeback after a broken leg had sidelined him last season, unofficially finished fifth in 1:50.64.

Huggler's clocking was 1:49.3 before his disqualification.

BALTIMORE (AP) The Baltimore Orioles will open their 1968 baseball season at home April 9 against the Oakland Athletics, who will also be Baltimore's first road opponent on April 17.

Colts Defense Shook By All-League Picks

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts were confused, and hardly amused, when the National Football League All-Star defensive team was announced earlier this week.

'Our guys are leading the league in defense, and no one makes the first team," said Tom Matte, a halfback on offense.

'Hey, Ordell," someone yelled to end Ordell Braase, the only Baltimore representative on the second All-Star team. "It looks like you're carrying all the rest of us."

"I know what it is," someone cracked. 'Everybody on the Colts' defense is mediocre, but they all play well together."

The Colt defenders certainly comprise a cohesive unit, but the individual members hardly are inept.

We have a lot of good players on defense," said Braase, an 11-year NFL veteran. It's unfortunate that they're overshadowed by players on other teams who get more recognition."

Braase went through the same experience on the Colts, playing in the shadow of the great Gino Marchetti for many years before being selected for the Pro Bowl Game last season for the first time.

Next Sunday, the Colt defenders would gladly trade individual recognition for team effort if it stretches Baltimore's unbeaten record.

A victory over the Rams in Los Angeles Sunday, in the regular season finale, would give the Colts the Coastal Division championship. Even a tie would clinch the title for Baltimore.

The Rams draw rave notices for their defense, particularly the fearsome foursome in the line — ends Dave "Deacon" Jones and Lamar Lundy, and tackles Merlin Olsen and Roger Brown.

Jones and Olsen made the All-Star first team while corner back Maxie Baughan and safety Ed Meador of the Rams were named to the second unit.

Giants' Davenport: The Perfect Fielder

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Davenport of the San Francisco Giants fielded more plays without an error last season than any other National League player.

The league's official 1967 records show Davenport took 137 fielding chances as a third baseman and 35 others at second — all without a flaw.

A total of 60 players, including 37 pitchers, had 1.000 fielding records last season, but none of them were regulars in any team's line-up. The best fielders among players who appeared in more than 100 games were Wes Parker, Woody Woodward, Clete Boyer, Bobby Wine, Tony Gonzalez and Tim McCarver.

Parker, the Los Angeles Dodgers' first baseman had an average of .996 after handling 985 chances in 112 games. Woodward handled 620 chances in 120 games as second baseman for the Atlanta Braves.

Clete Boyer took care of third base in 150 games for the Braves and had a .970 average after taking 471 plays, while Wine posted a .980 average as a shortstop for the Phildelphia Phils. He appeared in 134 games and handled 603 chances.

Gonzalez turned out to be the best fielding centerfielder after taking 272 chances in 143 games for the Phils. Meanwhile, McCarver handled 889 plays as catcher for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and ran up a .997 average in 130 games.

Milt Pappas and Ron Herbel were the best fielders among the pitchers. Pappas, who posted a 16-13 record for the Cincinnati Reds, handled 49 chances in 34 games without an error. Herbel made no errors in handling 48 chances in 42 games for the Giants. His won-lost record was 4-5.

Gonzalez had led the league's outfielders in 1962 and 1964, while both Parker and McCarver had the best averages for their positions in 1965.

Ernie Banks, the Cubs' veteran first baseman handled 1,484 fielding chances — more than anybody else in the league — and his team led the rest with a .981 fielding average. Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh figured in 131 double plays.

Blake and North Stars - Records of Sorts

Coach Ousted First Time

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Combustible Toe Blake set a personal record and the Minnesota North Stars extended a team mark but today's National Hockey League award for persistence goes to Chicago's slick Stan Mikita.

Blake, fiery coach of the Montreal Canadiens, was thrown out of a game for the first time Wednesday night for protesting a goal too vehemently. The fired-up Canadiens then routed Boston 6-2.

Minnesota blanked Los Angeles 4-0 and extended their unbeaten streak in games where they have scored the first goal to 10. They've won eight and tied two in games where they have opened the scoring.

Mikita scored twice, once while flat on his stomach, as Chicago tripped the New York Rangers 5-2.

In other games, Pittsburgh edged Toronto 2-1 and St. Louis whipped Oakland 3-1.

Explodes on Call

Blake exploded when referee Bill Friday allowed a goal by Boston's Ken Hodge in the first period. The Canadiens protested that Boston had too many men on the ice when the goal was scored.

At the end of the period, Blake approach Friday again and the referee gave the veteran coach the thumb. "It was the first time it ever happened to me in the NHL," said Blake.

Jean Beliveau, sidelined by an injury, took over for Blake and the Canadiens erupted for three goals in each of the last two periods. Rookie Jacques Lemaire scored twice and tough John Ferguson notched his first goal of the season.

Cesare Maniago registered Minnesota's shutout — the first ever for the expansionist North Stars. Wayne Connelly scored twice, his first goal coming with the game barely one minute old.

The early goal was a good omen for the North Stars, who have been unbeatable when they score first. Maniago kicked out 30 shots for his third career NHL shutout.

Mikita Delivers

Mikita, who has scored six goals in Chicago's last three games, snapped a 1-1 tie in the first period against the Rangers, when he went in alone against goalie Ed Giacomin, was tripped from behind, and still propelled the puck into the net while sprawled on the ice.

Bobby Hull scored his 25th goal of the season for the Black Hawks and Bob Nevin produced both Ranger goals.

Ken Schinkel assisted on Art Stratton's tying goal and then deflected a Noel Price slap shot for the third period winner as Pittsburgh shaded Toronto.

The defeat against the expansionist Penguins snapped an 11-game home ice unbeaten streak for the Maple Leafs and dropped Toronto in a tie for second place in the East Division with Chicago.

St. Louis escaped the West Division cellar by winning its third straight as Gary Sabourin fired his first two NHL goals. Jim Roberts also scored and Glenn Hall kicked out 24 shots Oakland shots as the Seals slipped into last place in the West.

Austrian Skier In Alpine Upset

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) — Gerhard Nenning of Austria scored a brilliant surprise victory in the first major Alpine ski contest of the season today as he won the giant slalom of the Criterium of the First Snow, after the disqualification of Kurt Huggler of Switzerland, who had been credited with the fastest time.

Nenning was clocked in 1 minute, 49.28 seconds for the run to beat out Guy Perillat of France in 1:50.21.

The course dropped 1,624 feet through 84 gates on the 10,500-foot high Col de L'Iseran.

A massive field of over 100 skiers from 19 nations took part in the contest which was run in perfect conditions with fine sunny weather and a thin cover of powder snow over the hard-packed surface.

Karl Schranz of Austria was third in the unofficial placings with a time of 1:50.24, followed by Jean-Claude Killy of France, the favorite, in 1:50.31.

Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., making a comeback after a broken leg had sidelined him last season, unofficially finished fifth in 1:50.64.

Huggler's clocking was 1:49.3 before his disqualification.

BALTIMORE (AP) The Baltimore Orioles will open their 1968 baseball season at home April 9 against the Oakland Athletics, who will also be Baltimore's first road opponent on April 17.

Owens Against Negro Boycott

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Jesse Owens, former U.S. Olympic team track star, says he is convinced that some Negro athletes who threatened recently to boycott the 1968 Olympic Games are making a mistake.

Owens, the winner of four gold medals at the 1936 Olympic Games, pointed out, "These athletes going to the Olympics will have the opportunity of exerting a great deal of influence in their communities. They should go and represent this country." Owens, now the head of a Chicago public relations firm, made his remarks following an address to 50 rookie policeman here Wednesday.

"Sports go a long way to bridge the gap of misunderstanding," he said. "The Negro has a role to play in professional sports and amateur sports as well."

He said he does not feel the Negro athlete has been exploited, adding that Negroes like Wilt Chamberlain, Willie Mays, and Bill Russell are among the highest paid athletes in the world.

'People don't care who is on the team," Owens said. "They care about what the team is doing."

Potsdam State Edges St. John Fisher, 69-92

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Potsdam State edged visiting St. John Fisher, 69-62, and San Francisco State stopped the University of Buffalo, 63-55, in basketball Wednesday as most Upstate New York teams took a night off.

Dick Hessinger of St. John Fisher was high scorer with 23 points at Potsdam. Joe Topa had 15 for the winners, who posted their fourth victory in four outings. The visitors have a 1-3 record for the season.

In Buffalo, San Francisco came from a three-point deficit at the half behind a 21 - point performance of Girard Chatman. Buffalo rallied once late in the game but was unable to maintain the pace.

It was San Francisco's third win in four games, and the Bulls' second defeat in five outings.

Sport Shorts

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Jim Johnson, defensive line coach at Wichita State, announced Wednesday he was quitting to take a similar job at Iowa State.

TORONTO (AP) — Ernest Vierkoetter, who won the first Canadian national marathon swim in 1927, died Wednesday. He was 67.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota North Stars announced Wednesday they are bringing up Bob Charlebois from their Memphis farm team.

Charlesbois, 23, is the No. 1 goal scorer in the Central Hockey League with 15. The 5-foot-11, 176-pounder was purchased from Montreal last June in the National Hockey League's expansion draft.

Andre Pronovost will be sent to Memphis. He had been called up to fill in for injured Bill Goldsworthy.

Limited Sub Rule Sought by EIFA

NEW YORK (AP) — The Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association, opposed by most of its Ivy League members, will ask the National Collegiate Athletic Association for a limited substitution rule.

The EIFA voted 22-15 at the opening session of the Eastern College Athletic Conference convention, little change from the 18-12 vote of last year for limited substitution.

Seven of the eight Ivy League schools voted against any change, favoring the present free substitution.

Bill Flynn, newly elected president of the EIFA and athletic director at Holy Cross, said the majority desired such a change because of increasing costs.

Cheers for Bradley: And Points for Bing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Bradley, who might be this season's Rookie-of-the-Year, is getting all the publicity, but last season's Rookie-of-the-Year is scoring all the points.

Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons won the honor last season in the National Basketball Association and he is even better this year, leading the league in scoring.

Bing turned on his scoring touch Wednesday night against the New York Knicks and led the Pistons to their fourth straight triumph over the Knicks 129-117 in Detroit.

In other games, Cincinnati built an early lead into an easy 136-108 victors over Baltimore in Cincinnati and Chicago downed San Francisco 109-104 on the West Coast.

In the American Basketball Association, Minnesota defeated Indiana 113-99, Oakland beat New Orleans 102-99 and Denver belted New Jersey 111-92.

Bing equaled a team record with 20 points in the third period as the Pistons increased a 57-52 lead to 95-87 and finished with 43 points.

Bradley, who along with hometown hero Cazzie Russell, attracted 10,386 fans, scored only 10 points in his second starting assignment, adding seven assists and five rebounds as the Knicks lost for the fifth straight time.

Eddie Miles contributed 29 points for Detroit while Walt Bellamy had 28 for New York, which played without Willis Reed, sidelined with an ankle injury.

Connie Dierking's 10 points helped Cincinnati to a quick nine-point lead and by the middle of the third period the score had reached 94-58.

Oscar Robertson led the Royals with 27 points while Earl Monroe had 24 for the Bullets.

Chicago rallied in the last 90 seconds to trip San Francisco, which led most of the way. Clem Askins put the Bulls ahead to stay with 1:30 left. McCoy McLemore converted a pair of free throws and Jerry Sloan clinched the verdict with a basket and two foul shots.

Sloan topped Chicago with 35 points while Fred Hetzel was high for the Warriors with 26.

Stewart Airman Judo Champion

John Weatherford of Stewart Air Force Base at Newburgh was crowned Grand Champion in the Mid-Hudson Judo Club's Hudson Valley tournament at Poughkeepsie.

Earl Atkins of the same team captured the white belt, with George Schutz of the Kingston Judo Club placing second.

Bill Bomba of Mid-Hudson won the brown belt to 165 pounds. Paul Stauble of Kingston was second. Brown belt honors in the 176-200 pound class went to Joe Davis of Mid-Hudson. Two Kingston entries — Paul Zweben and John Waples placed second and third, respectively.

Mark Hyatt of Kingston led the 85-90 pound class in the junior division. Jerry Duffy of Kingston won at 145-155 pounds. Three other Kingston entries — Robert Todaro, Billy Grant and Tom Nicholas finished in that order in the 155-166 pound class.

Other Kingston placers were: Billy Girard, 2nd in 66-70 pounds; Charley Kaure, 2nd, and Randy Franklin, 3rd in 14-year-old group; Paul Stauble, 2nd in Brown belt (to 165 pound).

Owens Against Negro Boycott

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Jesse Owens, former U.S. Olympic team track star, says he is convinced that some Negro athletes who threatened recently to boycott the 1968 Olympic Games are making a mistake.

Owens, the winner of four gold medals at the 1936 Olympic Games, pointed out, "These athletes going to the Olympics will have the opportunity of exerting a great deal of influence in their communities. They should go and represent this country." Owens, now the head of a Chicago public relations firm, made his remarks following an address to 50 rookie policeman here Wednesday.

"Sports go a long way to bridge the gap of misunderstanding," he said. "The Negro has a role to play in professional sports and amateur sports as well."

He said he does not feel the Negro athlete has been exploited, adding that Negroes like Wilt Chamberlain, Willie Mays, and Bill Russell are among the highest paid athletes in the world.

"People don't care who is on the team," Owens said. "They care about what the team is doing."

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Jim Johnson, defensive line coach at Wichita State, announced Wednesday he was quitting to take a similar job at Iowa State.

TORONTO (AP) — Ernest Vierkoetter, who won the first Canadian national marathon swim in 1927, died Wednesday. He was 67.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota North Stars announced Wednesday they are bringing up Bob Charlebois from their Memphis farm team.

Charlesbois, 23, is the No. 1 goal scorer in the Central Hockey League with 15. The 5-foot-11, 176-pounder was purchased from Montreal last June in the National Hockey League's expansion draft.

Andre Pronovost will be sent to Memphis. He had been called up to fill in for injured Bill Goldsworthy.

Limited Sub Rule Sought by EIFA

NEW YORK (AP) — The Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association, opposed by most of its Ivy League members, will ask the National Collegiate Athletic Association for a limited substitution rule.

The EIFA voted 22-15 at the opening session of the Eastern College Athletic Conference convention, little change from the 18-12 vote of last year for limited substitution.

Seven of the eight Ivy League schools voted against any change, favoring the present free substitution.

Bill Flynn, newly elected president of the EIFA and athletic director at Holy Cross, said the majority desired such a change because of increasing costs.

Cheers for Bradley: And Points for Bing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Bradley, who might be this season's Rookie-of-the-Year, is getting all the publicity, but last season's Rookie-of-the-Year is scoring all the points.

Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons won the honor last season in the National Basketball Association and he is even better this year, leading the league in scoring.

Bing turned on his scoring touch Wednesday night against the New York Knicks and led the Pistons to their fourth straight triumph over the Knicks 129-117 in Detroit.

In other games, Cincinnati built an early lead into an easy 136-108 victors over Baltimore in Cincinnati and Chicago downed San Francisco 109-104 on the West Coast.

In the American Basketball Association, Minnesota defeated Indiana 113-99, Oakland beat New Orleans 102-99 and Denver belted New Jersey 111-92.

Bing equaled a team record with 20 points in the third period as the Pistons increased a 57-52 lead to 95-87 and finished with 43 points.

Bradley, who along with hometown hero Cazzie Russell, attracted 10,386 fans, scored only 10 points in his second starting assignment, adding seven assists and five rebounds as the Knicks lost for the fifth straight time.

Eddie Miles contributed 29 points for Detroit while Walt Bellamy had 28 for New York, which played without Willis Reed, sidelined with an ankle injury.

Connie Dierking's 10 points helped Cincinnati to a quick nine-point lead and by the middle of the third period the score had reached 94-58.

Oscar Robertson led the Royals with 27 points while Earl Monroe had 24 for the Bullets.

Chicago rallied in the last 90 seconds to trip San Francisco, which led most of the way. Clem Askins put the Bulls ahead to stay with 1:30 left. McCoy McLemore converted a pair of free throws and Jerry Sloan clinched the verdict with a basket and two foul shots.

Sloan topped Chicago with 35 points while Fred Hetzel was high for the Warriors with 26.

Stewart Airman Judo Champion

John Weatherford of Stewart Air Force Base at Newburgh was crowned Grand Champion in the Mid-Hudson Judo Club's Hudson Valley tournament at Poughkeepsie.

Earl Atkins of the same team captured the white belt, with George Schutz of the Kingston Judo Club placing second.

Bill Bomba of Mid-Hudson won the brown belt to 165 pounds. Paul Stauble of Kingston was second. Brown belt honors in the 176-200 pound class went to Joe Davis of Mid-Hudson. Two Kingston entries — Paul Zweben and John Waples placed second and third, respectively.

Mark Hyatt of Kingston led the 85-90 pound class in the junior division. Jerry Duffy of Kingston won at 145-155 pounds. Three other Kingston entries — Robert Todaro, Billy Grant and Tom Nicholas finished in that order in the 155-166 pound class.

Other Kingston placers were: Billy Girard, 2nd in 66-70 pounds; Charley Kaure, 2nd, and Randy Franklin, 3rd in 14-year-old group; Paul Stauble, 2nd in Brown belt (to 165 pound).

Wants South Viet to Make Sacrifices

SAIGON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., left South Vietnam today after a five-day visit and said the South Vietnamese will have to shoulder more responsibility or they will lose their nation to the Communists.

'They must begin to realize that they must make sacrifices or they are going to lose this nation," said Percy before boarding a U.S. Air Force plane for Vientiane, Laos, the next stop on the senator's world tour.

"This should not be just an American effort," said Percy. "Other rich nations such as Japan can help this nation in its nation-building effort."

No Better Policy

He added that there can be no better policy for South Vietnam than that put forward by Gen. William C. Westmoreland in a recent speech in the United States—in Percy's words, "day by day to turn over more responsibility to the Vietnamese."

The senator said he had made numerous contacts with "anti-government but at the same time anti-Communist Vietnamese," including several scholars and former government officials.

"I think I have received a balanced picture of our problems here," Percy said.

He was critical of several aspects of life in South Vietnam, including "avoidance of taxation and avoidance of sacrifice" by many people in the cities.

"The difference between the affluence of Saigon and the poverty in the countryside must be broken down," he declared, adding that measures should be taken to stop draft dodging by young Vietnamese.

Changed Opinion

The senator said he had changed one opinion about the war. He said he had been critical of the U.S. part in the pacification program being placed under the military, but "I am absolutely convinced now that the slow progress before will now go forward faster under military control."

Percy, mentioned as a possible 1968 Republican presidential nominee, said he is not running for the presidency.

'I will announce right now my desire to run for re-election to the Senate," he said.

Andy Williams' '67 Yule Show The Best Yet

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Televisin-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Williams' Christmas show on NBC has become a holiday institution by now and Wednesday night's 1967 edition was perhaps the most delightful of the lot.

Real Family Feeling

As usual, the entire Williams tribe was assembled for the hour program—parents, brothers, in-laws, nieces and nephews. And since everybody sings—including Andy's pretty wife, Claudine—the program was able to provide entertainment with a real family feeling.

The annual comeback of the Williams Brothers singing act was the top attraction of the Christmas show. This season they sparkled in an amusing recreation of one of their old five-minute radio shows, complete with singing commercial.

But the Williams Brothers are no longer the top guest stars of the show. Now it is Andy's children, little Noelle and Christian, who are the principal attractions. And small as they are, they are good troupers, attentive and well-behaved while their father was telling a bedtime story.

There were some elaborate production numbers on ice, and the settings, as usual on a Williams show, were as attractive as the musical portions.

The program was in excellent taste, as easy and informal as ever, projecting a happy holiday spirit.

NBC's "Music Hall," earlier in the evening was of special interest because it presented an assortment of younger comedians and an older one, Groucho Marx.

Marx resumed his 1928 role of Captain Jeffrey Spaulding, African adventurer, in the opening number, to demonstrate, he said, that comedy had changed over a period of 40 years. At any rate, Groucho's style—full of bite and wisecracks—was completely different from anything the young comedians had to offer.

Groucho's Good Fun

His favorite humor seems to involve plays on words: "I shot an elephant in my pajamas, and how he got into my pajamas I'll never know."

Dick Cavett, a young comedian about whom many of his fellow funny men are enthusiastic, came on with a low-key monologue that seemed to ramble, but was highly effective. The team of Clair and McMahon did a husband-wife sketch that was quite funny. Burns and Schreiber repeated one of their taxi sketches, but one that is now getting a little threadbare from TV use.

Groucho observed that "the creation of laughter takes a great deal of training an trying," but the funniest moments of the hour came when a hilarious portion of a 1953 "You Bet Your Life" show was replayed. And the funny man was not a professional comedian at all, but one of the contestants on the show.

It was a variety hour played strictly for laughter and proved to be good fun for the audience.

Recommended tonight: "The Bob Hope Show," NBC, 8:39-9:30 EST, with Phil Silvers, Wally Cox and Don Adams.

Loaded Rifle Causes Arrest

Two upstate men were arrested today by Thruway State Police on charges of having a loaded rifle in their possession after they were stopped on the superhighway in the Town of Ulster by Trooper A. R. Krug.

Trooper Krug said the men were traveling south when the car was stopped. He identified the men as James Eddy and Kenneth Granger, both 39 and residents of Hudson Falls. Eddy also was charged with driving a car with three unsafe tires.

Both men were taken before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly by Trooper Krug who worked on the case with Game Protector Philip Gillen. Authorities said Eddy and Granger both pleaded guilty and each paid a $25 fine.

Eddy also pleaded guilty to the unsafe tire charge and paid an additional $10 fine.

Robbie on Urban Woes:

Ignore Advice, Get Own Data

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Mayors faced with such potential urban problems as riots should obtain their own information about the Negro community and ignore advice from self-styled Negro spokesmen, says Jackie Robinson, one of Gov. Rockefeller's top advisers on Negro matters.

Robinson, special assistant to the governor on community affairs, said Wednesday that mayors and other municipal officials should do their own fact-finding because, he contended, some so-called Negro leaders "will lie to you and tell you what they think you want to hear."

The former Brooklyn Dodger star, who cracked major league baseball's color line in 1947, also said Negro "advisers" would tell white officials things "for their own selfish ends."

Such Negro "advisers," he added, often seek to persuade municipal officials that Negroes are "satisfied with the considerable progress being made."

Robinson's advice was delivered in a speech to about 200 officials sitting in at a seminar on urban riots — a meeting sponsored by the State Conference of Mayors.

The city officials also were warned by the chairman of the State Crime Control Council against making wholesale arrests during urban disturbances "just to clear the streets."

Chairman Richard J. Bartlett said that, if the cases of persons arrested during riots are dismissed in courts because of lack of evidence, rioters and potential rioters will lose their respect for law enforcement.

Earlier, Robinson said city officials must demonstrate to Negroes "that you care."

In a related comment, Robinson said that, even though such Negro militants as H. Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael may not enjoy widespread popularity, this does not mean there is not some truth in what they say.

On the positive side, Robinson praised civic leaders in Rochester for launching a program of job opportunity and training for Negroes, which he said, "saved Rochester from another explosion..."

In the same vein, he said that Mayor John V. Lindsay's shirt-sleeved strolls through Harlem and other signs of concern for Negro problems helped prevent serious rioting in New York City last summer.

To Promote Peace

NATO Ministers Meet

BRUSSELS (AP) — With dangerous tensions threatening their alliance from within, the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met again today to give NATO the new task of promoting peace between Western Europe and the Soviet bloc.

In Greece, King Constantine's unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the military dictatorship and his own ouster threatened NATO's southeastern flank with turmoil.

French President Charles de Gaulle meanwhile held firm to his determination to keep Britain, Denmark and Norway—NATO members all—out of the European Common Market, and British Foreign Secretary George Brown warned that NATO's future depends largely on the outcome of the British application to join the six-nation trading bloc.

It was partly to counter such threats that the foreign ministers, bringing their annual winter meeting to a close, resolved to give the alliance a new role which they hoped would mean a new lease on life.

The foreign ministers of the 15 nations planned a redefinition of NATO's purposes. In addition to the original mission—to deter any Communist aggressor—the alliance now will hunt for agreed solutions of Europe's big problems, beginning with the division of Germany and looking toward an East-West security system.

Heretofore the quest for East-West accords has been left largely to the American and Russian superpowers. Now the NATO nations are to take a hand, beginning with studies on such issues as the reunification of Germany, the development of a continental security system, ways of ending the arms race, starting with pilot schemes of regional arms control, and stabilizing such exposed sectors of the NATO area as the Mediterranean, where Soviet naval power is building up.

Smog Not Main Factor Of Lung Cancer Deaths

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Something about urban life makes death from lung cancer more common in the city than the country, but it's not smog, a team of state health scientists reports.

The conclusion was based on results of a nine-year study of almost 70,000 Californians.

"Although smog is known to have serious adverse health effects, it is not a causative factor in lung cancer," state Health Director Leslie Breslow told a news conference Wednesday.

Breslow reported the results of a study launched in 1958 to find out if California's smog may be a factor in the higher rate of lung cancer deaths in cities than in rural regions.

Although Los Angeles has the state's worst smog, the lung cancer death rate reported in the study was lower there than in either San Diego or San Francisco.

Breslow teamed with Dr. John E. Dunn and Philip Buell to analyze the cases of 69,868 men. The researchers concentrated on those who had lived in the state for 15 to 20 years—the period in which smog became a major problem in Los Angeles and then in other metropolitan areas.

"We would expect an influence on lung cancer to show up about this time," Breslow said. But there was none, he reported.

Studies are continuing to find out why city residents are more likely to get lung cancer than their rural counterparts.

"That problem remains unsolved," Breslow said.

Lung cancer may be a hazard of some occupations associated with urban life, but there is no substantial evidence of it yet, Breslow said.

SAIGON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., left South Vietnam today after a five-day visit and said the South Vietnamese will have to shoulder more responsibility or they will lose their nation to the Communists.

'They must begin to realize that they must make sacrifices or they are going to lose this nation," said Percy before boarding a U.S. Air Force plane for Vientiane, Laos, the next stop on the senator's world tour.

"This should not be just an American effort," said Percy. "Other rich nations such as Japan can help this nation in its nation-building effort."

No Better Policy

He added that there can be no better policy for South Vietnam than that put forward by Gen. William C. Westmoreland in a recent speech in the United States—in Percy's words, "day by day to turn over more responsibility to the Vietnamese."

The senator said he had made numerous contacts with "anti-government but at the same time anti-Communist Vietnamese," including several scholars and former government officials.

"I think I have received a balanced picture of our problems here," Percy said.

He was critical of several aspects of life in South Vietnam, including "avoidance of taxation and avoidance of sacrifice" by many people in the cities.

"The difference between the affluence of Saigon and the poverty in the countryside must be broken down," he declared, adding that measures should be taken to stop draft dodging by young Vietnamese.

Changed Opinion

The senator said he had changed one opinion about the war. He said he had been critical of the U.S. part in the pacification program being placed under the military, but "I am absolutely convinced now that the slow progress before will now go forward faster under military control."

Percy, mentioned as a possible 1968 Republican presidential nominee, said he is not running for the presidency.

'I will announce right now my desire to run for re-election to the Senate," he said.

Andy Williams' '67 Yule Show The Best Yet

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Ap Televisin-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Williams' Christmas show on NBC has become a holiday institution by now and Wednesday night's 1967 edition was perhaps the most delightful of the lot.

Real Family Feeling

As usual, the entire Williams tribe was assembled for the hour program—parents, brothers, in-laws, nieces and nephews. And since everybody sings—including Andy's pretty wife, Claudine—the program was able to provide entertainment with a real family feeling.

The annual comeback of the Williams Brothers singing act was the top attraction of the Christmas show. This season they sparkled in an amusing recreation of one of their old five-minute radio shows, complete with singing commercial.

But the Williams Brothers are no longer the top guest stars of the show. Now it is Andy's children, little Noelle and Christian, who are the principal attractions. And small as they are, they are good troupers, attentive and well-behaved while their father was telling a bedtime story.

There were some elaborate production numbers on ice, and the settings, as usual on a Williams show, were as attractive as the musical portions.

The program was in excellent taste, as easy and informal as ever, projecting a happy holiday spirit.

NBC's "Music Hall," earlier in the evening was of special interest because it presented an assortment of younger comedians and an older one, Groucho Marx.

Marx resumed his 1928 role of Captain Jeffrey Spaulding, African adventurer, in the opening number, to demonstrate, he said, that comedy had changed over a period of 40 years. At any rate, Groucho's style—full of bite and wisecracks—was completely different from anything the young comedians had to offer.

Groucho's Good Fun

His favorite humor seems to involve plays on words: "I shot an elephant in my pajamas, and how he got into my pajamas I'll never know."

Dick Cavett, a young comedian about whom many of his fellow funny men are enthusiastic, came on with a low-key monologue that seemed to ramble, but was highly effective. The team of Clair and McMahon did a husband-wife sketch that was quite funny. Burns and Schreiber repeated one of their taxi sketches, but one that is now getting a little threadbare from TV use.

Groucho observed that "the creation of laughter takes a great deal of training an trying," but the funniest moments of the hour came when a hilarious portion of a 1953 "You Bet Your Life" show was replayed. And the funny man was not a professional comedian at all, but one of the contestants on the show.

It was a variety hour played strictly for laughter and proved to be good fun for the audience.

Loaded Rifle Causes Arrest

Two upstate men were arrested today by Thruway State Police on charges of having a loaded rifle in their possession after they were stopped on the superhighway in the Town of Ulster by Trooper A. R. Krug.

Trooper Krug said the men were traveling south when the car was stopped. He identified the men as James Eddy and Kenneth Granger, both 39 and residents of Hudson Falls. Eddy also was charged with driving a car with three unsafe tires.

Both men were taken before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly by Trooper Krug who worked on the case with Game Protector Philip Gillen. Authorities said Eddy and Granger both pleaded guilty and each paid a $25 fine.

Eddy also pleaded guilty to the unsafe tire charge and paid an additional $10 fine.

Ignore Advice, Get Own Data

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Mayors faced with such potential urban problems as riots should obtain their own information about the Negro community and ignore advice from self-styled Negro spokesmen, says Jackie Robinson, one of Gov. Rockefeller's top advisers on Negro matters.

Robinson, special assistant to the governor on community affairs, said Wednesday that mayors and other municipal officials should do their own fact-finding because, he contended, some so-called Negro leaders "will lie to you and tell you what they think you want to hear."

The former Brooklyn Dodger star, who cracked major league baseball's color line in 1947, also said Negro "advisers" would tell white officials things "for their own selfish ends."

Such Negro "advisers," he added, often seek to persuade municipal officials that Negroes are "satisfied with the considerable progress being made."

Robinson's advice was delivered in a speech to about 200 officials sitting in at a seminar on urban riots — a meeting sponsored by the State Conference of Mayors.

The city officials also were warned by the chairman of the State Crime Control Council against making wholesale arrests during urban disturbances "just to clear the streets."

Chairman Richard J. Bartlett said that, if the cases of persons arrested during riots are dismissed in courts because of lack of evidence, rioters and potential rioters will lose their respect for law enforcement.

Earlier, Robinson said city officials must demonstrate to Negroes "that you care."

In a related comment, Robinson said that, even though such Negro militants as H. Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael may not enjoy widespread popularity, this does not mean there is not some truth in what they say.

On the positive side, Robinson praised civic leaders in Rochester for launching a program of job opportunity and training for Negroes, which he said, "saved Rochester from another explosion..."

In the same vein, he said that Mayor John V. Lindsay's shirt-sleeved strolls through Harlem and other signs of concern for Negro problems helped prevent serious rioting in New York City last summer.

To Promote Peace

NATO Ministers Meet

BRUSSELS (AP) — With dangerous tensions threatening their alliance from within, the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met again today to give NATO the new task of promoting peace between Western Europe and the Soviet bloc.

In Greece, King Constantine's unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the military dictatorship and his own ouster threatened NATO's southeastern flank with turmoil.

French President Charles de Gaulle meanwhile held firm to his determination to keep Britain, Denmark and Norway—NATO members all—out of the European Common Market, and British Foreign Secretary George Brown warned that NATO's future depends largely on the outcome of the British application to join the six-nation trading bloc.

It was partly to counter such threats that the foreign ministers, bringing their annual winter meeting to a close, resolved to give the alliance a new role which they hoped would mean a new lease on life.

The foreign ministers of the 15 nations planned a redefinition of NATO's purposes. In addition to the original mission—to deter any Communist aggressor—the alliance now will hunt for agreed solutions of Europe's big problems, beginning with the division of Germany and looking toward an East-West security system.

Heretofore the quest for East-West accords has been left largely to the American and Russian superpowers. Now the NATO nations are to take a hand, beginning with studies on such issues as the reunification of Germany, the development of a continental security system, ways of ending the arms race, starting with pilot schemes of regional arms control, and stabilizing such exposed sectors of the NATO area as the Mediterranean, where Soviet naval power is building up.

Smog Not Main Factor Of Lung Cancer Deaths

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Something about urban life makes death from lung cancer more common in the city than the country, but it's not smog, a team of state health scientists reports.

The conclusion was based on results of a nine-year study of almost 70,000 Californians.

"Although smog is known to have serious adverse health effects, it is not a causative factor in lung cancer," state Health Director Leslie Breslow told a news conference Wednesday.

Breslow reported the results of a study launched in 1958 to find out if California's smog may be a factor in the higher rate of lung cancer deaths in cities than in rural regions.

Although Los Angeles has the state's worst smog, the lung cancer death rate reported in the study was lower there than in either San Diego or San Francisco.

Breslow teamed with Dr. John E. Dunn and Philip Buell to analyze the cases of 69,868 men. The researchers concentrated on those who had lived in the state for 15 to 20 years—the period in which smog became a major problem in Los Angeles and then in other metropolitan areas.

"We would expect an influence on lung cancer to show up about this time," Breslow said. But there was none, he reported.

Studies are continuing to find out why city residents are more likely to get lung cancer than their rural counterparts.

"That problem remains unsolved," Breslow said.

Lung cancer may be a hazard of some occupations associated with urban life, but there is no substantial evidence of it yet, Breslow said.

WANT AD FOUND CABINET MEMBER FOR THOMAS JEFFERSON

In 1801 Thomas Jefferson was faced with personnel problems. His Secretary of the Navy resigned, and nobody could be found to take his place, as the job didn't pay well, and the entire United States Navy consisted of three ships. The President placed a Want Ad, answered by a man named Robert Smith, who met the qualifications and thus became Secretary of the Navy, serving for three years.

WANT AD FOUND CABINET MEMBER FOR THOMAS JEFFERSON

In 1801 Thomas Jefferson was faced with personnel problems. His Secretary of the Navy resigned, and nobody could be found to take his place, as the job didn't pay well, and the entire United States Navy consisted of three ships. The President placed a Want Ad, answered by a man named Robert Smith, who met the qualifications and thus became Secretary of the Navy, serving for three years.

New Congress Group Probing OAS Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A second congressional subcommittee will join a growing list of probers into reported financial irregularities within the Organization of American States.

Reports of alleged mismanagement of OAS money in Washington come amid announcements of OAS money irregularities abroad, the firing of a top Washington OAS official for alleged political interference and a deadlock over selection of a new secretary general.

Sources cite one bizarre liquor-buying incident prior to this year's Latin American summit meeting and hint of other alleged misdoings.

Special Audit Control

A report on a special $20,000 audit of OAS financial management—paid for by the United States—is expected in mid-February but U.S. Ambassador Sol M. Linowitz say it's not aimed at the reports of irregularities.

The House Inter-American Affairs subcommittee headed by Rep. Armistead I. Selden Jr., D-Ala., called Linowitz to testify Tuesday on what he knew about the reports. Linowitz said after the closed meeting no specific clues have come to light.

Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., whose House Appropriations subcommittee approves U.S. funds for international organizations, told a reporter Wednesday that OAS and its administrative arm, the Pan American Union, will get special scrutiny at budget hearings expected in about six to eight weeks.

The United States supplies 66 per cent of the OAS budget—$11.4 billion in the current fiscal year.

Secretary-General Jose A. Mora, whose term expires next May, told Monday night of these actions:

—The firing of Director Julio Cesar Banzas of the Pan American Union office in Buenos Aires "after a thorough investigation revealed the misuse of funds contributed by the Argentine government to the National Committee on the Alliance for Progress and which he received as a member of that committee." Mora said OAS funds were not involved.

—Transfer of Jose Salinas, Pan American Union office director in San Jose, Costa Rica, to Washington after numerous overdrafts in accounts. Mora said a probe is under way to determine if any money was misused.

Other Actions

—Instigation of an audit of OAS activities in the Dominican Republic which Mora said were being financed from the unspecified remnants of $57 million contributed by the U.S. Agency for International Development after the Dominican crisis of April 1965. Sources indicated very small sums were involved.

The liquor incident described by sources involved perhaps 100 or more OAS staff personnel who flew to Punta del Este, Uruguay, for the Latin summit conference last April 12-14.

Each staff member was given money along with his airline ticket to buy three bottles of Scotch whisky at the tax-free sales room in Kennedy International Airport, New York.

The whisky was destined for an OAS reception at the conference, but the reception never was held. At the last minute, sources said, the OAS staff held its own party with the OAS-financed liquor.

The OAS director of administrative affairs, Luis Raul Betances, was fired from his $19,000-a-year Washington job by Mora earlier this month.

Romney Will Not Accept VP Bid

BONN, Germany (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said today he would refuse the vice presidential nomination if it were offered him.

"No, no," Romney told newsmen in the West German capital's small and almost deserted railway station. "The answer to the question is no."

Grounded by fog in his round-the-world fact-finding tour, Romney spent much of Wednesday at London Airport, canceled a visit to West Berlin and arrived in Bonn by train from Amsterdam after midnight.

Touching on the idea of neutralizing Vietnam, which he mentioned in Paris last week, Romney said: "It is one of the alternatives I am exploring. It is something I am going to study as I go along. I am interested in any suggestions any of these people have as to a practical solution to the Vietnam problem."

Meetings were arranged for the governor today with members of West Germany's socialist-conservative coalition Cabinet and several members of the parliament.

Ye Merrie Punch Bowl

"'Tis the season for merriment, the time for gala parties," says our Freeman Christmas Elf at left — and what better place to begin than with a glorious punch table laden with a brimming bowl of Christmas cheer and luscious treats.

As many a hostess already knows, a well chosen punch provides the perfect refreshment — light and sparkling. This punch weds the fragrance of clove-studded apples with raspberry gelatin, apple and cranberry juices enlivened and accented with chilled 7-Up. This is a punch for the busy hostess — the fruit juice base is made well in advance and thoroughly chilled. Then, just before guests arrive, the sparkling beverage is added.

A sugar plum treat accompanies the punch — RIBBON FRUIT CAKE featuring cake layers made from a mix and a delicious assortment of fruits and nuts for filling. The pale gold frosting is a new treatment of an old favorite . . . hard sauce.

This sumptuous beauty was designed to be prepared in advance of holiday parties and held in the freezer until party time. And, one recipe makes two handsome cakes.

Sweet, rich and filling, a small slice satisfied even the most ravenous appetite. With this Ribbon Fruit Cake recipe, there's plenty for a large party. Or if you choose, serve the cakes for two separate smaller holiday gatherings.

Apple Berry Punch

2 cups apple juice
1 package (3 ounces, raspberry-flavored gelatin
2 red-skinned tart apples
Whole cloves
1 quart cranberry juice
2 quarts 7-Up, chilled

Heat apple juice to boiling. Add to raspberry gelatin; stir to dissolve. Stud apples with cloves; place in bowl with warm gelatin mixture; allow to stand about 10 minutes. Add cranberry juice. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, add carbonated beverage. Makes about 3½ quarts or 28 (4-ounce) servings.

Ribbon Fruit Cake

CAKE:
1 package yellow cake mix
2 eggs
7-Up

RAISIN FILLING:
1½ cups seedless raisins, coarsely chopped.
¾ cup 7-Up
¼ cup light corn syrup
1½ cups walnuts, coarsely chopped
1 jar green maraschino cherries, quartered
½ cup citron, chopped

DATE FILLING:
1 package pitted dates, coarsely cut
¾ cup 7-Up
1½ cups pecans, coarsely chopped
1 jar red maraschino cherries, quartered
½ cup mixed candied fruits

HARD SAUCE FROSTING:
2 cups (1 pound) butter, softened
4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon rum, brandy or vanilla flavoring

Prepare cake mix according to package directions, using carbonated beverage in place of liquid called for in recipe. Grease and flour a 9-by-13-inch baking pan. Turn batter into pan and bake in a 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand in pan five minutes. Remove to cake rack; cool thoroughly.

FOR RAISIN FILLING: Combine raisins, carbonated beverage and corn syrup. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until liquid is almost absorbed. Cool slightly, then add remaining filling ingredients. Cool thoroughly.

FOR DATE FILLING: Combine dates with 7-Up. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until liquid is almost absorbed. Cool slightly, then add remaining filling ingredients. Cool thoroughly.

FOR FROSTING: Beat butter in small bowl of electric mixer until softened and smooth. Gradually add sifted confectioners' sugar, about ¼ cup at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Blend in flavoring. Refrigerate until time to frost cake.

TO ASSEMBLE CAKES: Cut cooled 9-by-13-inch cake into three sections, each measuring 9 by 4 inches; trim crusts if desired. Split each 9 by 4 inch section in half horizontally to make six cake layers, each measuring about 9 by 4, about 1 inch thick. Use three sections for each cake loaf. Place one section of cake on cooky sheet. Spread with half of raisin filling. Top with another section of cake; spread with half of date filling. Top with third section of cake. Repeat with remaining three cake sections and remaining fillings.

Frost each cake with half of the frosting. Place in freezer. When frozen firm, remove from cooky sheet, wrap in freezer wrap and return to freezer. About half an hour before serving remove cake from freezer, unwrap and garnish with fruits and nuts as desired. Makes 2 cakes, about 10 servings each.

APPLE BERRY PUNCH and RIBBON FRUIT CAKE FOR CHRISTMAS

We Hear the Music of Christmas Once Again . . .

By DOROTHY A. NAREL
Woman's Page Editor

"The mice have been at the bellows, Father. I can't play the organ for Christmas," Franz Gruber told his pastor. Father Joseph Mohr responded by writing "Silent Night, Holy Night," which Herr Gruber set to music. They sang the new song together at Christmas services to guitar accompaniment. This was the origin of one of our best loved hymns in Oberndorf, Austria, 1888.

Church choirs still strive to recreate the first music of Christmas.

Early Christians never took a fancy to the solemn chants of convents and monasteries, but St. Francis of Assisi raised their hearts and voices when he set religious themes to merry music in the 13th century. People went home humming his sermons and carols were born.

The word "carol" refers specifically to Christmas music, sacred or secular.

Italy, France, Germany, England and America have carol literature and traditions of their own. Early songs were written down, they were carried by wandering minstrels and folk singers. They went through so many changes of words and melody their creators probably wouldn't recognize them today.

Medieval carols seem to have written as scripts for religious drama. Vivid pictures in the verses move the listener from scene to scene and moods change from coarse humor to reverence as the story of the Nativity progresses.

Religious folk songs were popular until the Puritans coming into power, frowned on such pagan excesses. They said festival music was sacrilegious and dishonored God.

They outlawed Christmas!

A Puritan law of 1644 made December 25 a market day. Shops were required to remain open. Stiff fines, even jail sentences awaited anyone caught "celebrating" Christmas. People obediently wore straight faces and hummed merrily under their breath. Christmas music went "underground."

"Broad sheets" were printed each year to keep texts alive with some accuracy. The law wasn't strictly enforced, children still sang from door to door and neighbors gathered on Christmas Eve to chorus, "Love and Joy, Come to You!"

The Restoration eventually led music back into church.

Some 18th century sophisticates found folk songs too simple for their taste. Holiday spirits, even in cities, clamored for musical expression and it was at this time that some of the noblest composers fashioned "respectable" Christmas music. Bach wrote his exultant oratorio and Handel created the "Messiah" with its magnificent "Hallelujah Chorus."

No one is sure who wrote "Adeste Fideles." Credit is usually given to St. Bonaventure.

Late last century church musicians and laymen tracked down carols sung throughout the world and printed them for the enjoyment of future generations.

It was Mrs. Cram of Boston who made caroling a rich American tradition.

The year was 1910. As Christmas preparations were completed, the lady remembered legends of medieval England where "waits"—night watchmen—went caroling through the streets. She reached for her telephone and within an hour, a dozen neighbors had promised Mrs. Cram to light candles in their windows on Christmas Eve and come outdoors to sing with her. The group expanded year by year and Beacon Hill, where caroling had once been an offense against the State, won fame as the home of modern American caroling!

Community singing grows more popular every year and thousands of Americans belong to Christmas choral groups. In Santa Barbara, carolers masquerade in the flowing red capes and peaked hoods of ancient Europe. Others find their greatest enjoyment indoors, near family and fireside listening to the harmonies of the organ, piano and group singing. Most Americans attend church services where, perhaps best of all, they can thrill to one of the most inspiring sounds —the music of Christmas!

Ye Merrie Punch Bowl

" 'Tis the season for merriment, the time for gala parties," says our Freeman Christmas Elf at left — and what better place to begin than with a glorious punch table laden with a brimming bowl of Christmas cheer and luscious treats.

As many a hostess already knows, a well chosen punch provides the perfect refreshment — light and sparkling. This punch weds the fragrance of clove-studded apples with raspberry gelatin, apple and cranberry juices enlivened and accented with chilled 7-Up. This is a punch for the busy hostess — the fruit juice base is made well in advance and thoroughly chilled. Then, just before guests arrive, the sparkling beverage is added.

A sugar plum treat accompanies the punch — RIBBON FRUIT CAKE featuring cake layers made from a mix and a delicious assortment of fruits and nuts for filling. The pale gold frosting is a new treatment of an old favorite . . . hard sauce.

This sumptuous beauty was designed to be prepared in advance of holiday parties and held in the freezer until party time. And, one recipe makes two handsome cakes.

Sweet, rich and filling, a small slice satisfied even the most ravenous appetite. With this Ribbon Fruit Cake recipe, there's plenty for a large party. Or if you choose, serve the cakes for two separate smaller holiday gatherings.

APPLE BERRY PUNCH and RIBBON FRUIT CAKE FOR CHRISTMAS

Apple Berry Punch

2 cups apple juice
1 package (3 ounces, raspberry-flavored gelatin
2 red-skinned tart apples
Whole cloves
1 quart cranberry juice
2 quarts 7-Up, chilled

Heat apple juice to boiling. Add to raspberry gelatin; stir to dissolve. Stud apples with cloves; place in bowl with warm gelatin mixture; allow to stand about 10 minutes. Add cranberry juice. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, add carbonated beverage. Makes about 3½ quarts or 28 (4-ounce) servings.

Ribbon Fruit Cake

CAKE:
1 package yellow cake mix
2 eggs
7-Up

RAISIN FILLING:
1½ cups seedless raisins, coarsely chopped.
¾ cup 7-Up
¼ cup light corn syrup
1½ cups walnuts, coarsely chopped
1 jar green maraschino cherries, quartered
½ cup citron, chopped

DATE FILLING:
1 package pitted dates, coarsely cut
¾ cup 7-Up
1½ cups pecans, coarsely chopped
1 jar red maraschino cherries, quartered
½ cup mixed candied fruits

HARD SAUCE FROSTING:
2 cups (1 pound) butter, softened
4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon rum, brandy or vanilla flavoring

Prepare cake mix according to package directions, using carbonated beverage in place of liquid called for in recipe. Grease and flour a 9-by-13-inch baking pan. Turn batter into pan and bake in a 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand in pan five minutes. Remove to cake rack; cool thoroughly.

FOR RAISIN FILLING: Combine raisins, carbonated beverage and corn syrup. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until liquid is almost absorbed. Cool slightly, then add remaining filling ingredients. Cool thoroughly.

FOR DATE FILLING: Combine dates with 7-Up. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until liquid is almost absorbed. Cool slightly, then add remaining filling ingredients. Cool thoroughly.

FOR FROSTING: Beat butter in small bowl of electric mixer until softened and smooth. Gradually add sifted confectioners' sugar, about ¼ cup at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Blend in flavoring. Refrigerate until time to frost cake.

TO ASSEMBLE CAKES: Cut cooled 9-by-13-inch cake into three sections, each measuring 9 by 4 inches; trim crusts if desired. Split each 9 by 4 inch section in half horizontally to make six cake layers, each measuring about 9 by 4, about 1 inch thick. Use three sections for each cake loaf. Place one section of cake on cooky sheet. Spread with half of raisin filling. Top with another section of cake; spread with half of date filling. Top with third section of cake. Repeat with remaining three cake sections and remaining fillings.

Frost each cake with half of the frosting. Place in freezer. When frozen firm, remove from cooky sheet, wrap in freezer wrap and return to freezer. About half an hour before serving remove cake from freezer, unwrap and garnish with fruits and nuts as desired. Makes 2 cakes, about 10 servings each.

Hanukkah: Dec. 26th

Hanukkah, the Feast of Lights, will be observed this year on December 26. It commemorates Israel's victory in religious liberty and is the spiritual counterpart of the Purim celebration. While Purim commemorates the rescue of the Jews from physical destruction at the hands of an oppressor, Hanukkah marks the rescue of Judaism, as a faith and a way of life.

As with all holidays, the task of preparing for the celebration falls to the housewife. There is a great deal of symbolism in the Hanukkah Feast. Candles are lit for eight successive evenings by either parent in a Hanukkah menorah especially designed for the Feast of Lights. One candle is lit the first evening, two the second and so on until all eight are kindled. An additional candle, called the shammos, is lit at the same time, to be used to kindle the other tapers.

Because the Hanukkah traditional customs so closely parallel the Christmas celebration, American Jews have made their holiday a major one. Hanukkah has always been a time for festivity, for games and parties, for special seasonal dishes and for gifts to the children. In imitation of the general atmosphere prevailing in December, Hanukkah is now marked by exchanges of gifts for young and old, and homes are gaily decorated with a variety of Hanukkah symbols.

ings, songs and hymns for the Hanukkah season. "Rock of Ages" (Ma-oz Tzur) not to be confused with the Christian hymn, is probably the most widely known hymn.

During these weeks the synagogue religious school takes on a festive air. Pageants, plays and musical operettas, all based on the theme of the Maccabean victory and religious liberty, are carefully rehearsed and presented.

Potato Latkes

Perhaps one of the most traditional dishes served during Hanukkah is Potato Latkes (potato pancakes). Mrs. H. Z. Rappaport of Port Ewen, wife of Rabbi Rappaport of Congregation Agudas Achim, has given us her recipe and we'd like to share it with you. Served with apple sauce, sugar, preserves of any kind, these pancakes are good any time of the year not just during Hanukkah.

POTATO LATKES: Peel 6 large potatoes and soak in cold water for several hours. Grate, and drain off the excess juice. Measure the pulp, and for each two cups, add 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 tablespoon of flour, ½ teaspoon of salt, and a pinch of pepper. A tablespoon of onion juice may be added if desired. Beat well. Heat 4 tablespoons of vegetable shortening in a skillet. Drop in the batter by tablespoonfuls and fry to a deep brown on each side. Serve with apple sauce.

CHANUKAH SALAD: Use canned asparagus tips for candles. Arrange flat on a flattened lettuce leaf or finely shredded lettuce. Make tips of carrot to represent flame, garnish with water cress, olives, radishes, and parsley. Serve with French dressing.

Kingston Shoppers Get Into a Christmas Mood

FREEMAN PHOTOGRAPHER John Kruh took a stroll uptown one afternoon and caught these candid shots for the woman's pages. We didn't attempt to get names, we felt the spirit of the photographs was enough to tell the whole story.

Whether it was shopping for gifts, decorations, grandchild, husband, wife or child, this Christmas season, like all others, brings the shoppers out in droves. Yule decorations seem brighter this year and toys, as always, hold the greatest interest for the young tots. At the end of the afternoon, our shoppers are laden down with gifts but still wear happy holiday smiles.

OUR CAMERA tells the tale most expressively in the top left photo of the little boy with a toy. The whole Christmas season is reflected in his face. Our little shopper seeking a proper card for her mother is likewise engrossed in the holiday spirit while the beautiful youngster with the dolls is probably hoping Santa will leave a couple for her.

The shoppers were old and young, the decorations large and small, and the decisions difficult and quick and it all spelled "Christmas is Coming." (Freeman photos by Kruh).

What Kingstonians Want From Santa

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI
For the Woman's Page

If you could have but one gift this year for Christmas, what would you choose? This question was asked by The Freeman of Yuletide shoppers who were spotted this week "where the action was," namely, at various businesses throughout the city that ran the gamut from exclusive specialty shoppes to area beauty salons where harried, frustrated women relaxed for a moment to have their Christmas cares washed right out of their coiffures.

Answers were varied. "A new home," fancied Kathleen Quinn, explaining that a six-foot-plus husband and a collie dog were a "bit much" for her small three room apartment.

Mayor Raymond Garraghan whimsically remarked he would like Santa to arrange for "one day off out of every seven." Laura Martin is hankering for another television set. However, she specified, not color. (Must remember to mail a copy of this article to her husband, Santa Jim.)

Mrs. Jack Martin's Hanukkah hope for health was also the wish of Mrs. Vernon Styles and a host of others.

It's doubtful whether Marge Bruck will appreciate this, but it was told that her husband is gifting her with a snow blower for the holidays. Bob Saehloff says security heads his list of wants and an unidentified gentleman hoped for freedom from want, but added on second thought, "a just and lasting peace" would be even more important.

Though Mary Ferraro didn't actually state what she craved for Christmas, that which she is giving will be wrapped with ribbons fastened to jars of champagne jelly.

To alleviate some of Santa's problems, a helpful hint list was surreptitiously submitted: for Dorothy A. Narel, a cookbook containing treasured recipes of the finest restaurants in the world; a history of Saugerties, in general, and Blue Mountain, in particular, to Al Cawein: a solid gold mustache trimmer to Charlie Bermpohl.

Also: a paper stretcher to Tobie Geertsema so she could fit in all of her articles for "Tempo" magazine; a direct telephone line and free taxi service to the luncheonette for Ray Tyson; a photograph album for Ed Palladino to keep the pictures of his baby; a book on the raising and care of beagles for Jean Dolan; a recording of his daughter singing Christmas carols for Irwin Thomas; a case of scotch for Hugh Reynolds so he can allay his Christmas Shopping; a cascade of flowers for Lyn Mulvaney to arrange; a diary for Louis Netter where he can keep an account of his memories with The Freeman.

Also: a sports manual for Chris Gehman; spats for Charlie Tiano who always looks so dapper; a subscription to TV Guide for Diane Norton; a box of "expensive" cigars for Walter S. Clark Jr.; and two weeks vacation for the managing editor, Peter W. Barrecchia, so the editorial staff could get a rest.

The Freeman inquirer thought it only fair to stop in to see Santa Claus at his Wall Street address to ask him what his Christmas wishes were. And Santa with the true Yuletide spirit replied with an optimistic twinkle in his eye: "peace throughout the world and enough snow on Christmas Eve to speed him and his reindeer on their way."

Olive-Crab Mousse Dish

Christmas time is open season for hospitality. Buffet suppers that fit into this picture are increasingly popular. They make serving easier for the hostess, and much of the food can be prepared ahead of time.

For a successful buffet supper, plan one all-star dish and build the rest of the menu around it.

CHRISTMAS OLIVE-CRAB MOUSSE

1 cup canned pitted California ripe olives
1 (10-ounce) package frozen asparagus spears
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
¾ cup cold water
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Few drops liquid red pepper seasoning
¼ cup catsup
1 (7½-ounce) can crab
2 cups dairy sour cream
Salad greens
Pitted ripe olives for garnish

Slice ripe olives. Cook asparagus until tender; drain. Sprinkle gelatin over water; stir over low heat until dissolved. Add slowly to mayonnaise, beating briskly. Blend in lemon juice, salt, Worcestershire sauce, red pepper seasoning and catsup. Drain and flake crab. Reserve some ripe olive slices and asparagus spears for decoration. Cut remaining asparagus and fold into gelatin mixture with remaining ripe olives, sour cream and crab. Chill until slightly thickened. Place reserved ripe olives in bottom of 6-cup mold. Cover with a little thickened gelatin. Arrange asparagus spears tips down against sides of mold. Chill quickly, then spoon in remaining gelatin mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with greens and whole, pitted ripe olives. Eight to 10 servings.

SISTER ROSETTA THARPE, noted radio, television and recording gospel singer of Philadelphia, Pa., will present a musical program at the New Central Baptist Church, 236 East Strand, on Saturday at 8 p. m. The Rev. P. N. Saunders Jr., pastor, invites the public to attend.

Bacon Fat

When you are planning to use the bacon fat (after frying bacon) for cooking eggs, make sure that you cook the bacon over low heat so the fat stays as white as possible.

Dessert Idea

Fill wine glasses (small ones) with shaved ice; pour creme de menthe over the ice and serve with short straws. Nice as dessert! Cut long straws into short lengths.

Beauty Shop Back in Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House beauty shop, which vanished in the night, is headed or a prompt reopening.

It was only a week ago Saturday night that Mrs. Mabel Solomon suddenly pulled her equipment out of the shop she operated for some 30 years.

Since this was discovered last Monday morning congressional wheels have been turning rapidly and the shop's reopening is set for today.

On Wednesday, Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich. introduced a proposal authorizing up to $15,000 to buy new equipment, set up a select committee to oversee operations and hire a manager. The House didn't blink an eye or say a word before accepting the plan.

Mrs. Griffiths, Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., and Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash. were named to the committee and promptly went to work.

They ordered $12,000 of new equipment—hair dryers, chairs and shampoo stations—got the old quarters painted and the floors cleaned.

They hired a manager, Mrs. Betty J. Oszust of nearby Rockville, Md., at $15,000 a year. The manager's salary will be drawn out of income of the shop, open to anyone but used primarily by House employes, women members and wives of male members.

When Mrs. Solomon operated the shop, she paid no rent, no utilities and even got free towels. Mrs. Griffiths claimed Mrs. Solomon grossed $143,000 last year. There had been a dispute over the operations and Mrs. Solomon had been ill for about six months.

Tiny Tips

Heating butter for frying? Let the foam subside on the melted butter before adding the pieces of food that are to be fried.

Stuffed Tomatoes

Take your choice: Use a metal spoon or your fingers to hollow out tomatoes before stuffing for a salad or a hot dish.

Peeled and Seeded

Recipes sometimes call for peeled and seeded tomatoes. To remove the skins from the tomatoes, dip into boiling-hot water. To remove the seeds, cut the tomatoes in half and gently squeeze out the seeds from each half.

Perfect Duckling Prepared in French Way

PLUM PERFECT DUCKLING

If duckling is what you are planning to serve for Christmas dinner, take a hint from French chefs who are experts in cooking the bird.

To quickly release the quantities of surplus fat, the French first cook duckling at a high temperature, 450° for 15 or 20 minutes, turning it from side to back to breast until it is golden brown all over. After pouring off the fat, lower the temperature to 350° and continue roasting for 1½ hours or until duckling is done.

Invariably, the French combine duck with fruit or vegetables and this recipe for plum and lemon sauce is an intriguing departure from the orange sauce Gallics have made so popular.

Canned plums, bottled lemon juice and various spices give this sauce a pleasing tangy flavor that deliciously compliments the ducklings.

Plum Perfect Duckling

⅓ cup bottled lemon juice
1 chicken bouillon cube, crushed
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 5-pound ducklings

* * *

½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 1-pound can prune plums, pitted
½ cup bottled lemon juice
⅓ cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1-2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 drops hot pepper sauce

Combine bottled lemon juice, bouillon cube and poultry seasoning. Prick surface of ducks; brush cavities and outside with lemon mixture. Roast in an open pan in a fast oven 450° for 15 or 20 minutes. Pour off fat. Lower temperature to 350°. Continue to roast for 1½ more hours. Prick occasionally and pour off fat as needed. Saute onion in butter. Puree prune plums and juice. Combine onions, plums, bottled lemon juice, chili sauce, soy sauce, sugar, Worcestershire, ginger, mustard and hot pepper sauce. Simmer 15 minutes. Brush duck several times with plum mixture during last half hour of roasting. Serve remaining sauce with duck. Makes 1¾ cups of sauce to serve 8.

Dear Abby

Put Breaks on Driving

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If you can come up with a solution to my problem you are a genius.

We have two children, 4 and 5. My widowed grandmother, who is 64, is always after me to let our children stay overnight with her. She loves them, and they love her, but every time she asks me I try to find an excuse so I won't have to let them go.

You see, Grandma drives a car, and she is the world's worst driver, and when the children are in the car with her, my husband and I worry ourselves sick. You can't imagine what a poor dirver she is, Abby. It's a miracle that she hasn't killed herself.

How can we tell her the real reason we don't want our kiddies to stay with her? She thinks she's a good driver, and if anyone says anything to the contrary she gets insulted.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: If Grandma's poor driving has been called to her attention before, she must be aware that there is some talk about it, so save yourself a lot of worry, deception, and pussyfooting, and tell her she can have the kids only if she promises not to drive them anywhere.

DEAR ABBY: After 20 years of marriage, my husband deserted his family for a tramp who already had three bad marriages to her name. One problem is that my "ex" is very good to me and the children. He never misses a birthday or Christmas, and he gives the children money to buy me something special. He does all my house repairs and is educating all four children in expensive schools.

What do I do for him in return for his generosity? Regularly, three times a week I am a "wife" to him — just like old times. This is not hard for me since I still love him.

I am beginning to feel cheap and dirty about it, now that I am "the other woman," because he must be lying to his wife about me just as he used to lie to me about her. Now I don't consider myself any better than the tramp he's married to.

At first I told myself I was getting even with her, but now I realize I am not hurting her. I am just fouling up my own life. I know it isn't right, but I can't seem to help myself. Any advice you give me I promise to follow to the letter. Naturally, sign my name.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: If you feel "cheap, dirty, and trapped," then the only way you can feel "clean and free" is to put an end to the "old times" sessions. You are suffering from creeping loss of self-esteem. I think you know what you should do; you desperately want some one to tell you that you must.

---

DEAR ABBY: I am 46 and my gentleman friend is 65. When we go to dinner and a movie, he pays for it. I do all the driving and use my car because he doesn't drive. In fact, he doesn't even own a car. This has nothing to do with his financial situation as he isn't hurting for money.

Do you think I should pay for all the gasoline?

Also when we go on overnight trips (strictly platonic), who whould pay for the motel? I like to be proper. ELMIRA

DEAR ELMIRA: The gentleman should pay for everything he can gracefully pay for. But if you "like to be proper," I suggest you pay for your own separate lodging on these overnight trips.

Opening lead—♠ J

When this year's rubber bridge championships started at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, Sands vice-president Sandy Waterman told us that he hoped the winners would be ordinary bridge players. He said, "Of course, you experts have an advantage. If the cards break even in a match your skill should win for you, but you will be playing rubber bridge against other rubber bridge players and I have a hunch maybe some of them will come through and win."

Sandy was right. The winners were Clark Merrit of San Merino and Robetr Krost of Pasadena, Calif.

Mr. Merrit is a retired auditor of the California Tax Board, and Mr. Krost is an accountant. They play small stake rubber bridge together and had played a little duplicate back in the '30s. They know nothing of modern expert bidding and play a circa 1933 Culbertson system.

Of course, 1933 Culbertson was a pretty good system. One of its features was the Culbertson four and five no-trump which preceded Blackwood. Mr. Krost's two spade call was a trifle weak by modern standards, but he had a six-card suit and 4½ honor tricks. Mr. Krost's four no-trump showed either two aces plus the king of spades or three aces.

South's five no-trump bid showed two aces whereupon North went to six spades. Mr. Merrit's final bid of seven spades had become a cinch. He knew that Mr. Krost held two aces and the king of spades from the four no-trump bid and spade support from the six-spade bid.

Three rounds of trumps took care of that suit, and dummy still held a trump to ruff the last diamond. Mr. Merrit might have claimed right away, but he actually played the hand that far before showing his cards. You can't be too careful in the final round of any tournament.

How can we tell her the real reason we don't want our kiddies to stay with her? She thinks she's a good driver, and if anyone says anything to the contrary she gets insulted.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: If Grandma's poor driving has been called to her attention before, she must be aware that there is some talk about it, so save yourself a lot of worry, deception, and pussyfooting, and tell her she can have the kids only if she promises not to drive them anywhere.

DEAR ABBY: After 20 years of marriage, my husband deserted his family for a tramp who already had three bad marriages to her name. One problem is that my "ex" is very good to me and the children. He never misses a birthday or Christmas, and he gives the children money to buy me something special. He does all my house repairs and is educating all four children in expensive schools.

What do I do for him in return for his generosity? Regularly, three times a week I am a "wife" to him — just like old times. This is not hard for me since I still love him.

I am beginning to feel cheap and dirty about it, now that I am "the other woman," because he must be lying to his wife about me just as he used to lie to me about her. Now I don't consider myself any better than the tramp he's married to.

At first I told myself I was getting even with her, but now I realize I am not hurting her. I am just fouling up my own life. I know it isn't right, but I can't seem to help myself. Any advice you give me I promise to follow to the letter. Naturally, sign my name.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: If you feel "cheap, dirty, and trapped," then the only way you can feel "clean and free" is to put an end to the "old times" sessions. You are suffering from creeping loss of self-esteem. I think you know what you should do; you desperately want some one to tell you that you must.

---

DEAR ABBY: I am 46 and my gentleman friend is 65. When we go to dinner and a movie, he pays for it. I do all the driving and use my car because he doesn't drive. In fact, he doesn't even own a car. This has nothing to do with his financial situation as he isn't hurting for money.

Do you think I should pay for all the gasoline?

Also when we go on overnight trips (strictly platonic), who whould pay for the motel? I like to be proper. ELMIRA

DEAR ELMIRA: The gentleman should pay for everything he can gracefully pay for. But if you "like to be proper," I suggest you pay for your own separate lodging on these overnight trips.

Opening lead—♠ J

When this year's rubber bridge championships started at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, Sands vice-president Sandy Waterman told us that he hoped the winners would be ordinary bridge players. He said, "Of course, you experts have an advantage. If the cards break even in a match your skill should win for you, but you will be playing rubber bridge against other rubber bridge players and I have a hunch maybe some of them will come through and win."

Sandy was right. The winners were Clark Merrit of San Merino and Robetr Krost of Pasadena, Calif.

Mr. Merrit is a retired auditor of the California Tax Board, and Mr. Krost is an accountant. They play small stake rubber bridge together and had played a little duplicate back in the '30s. They know nothing of modern expert bidding and play a circa 1933 Culbertson system.

Of course, 1933 Culbertson was a pretty good system. One of its features was the Culbertson four and five no-trump which preceded Blackwood. Mr. Krost's two spade call was a trifle weak by modern standards, but he had a six-card suit and 4½ honor tricks. Mr. Krost's four no-trump showed either two aces plus the king of spades or three aces.

South's five no-trump bid showed two aces whereupon North went to six spades. Mr. Merrit's final bid of seven spades had become a cinch. He knew that Mr. Krost held two aces and the king of spades from the four no-trump bid and spade support from the six-spade bid.

Three rounds of trumps took care of that suit, and dummy still held a trump to ruff the last diamond. Mr. Merrit might have claimed right away, but he actually played the hand that far before showing his cards. You can't be too careful in the final round of any tournament.

World Almanac Facts

The World Almanac reports that Thomas Paine's "Common Sense," which presented a forceful case for American independence, became the first best seller in American history. On Jan. 10, 1776, after several Philadelphia publishers refused to invest money to print Paine's little volume, John Bell finally took the chance, and the book sold about 100,000 copies in 10 weeks.

Ivan Dixon Not Complaining

By DEAN GYSEL
Chicago Daily News Service

Whatever became of Ivan Dixon?

Last season Dixon was plucked from the minor role of Sgt. Kinchloe in Hogan's Heroes to play the title role in the first, prestigious CBS playhouse drama, "The Final War of Ollie Winter."

His acting as the Negro soldier who dies in Vietnam won Dixon an Emmy nomination. Many people expected the producers to knock down his doors and catapault him to stardom.

But Nobody Knocked

To the surprise of some innocents—but not Dixon—nobody knocked.

"No, I really didn't expect too much out of it," he said in a telephone interview from his home in Altadena, a suburb of Los Angeles.

"I was really kind of surprised that 'Ollie Winter' turned out to be so important.

"There aren't really many roles for Negroes. We still have to wait for specific parts for Negroes. There is not yet open competition for parts for either a white or Negro actor."

Playing Ollie Winter came as a surprise to Dixon. He had asked to read for another play but when his agent said he had the part, it was for Winter. The other play has yet to be produced.

Since then, Dixon has done a guest shot on Felony Squad and was considered for a leading role in a proposed new western for ABC, The Outcast, but CBS would not free him from his contract, which calls for two more seasons with Hogan's Heroes.

"I'm not complaining," he said. "I'm not stuck. The series keeps me in grits. I've got a steady income and the exposure is not necessarily bad." Dixon, who is 36, has a wife and four children.

At Least Established

Dixon is at least established and should get his share of the limited roles written for Negroes. "Things are better than a couple years ago. Of course, any improvement is better than none.

"Most roles for Negroes are written by whites," he said. "They are kind of one-dimensional things. There's a lot of self-consciousness by the writer. There seems to be an inability to write about a character. They're hung up on what the Negro is."

He commented on the reversal of Negro steretypes in TV and films. "The attitude has changed from a negative sterotype to a consciously positive one. It's also an exaggeration.

"We haven't quite become humans yet. Now and then I see a Negro with a family of a girl, but producers have a deep insecurity (about sex). They're afraid to perpetuate the Negro myth, so they try to avoid it."

CBS will televise "At the Drop of Another Hat," a musical comedy revue with English satirists Michael Flanders and Donald Swann, on Monday, December 18.

TV packager Walter Schwimmer is producing a special about golfer Bobby Jones.

Ivan Dixon Not Complaining

By DEAN GYSEL
Chicago Daily News Service

Whatever became of Ivan Dixon?

Last season Dixon was plucked from the minor role of Sgt. Kinchloe in Hogan's Heroes to play the title role in the first, prestigious CBS playhouse drama, "The Final War of Ollie Winter."

His acting as the Negro soldier who dies in Vietnam won Dixon an Emmy nomination. Many people expected the producers to knock down his doors and catapault him to stardom.

But Nobody Knocked

To the surprise of some innocents—but not Dixon—nobody knocked.

"No, I really didn't expect too much out of it," he said in a telephone interview from his home in Altadena, a suburb of Los Angeles.

"I was really kind of surprised that 'Ollie Winter' turned out to be so important.

"There aren't really many roles for Negroes. We still have to wait for specific parts for Negroes. There is not yet open competition for parts for either a white or Negro actor."

Playing Ollie Winter came as a surprise to Dixon. He had asked to read for another play but when his agent said he had the part, it was for Winter. The other play has yet to be produced.

Since then, Dixon has done a guest shot on Felony Squad and was considered for a leading role in a proposed new western for ABC, The Outcast, but CBS would not free him from his contract, which calls for two more seasons with Hogan's Heroes.

"I'm not complaining," he said. "I'm not stuck. The series keeps me in grits. I've got a steady income and the exposure is not necessarily bad." Dixon, who is 36, has a wife and four children.

At Least Established

Dixon is at least established and should get his share of the limited roles written for Negroes. "Things are better than a couple years ago. Of course, any improvement is better than none.

"Most roles for Negroes are written by whites," he said. "They are kind of one-dimensional things. There's a lot of self-consciousness by the writer. There seems to be an inability to write about a character. They're hung up on what the Negro is."

He commented on the reversal of Negro steretypes in TV and films. "The attitude has changed from a negative sterotype to a consciously positive one. It's also an exaggeration.

"We haven't quite become humans yet. Now and then I see a Negro with a family of a girl, but producers have a deep insecurity (about sex). They're afraid to perpetuate the Negro myth, so they try to avoid it."

CBS will televise "At the Drop of Another Hat," a musical comedy revue with English satirists Michael Flanders and Donald Swann, on Monday, December 18.

TV packager Walter Schwimmer is producing a special about golfer Bobby Jones.

Mr. Long (the witness volunteered to the court)—I just don't know what I'm going to do, Judge.

Judge Lee (startled)—What do you mean?

Mr. Long—Well, I swore to tell nothing but the truth, but every time I try to, some lawyer objects.

* * *

Every accomplishment was once a challenge to the winner.

* * *

Overheard in a commuter club car:—My wife doesn't care how good-looking my secretary is, as long as he's efficient.

* * *

A young lawyer pleading his first case, had been retained by a farmer to prosecute a railroad for killing 24 hogs. He wanted to impress the jury with the magnitude of the injury.

Young Lawyer Brown—Twenty-four hogs, gentlemen! Twenty-four! Twice as many as there are in the jury box.

Laundry Was Not Always Easy Task

A visit to a past exhibit at Chicago's Muesum of Science and Industry was an eye-opening experience for young homemakers who've seldom done more than push a button in order to do the family wash.

The "Tale of a Tub," gave the viewer a back-aching revue of home laundering over the years.

It covered, in addition to washing devices, an overall picture of washing substances and the proper handling of modern fabrics.

One of the first practicable washers to be manufactured for home use was the "Pastime," produced in Newton, Iowa, in 1907. A hand-cranked machine, it took the rub out of rub-a-dub-dub.

An improved model, fitted with a pulley mechanism, permitted the washer to be attached to an auxiliary engine. The relative freedom of labor that the machine gave the homemaker inspired the manufacturer to dub this machine the "Hired Girl."

In 1910, the swinging, reversible wringer came on the scene, and took lugging of water-filled tubs from one side of the wringer to the other out of the home laundering picture.

Somewhere along about this time, the water-powered washer made an appearance. A piston-like arrangement drove the machine under pressure from the water supply.

The first washer for sale to the public to be powered by electricity was manufactured in 1911.

To supply rural communities, then realtively unelectrified, a one-half-horsepower gasoline engine was attached to one model of a famous-name washer.

Still chugging along, counterparts of this first machine are putt-putting away in remote areas as the cherished possessions of missionary workers.

The "dolly," the milkstool-like device which projected from a tub's top in early machines, was replaced by the tub bottom-mounted agitator in the early '20's. That same principle for agitation is in use in some manual and automatic washers, today.

You'll be pushing buttons for some time to come, to wash and dry your clothes.

But the day is coming when supersonic sound, sound waves above the range heard by human ears, may well be projected through a tub of water to drive dirt from deep within fabrics that are being washed.

At present an experimental project, the device will come to the home only after it's been washed free of 'bugs" by laboratory technicians and exhaustive testing.

Proper Light Aids Kitchen Operation

Preparing meals with modern kitchen equipment has become an easier task for the homemaker. But it could become even easier if she had enough light to see what she was doing.

This lack of light in the kitchen paves the way for accidents, making it one of the most dangerous rooms in the home, according to the American Home Lighting Institute.

"Stumbling along in the gloom of a single ceiling fixture, most homemakers find their work frustrating, irritating, and tiring," says a spokesman for the institute.

"AS THE lighting level is increased, more energy is free for useful work, and nervous tension is lessened."

A specific light fixture for each work surface and area is needed. This means light over the sink, range, and counters, as well as light for balance in the center of the room, and light over the kitchen dining area.

Cooking over an inadequately lighted range, fumbling in shadowy cutlery drawers, and using electric kitchen appliances in gloomy surroundings are all dangers which can be eliminated with appropriate fixtures.

IMPROVING kitchen lighting can be easy on the budget. In many cases, especially with counter lighting, flourescent fixtures can be installed as a "do-it-yourself" project. Good lighting is just as suitable for old as new homes.

Electric Freezers Designed to Give Maximum Storage

You can't keep them down on the farm — electric freezers, that is. Originally most popular with big farm families, the freezer has moved to the town and suburbs, where people have learned to like the convenience of frozen foods.

New model freezers are designed to give maximum zero-zone storage capacity in a minimum of floor space. The idea is to put a world of foods at the fingertips of the harried urban housewife who has many mouths to feed, but little kitchen area and little time for shopping. Modern designed freezers provide more food storage space while occupying no more floor space than the older designs.

The emphasis in the new freezers is on ultra-low temperatures, that preserve hundreds of different foods for indefinite periods. Zero-zone temperatures also freeze foods rapidly so that the flavor of fresh-cooked casserole dishes, pastry, and other foods is captured to be restored in full when the dish is heated and served.

Convenience features in the latest freezers include slide-out baskets, drawers, deep storage doors, juice dispensers, ice cube makers and dispensers, and adjustable shelves in the door.

Home economics instructors now are teaching students ways to save money with a freezer. Among their hints:

Buy meat and other basics in quantity when prices are low, or during "sales days." Cut down on shopping trips, reduce gasoline costs and wear and tear on the car, and save on baby-sitting fees if children are too small to take to the market. Keep leftovers for longer periods. Freezerless families often throw out leftovers because they don't want to "eat the same thing" the next day.

Characteristic of today's freezers — both upright and chest models — is "the built-in look." with corners squared off, and no condensers in the back, some units are designed to fit flush against wood or metal cabinets. They may also be the same depth as standard cabinets, so there are no jutting or recessed portions to mar the appearance or efficiency of a modern kitchen.

Brighten the Home

It has always been a woman's prerogative to change her mind — and she often does. Second only to this is the number of times she changes the furniture arrangement in her home.

Living room, dining room, bedroom or foyer—none escape once the whim takes hold. Trouble starts when ceiling fixtures have to be moved, too. One solution to this dilemma is an ingenious ceiling lamp.

These lamps hang from the ceiling but plug into any baseboard outlet just as ordinary table and floor lamps, since ceiling lamps eliminate all the complications usually involved in hanging ceiling fixtures, they can be installed anywhere and moved easily.

NOT ONLY ARE these ceiling lamps easy to put up, but they finish the focalpoint interest of pendant lighting without permanent wiring or installation.

This is especially important in today's homes and apartments, where ceiling outlets are often lacking. Thus, the homeowner can have ceiling lighting whereever she likes it — whether or not the builder has seen fit to provide outlets there.

And she doesn't have to call on hubby to put it up. She can do it herself in a matter of minutes. Small decorative fittings simply screw into the ceiling. A slender, plastic cord runs through the fittings and down the corner or side of the wall to any convenient baseboard outlet. Enough cord is supplied to extend 12 feet into the room.

The lamps have easy up and down adjustability for either wide area or concentrated illumination.

IN A FOYER, dining corner or living room, ceiling lamps provide a dramatic, decorative note to the room decor.

When considering new lighting you should plan it with as much care as you give the selection of your other furnishings. You'll be surprised at how enexpensive it can be, too. No matter what your period of decorating, you'll find a wide selection of fixtures available in the low and medium price range.

In addition to the pull-down ceiling lamp is the ceiling track that lets you attack the fixture at the center ceiling outlet or plug it into a wall or floor outlet and still "travel" it to the exact spot where you need light.

Electric Freezers Designed to Give Maximum Storage

You can't keep them down on the farm — electric freezers, that is. Originally most popular with big farm families, the freezer has moved to the town and suburbs, where people have learned to like the convenience of frozen foods.

New model freezers are designed to give maximum zero-zone storage capacity in a minimum of floor space. The idea is to put a world of foods at the fingertips of the harried urban housewife who has many mouths to feed, but little kitchen area and little time for shopping. Modern designed freezers provide more food storage space while occupying no more floor space than the older designs.

The emphasis in the new freezers is on ultra-low temperatures, that preserve hundreds of different foods for indefinite periods. Zero-zone temperatures also freeze foods rapidly so that the flavor of fresh-cooked casserole dishes, pastry, and other foods is captured to be restored in full when the dish is heated and served.

Convenience features in the latest freezers include slide-out baskets, drawers, deep storage doors, juice dispensers, ice cube makers and dispensers, and adjustable shelves in the door.

Home economics instructors now are teaching students ways to save money with a freezer. Among their hints:

Buy meat and other basics in quantity when prices are low, or during "sales days." Cut down on shopping trips, reduce gasoline costs and wear and tear on the car, and save on baby-sitting fees if children are too small to take to the market. Keep leftovers for longer periods. Freezerless families often throw out leftovers because they don't want to "eat the same thing" the next day.

Characteristic of today's freezers — both upright and chest models — is "the built-in look." with corners squared off, and no condensers in the back, some units are designed to fit flush against wood or metal cabinets. They may also be the same depth as standard cabinets, so there are no jutting or recessed portions to mar the appearance or efficiency of a modern kitchen.

Here's the Truth About Famous Lane Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

Here's where we set the record straight about the origin of one of the most famous cakes in American culinary history.

We're talking about Lane Cake, four layers deep, stacked with spirited filling and covered with soft white frosting.

Who really did invent Lane Cake and what is the original recipe? Emma Rylander Lane who lived in Clayton, Ala. wrote a cookbook called "A Few Good Things to Eat," published in 1898, which included Mrs. Lane's "prize recipe."

We can attest to this—and to the correctness of the following recipe—because we have a copy of "A Few Good Things to Eat" in front of us, loaned to us by Mrs. Lane's granddaughter—our friend, Emma Rylander Law. Emma Law has made her grandmother's cake at our house and, take it from us, it is worth eating. Not one iota has Granddaughter departed from Grandmother Lane's ingredients, but she has modernized the making.

Emma Law tells us that when she was growing up in the South, Lane Cake was served at holiday teas when guests came visiting. Still a fine custom! But make the tea worthy of the cake. Rinse the empty teapot with boiling water; use 1 teaspoon of loose tea or one teabag for each serving and pour the boiling water over the tea; brew 3 to 5 minutes—5 minutes if you want the fullest body.

EMMA RYLANDER LAW'S LANE CAKE

3 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1-16th teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, at room temperature
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
8 egg whites
1 cup milk
Lane Cake Filling
Boiled White Frosting (from a standard recipe)

On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder and salt

In a large mixing bowl, cream the butter, sugar and vanilla. Add egg whites, in four additions, beating thoroughly after each addition.

Fold in flour mixture alternately with milk; begin and end with dry ingredients. Batter should be smooth but look slightly granular.

Turn into 4 ungreased 9-inch round layer-cake pans lined on the bottom with wax paper.

Bake in a 375-degree oven until edges shrink slightly from sides of pans and tops spring back when gently pressed with finger, or cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 20 minutes. Place pans on wire racks to cool for about 5 minutes.

Turn out on wire racks; remove wax paper; turn right side up; cool completely.

Put layers together (on a cake plate) with Lane Cake Filling, stacking carefully; do not spread filling over top. Cover top and sides with swirls of Boiled White Frosting.

Cover with a tent of foil or a cake cover; or cover tightly in a large deep bowl or tin box. Store in a cool place. If refrigerated, allow to stand at room temperature for half a day before serving because cake texture is best when cake is not served chilled.

As the originator of this cake said in her cookbook, "It is much better to be made a day or two before using."

LANE CAKE FILLING

8 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
½ cup butter, at room temperature
1 cup seedless raisins, finely chopped
1-3rd cup bourbon or brandy
1 teaspoon vanilla

In a 2-quart saucepan, beat the egg yolks well; beat in sugar and butter. Cook over modrate heat, stirring constantly, until quite thick. Remove from heat; stir in raisins, bourbon and vanilla. Cool slightly; use as directed in Lane Cake recipe.

In mountainous Guatemala, two-thirds of the people live more than half a mile above sea level.

ARE ALL TEENAGERS BAD? — Not the teenagers in this community; and especially not those who are devoting their time and energy to assist senior citizens in local nursing homes. Pictured (L-R) Kathy Bailey, Reta Matthews, Barbara Geary, Nancy Secreto, members of St. Mary's committee for Community Volunteers of the Aged, who are busily wrapping Christmas gifts which will be distributed at local nursing homes. Formed one year ago the organization is comosed of teenagers and adults who work together to provide the elderly with social and religious programs. Each weekend more than 150 patients at four of the local nursing homes are visited by the CVA workers who provide entertainment in the form of games, sing-a-longs, birthday parties and cheerful conversation. Committees included in CVA are: Alumnae Association of St. Ursula; students of John A. Coleman High School; adult and teenage groups from St. Mary's, St. Joseph's and St. Peter's parishes, Kingston. Choral groups of the Council of Churches youth group and CYO groups are preparing to sing Christmas carols at the Infirmary and nursing homes on Dec. 21. Most people use OIL HEAT for their own homes because they KNOW it's the most economical fuel.

Yet some of these same home owners will vote on a bond issue for school or public construction, not having the slightest idea about how the building will be heated Why???

Can your community afford to waste money? Is it fair to your children to bear for years to come the burden of an unwise choice today of heating fuels?

Insist that your school board, town or city council, or county representative always get comparative heating costs on all new construction. Let them know that a decision should ONLY be made after a full, unbiased and qualified engineering report has been received.

Don't let someone else gamble with rates, reliability or comfort. It's YOUR money at stake!

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Has anybody seriously thought that Christmas presents ought to be abolished? Not Christmas, mind you. Let us keep Christmas, with all its joys spiritual, temporal, gustatorial. But if there were no presents—what then?

In the first place no lists. Lists of possible gifts for children, grandmothers, aunts, with sizes, colors, and preferences, if they are known (grandmothers are not helpful in this regard; they don't want anything); lists which get lost and turn up behind the sofa around Easter; lists in notebooks, on scraps of paper, stuffed in coat pockets. Lists from which we buy young George a sport jacket, size fourteen, and too late remember that George weighs 160 pounds and the size fourteen is for Henry, only he wants ski boots.

The entire month of December is spent pursuing and satisfying these lists. It would be far simpler to give George and Henry the money and let them buy what they want, but that wouldn't be cricket. You must push your way hrough crowds of shoppers, take up the time of weary clerks, wait interminable hours for packages (the gift you take with you arrives first), and find a new hiding place because the children discovered the one you thought so clever last time. Then on an evening when everybody has gone to bed or is watching the Late Show you get out all the boxes and spend the night wrapping them and tying them with colored ribbon. It may take you untold hours to do up your packages, making them as pretty as they are in the women's magazines, but any child can undo one in three seconds flat and strew the living room floor with the paper besides.

Now of course a child is not going to be made happier if you say the money you would have spent on him is being given to UNESCO or the Heart Fund. We need to reorganize our system of Christmas giving altogether. I remember an episode in The Little House on the Prairie by Laura Ingalls Wilder, that children's classic that has been read to pieces by countless children and still is. There was no money in the Ingalls household, literally no money. Pa had built their house from logs he cut himself; their food was from last summer's garden, carefully preserved and dried and stored, and from the game Pa shot. Laura knew this well enough. She didn't expect they would remember Christmas. There wasn't even a red ribbon in the house. But she did get a Christmas present; it was a doll Pa had carved from a stick and Ma had dressed from scraps of calico. A wonderful Christmas gift, just one, unexpected, unasked for, cherished.

If we could somehow revert to such Christmas giving it would make a better holiday.

Counseling Takes Place at DCC

"Our aim will be to help people who may be thinking of starting a program of college studies—whether it turns out to be at Dutchess or elsewhere," said Miss Mary Solomita, assistant dean of students at Dutchess Community College.

She was referring to a series of counseling sessions that she and other members of the College's student personnel staff have arranged prior to the start of the winter-spring semester.

Counseling will be available at DCC Monday through Friday evenings and Saturday mornings, while the college is in session, up to registration on January 26 and 27, 1968.

"The counseling will be for students already enrolled at Dutchess but, especially, for people in the community who have contemplated a college program but need more information to get them started," commented Robert Moseley, dean of the Continuing Education Division at DCC.

"Often, we have people come up to the College who are very intelligent, but who just don't know about college procedures," he explained. "Frequently, we have people who know just what they want, but who present problems about selecting or transferring courses."

"All of us at Dutchess are aware of the fact that a college campus can be a somewhat bewildering place to someone who has been away from school for a long time," Miss Solomita said. "We hope that these counseling sessions will remove the confusion and perhaps some of the apprehension for people who would like to take advantage of what Dutchess has to offer."

Festival Saturday

Area Boy Is Soloist With Columbus Boychoir

Tor Shekerjian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Haig Shekerjian of 22 Wilmot Terrace, Poughkeepsie, is currently on tour with the internationally famous Columbus Boychoir of Princeton, N.J. The Boychoir is presenting 32 concerts in 17 states and three Canadian Provinces within the next six weeks. Tor will be traveling with the choir from Newfoundland to Palm Beach, Fla.

The Boychoir, under the direction of Donald Bryant, features on its concert program this year the one-act Mozart opera, "Bastien and Bastionne." Tor is appearing in the principal role of "Bastiene." He also appears as vocal soloist and flute soloist in several other selections during each performance. He was selected to sing the alto solo with the Juilliard Chorus in Leonard Bernstein's "Chichester Psalms" at the Juilliard School of Music on Friday evening, Dec. 8.

An eighth grade student at Boychoir School, he auditioned for the Columbus Boychoir while attending the summer session of the Boychoir in 1965. He has now travelled with the Boychoir for two years and also appears on the latest recording released by the choir, "The Columbus Boychoir." He has been a flute student of Mrs. Claude Monteux since he was six years old.

The Columbus Boychoir will return from tour to begin preparations for its annual Christmas Concert to be presented at McCarter Theatre of Princeton University on Thursday, Dec. 21.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Has anybody seriously thought that Christmas presents ought to be abolished? Not Christmas, mind you. Let us keep Christmas, with all its joys spiritual, temporal, gustatorial. But if there were no presents—what then?

In the first place no lists. Lists of possible gifts for children, grandmothers, aunts, with sizes, colors, and preferences, if they are known (grandmothers are not helpful in this regard; they don't want anything); lists which get lost and turn up behind the sofa around Easter; lists in notebooks, on scraps of paper, stuffed in coat pockets. Lists from which we buy young George a sport jacket, size fourteen, and too late remember that George weighs 160 pounds and the size fourteen is for Henry, only he wants ski boots.

The entire month of December is spent pursuing and satisfying these lists. It would be far simpler to give George and Henry the money and let them buy what they want, but that wouldn't be cricket. You must push your way hrough crowds of shoppers, take up the time of weary clerks, wait interminable hours for packages (the gift you take with you arrives first), and find a new hiding place because the children discovered the one you thought so clever last time. Then on an evening when everybody has gone to bed or is watching the Late Show you get out all the boxes and spend the night wrapping them and tying them with colored ribbon. It may take you untold hours to do up your packages, making them as pretty as they are in the women's magazines, but any child can undo one in three seconds flat and strew the living room floor with the paper besides.

Now of course a child is not going to be made happier if you say the money you would have spent on him is being given to UNESCO or the Heart Fund. We need to reorganize our system of Christmas giving altogether. I remember an episode in The Little House on the Prairie by Laura Ingalls Wilder, that children's classic that has been read to pieces by countless children and still is. There was no money in the Ingalls household, literally no money. Pa had built their house from logs he cut himself; their food was from last summer's garden, carefully preserved and dried and stored, and from the game Pa shot. Laura knew this well enough. She didn't expect they would remember Christmas. There wasn't even a red ribbon in the house. But she did get a Christmas present; it was a doll Pa had carved from a stick and Ma had dressed from scraps of calico. A wonderful Christmas gift, just one, unexpected, unasked for, cherished.

If we could somehow revert to such Christmas giving it would make a better holiday.

Counseling Takes Place at DCC

"Our aim will be to help people who may be thinking of starting a program of college studies—whether it turns out to be at Dutchess or elsewhere," said Miss Mary Solomita, assistant dean of students at Dutchess Community College.

She was referring to a series of counseling sessions that she and other members of the College's student personnel staff have arranged prior to the start of the winter-spring semester.

Counseling will be available at DCC Monday through Friday evenings and Saturday mornings, while the college is in session, up to registration on January 26 and 27, 1968.

"The counseling will be for students already enrolled at Dutchess but, especially, for people in the community who have contemplated a college program but need more information to get them started," commented Robert Moseley, dean of the Continuing Education Division at DCC.

"Often, we have people come up to the College who are very intelligent, but who just don't know about college procedures," he explained. "Frequently, we have people who know just what they want, but who present problems about selecting or transferring courses."

"All of us at Dutchess are aware of the fact that a college campus can be a somewhat bewildering place to someone who has been away from school for a long time," Miss Solomita said. "We hope that these counseling sessions will remove the confusion and perhaps some of the apprehension for people who would like to take advantage of what Dutchess has to offer."

COLD punches should be served icy cold. Alarge block or ring of ice chills a punch faster and dilutes less than ice cubes from a tray. However, for a non-alcoholic punch, make up a souble batch, freeze half the punch into ice cubes. As these 'punch cubes" melt, they won't dilute the punch or change the flavor.

JUST enough punch cups to go around? Identify each person's cup with a special stick-on decorative design using such items as Christmas stickers, adhesive-backed dime store "jewels" or strips of holiday tapes. Then, "lost" punch cups are easily found by the personalized mark.

Easy, Elegant Eggnog that sparkles: Just combine one quart dairy eggnog and one pint softened vanilla ice cream in a punch bowl. Slowly add two cups chilled 7-Up. Dust lightly with nutmeg and serve. Makes about 16 (4-ounce) servings. P.S. Spike with rum or brandy if desired.

The Holiday season is often a-whirl with entertaining and the wise hostess plans early when she will have her special party. No need to limit this special event to the usual . . . the more unusual your party, the more fun you may have. Consider: a holiday brunch on the weekend for a small number of friends, an old-fashioned Christmas afternoon party, and even a Twelfth Night party to wind up the holiday season. Or, early in the season, a Christmas card party for the neighbors . . all the women bring their greeting cards to your house for an afternoon of fun . . . and addressing cards. Just provide lots of writing space and a help-yourself table of punch and sweet tid-bits to refuel and refresh your guests.

Children like to have their own special Christmas parties and what better idea than a tree trimmed party for the youngsters. Ornaments can be made from paper, straws, foil, papier-mache or just about anything that the age and interests suggest. A young teenage girl, for example, might want to invite her friends to bake and decorate cookies for hanging on the tree. As hostess, she can bake some cookies ahead of time, and have a pitcher of punch or milk ready in the refrigerator to be served in decorative paper cups.

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker

HOLIDAY FOOD SHOPPING

With Christmas just two weeks away, many homemakers are preparing for holiday activities and parties. If baking is on the holiday food preparation schedule, it pays to shop ahead of time for needed recipe ingredients, says Louise M. Kakargo, Extension Home Economist. When it comes to selecting the meat for your festive dinner, it pays to compare costs among the wide choice available. Savings add up when there are guests to feed in addition to the family.

HAM AND TURKEY FEATURE ECONOMY FOR THE HOLIDAYS. Roast beef ma ybe the traditional Christmas meat choice in England, but ham will be the economical choice at our markets this year. Pork is plentiful, and prices are low. Specials on pork are likely to be featured in the weeks ahead, which means that a serving may cost even less.

If your family prefers the traditional rib roast of beef, it will probably cost about 45 cents a serving this holiday season. Supplies of high quality roasts have increased as more fed beef is coming to market.

Turkey continues to be the economical poultry choice. Supplies are markedly higher, particularly of the heavier weight birds, and prices are well below a year ago. Sales are likely during the holiday period, making turkey even more economical.

Other poultry choices for holiday dinners include goose and capon, Rock Cornish hen and duck Capons and Rock Cornish hens are young, tender-meated chickens that make nice roasts for a special holiday treat. Capons are particularly meaty.

When Rock Cornish hens weigh 1½ to 2 pounds, count on one bird to serve two persons. But smaller birds, 14 to 16 ounces in weight, should be served whole.

DRIED FRUIT SUPPLIES DIP THIS YEAR. — Dried fruit production is expected to be much smaller this year than last. Output of California natural sun-dried raisins is estimated at 40 per cent besow low average. Raisins and prunes although 11 per cent more than last year's light crop, are expected to total 5 per cent below anerage. Raisins and prunes make up about 85 per cent of the dried fruit produced. Far fewer dried apricots are anticipated as this year's crop was the smallest since 1 expect to find them tagged high prices.

WAYS TO SAVE MONEY USING DRIED FRUIT. Despite a decrease in supplies and an increase in price, many favorite holiday recipes call for dried fruits. One way to save money when you buy dried fruit is to compare the cost per cup of fruit. Try to use less costly fruits, like raisins, and prunes when possible. If a particular fruits, like raisins, and prunes, whether for flavor or color, perhaps you can use it in combination with one of the less costly fruits.

Christmas Eve Feast: Duck and Demitasse

BRAZILIAN DUCK

Christmas comes to South America during the summer season. Instead of holly and mistletoe, tropical plants and blossoms are the holiday decorations and a pine or cypress is the Christmas tree.

Traditionally, Brazilians observe Christmas as the most important religious festival of the year. It is a blend of solemnity and gaiety, old customs and new. Everyone in the family participates in the age-old ritual of building the sacred creche. On Christmas morning, the children hurry to see the wonderful toys Papai Noel has left in their tiny stockings and shoes.

Holiday dinner in Brazil is served after midnight Mass on Christmas Eve. As in North America, turkey is usually the featured dish, but delicious Christmas Duck or "Pato de Natal" is also popular.

The chestnut-filled "Pato de Natal" has a particularly enchanting flavor from the seasoned-wine marinade. It's a gourmet dish idea for holiday feasting!

The authentic accompaniment to Brazilian poultry is "Sarabulho"—a fruit, giblet and bread mixture served along with a duck. You will note there is no bread in the duck's chestnut filling.

DESSERT and DEMITASSE

Whatever the main course for Christmas dinner, or how plentiful it is, the Brazilians always have a little room left for the traditional fried egg toast called "Rabanadas." For something a trifle lighter, but still in keeping with Brazilian cookery, we suggest cool, sweet "Pudim de Cafe."

Dinner in Brazil, holiday and every day, ends with a cup, or two or three, of rich fragrant demitasse. If you would like demitasse at your holiday dinner, brew with one Approved Coffee Measure (equal to two level measuring tablespoons) of coffee to each four ounces of fresh, cold water per serving.

CHRISTMAS DUCK (Pato de Natal

2 cups dry white wine
2 garlic cloves, minced
Juice of 2 lemons
4 teaspoons salt divided
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped chives
2 ducklings, 4 to 5 lbs. each
Duck giblets, cooked and chopped
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Few grains pepper
1 lb. chestnuts, boiled and chopped
¼ lb. sliced bacon or ¼ lb. salt pork, sliced

Combine wine, garlic, lemon juice, 2 teaspoons salt, parsley and chives. Pour over ducklings. Marinate overnight. Drain ducklings and dry thoroughly. Stuff with the following mixture: chopped giblets, melted butter, nutmeg, pepper, chestnuts and remaining 2 teaspoons salt. Arrange slices of bacon or salt pork over breast. Roast at 375° for 1 hour and 45 minutes, or until done. Serve on hot platter. Makes 8 servings.

SARRABULHO (Fruit Relish)

1 pound pitted prunes
½ pound golden raisins
1 cup white wine
½ pound chicken livers
2 teaspoons butter or margarine
1 small onion, grated
Salt
Pepper
1 cup fresh bread cut in cubes
¼ cup milk

Cook prunes and raisins until tender in wine and enough water to cover. Cook chicken livers until tender in a little salted water, cut in small pieces and fry in a mixture of butter or margarine, onion, salt and pepper. Soak bread cubes in milk, then pass through a sieve and add to chicken livers. Finally mix in the fruits and juice. Serve hot, as an accompaniment to the duckling. Makes 8 servings.

PUDIM DE CAFE (Coffee Refrigerator Pudding)

12 egg yolks
2/3 cup sugar
6 tablespoons strong coffee
½ pound unsalted butter
Ladyfingers, split
Whipped cream
Chopped nuts

Beat egg yolks with sugar until creamy; add coffee gradually. Cook in top of double boiler until as thick as mayonnaise, stirring constantly. Cool. Add slightly softened butter and mix well. Chill over night. Line sherbet glasses with split ladyfingers. Fill glasses with "pudim." Garnish with whipped cream and chopped nuts. Makes 8 servings.

Save egg whites. Use to make an angel food cake or meringues. According to the newly- published cookbook, "The Other Half of the Egg," you can also freeze egg whites in individual plastic ice cube containers and thaw as needed.)

Come lift a stein with us over the holidays.

We're delighted to show you around our brewery any time. But we're especially glad to have you during the holidays. It's a sentimental time and we're sentimental people. In fact, when it comes to making beer, we're probably the most determinedly sentimental people you'll ever meet.

We age Utica Club for months to get exactly the kind of beer we want. Its taste is mellow. There is absolutely no bitterness. The foam is rich and creamy, with fine bubbles—the kind you get in champagne. Natural bubbles.

Can you tell we're proud of our beer? Well, we are. And we're equally proud of our brewery. Like a good cook's kitchen, it's spotless and filled with gleaming copper and stainless steel and tile. We think it's beautiful. Especially during the holidays. So drop in and see us anytime between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The drinks are on the house.

And by the way, if you like our illustration, we'll gladly send you a color poster version of it (without all these words). Just drop a note to me, Walter Matt, President, Utica Club Beer, Utica, New York 13503. Happy Holiday.
